U. S. 'COOL OFF' RESOLUTION FACES SOVIET UN VETO

MARKED BY CLASHES between U. S. Amb. Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Amb. Nikolai T. Fedorenko, the U.S. "breathing spell" resolution was presented yesterday to the 15-nation United Nations Security Council. Goldberg said the resolution called for Israel and its Arab neighbors to heed Secretary General Thant's appeal for a period of restraint in the Mideast war crisis. Federenko's rebuttal of Goldberg's remarks made it certain that Russia will exercise its veto on the resolution when the council meets again on Friday at 10:30 a.m. In other Mideast developments:

—THE ARABS presented their own resolution calling for the reaffirmation of the armistice agreement with Egypt that Israel denounced in 1956. Passage of the Arab resolution was doubtful.

—THE USS CARRIER Intrepid passed through the Suez Canal last night, but the State Dept. denied dispatches from Israel reporting plans by an American warship to test Egypt's blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.

—PRESIDENT JOHNSON, meeting with his top advisers, discussed the Russian movement of warships into the Mediterranean and other matters. A White House spokesman said "all the emphasis was on a UN settlement at this point."

EX-MEXICO PRESIDENT IN CRITICAL CONDITION

FORMER PRESIDENT of Mexico, Adolfo Lopez Mateos, 57, hospitalized following a massive cerebral hemorrhage, was in a coma last night and hospital attendants said his condition was critical.

Lopez Mateos, president from 1958 to 1964, has been ill with a brain aneurism for the past two years.

U. S. PLANES SMASH NO. VIET OIL DEPOTS

U.S. WARPLANES dodged curtains of flak and surface-to-air missiles yesterday to smash two vital oil depots within four miles of downtown Haiphong, North Vietnam's major seaport. The raids deflated Washington reports that targets within 10 miles of Haiphong and the capital of Hanoi were again untouchable.

The first strikes against the Communists' industrial heartland in five days followed new North Vietnamese assaults Tuesday on U.S. positions around the embattled demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams.

WAR JITTERS CAUSE YEAR'S BIGGEST STOCK LOSS

THERE WAS NO JOY in Wall Street Wednesday. Minus signs were appended to steels, oils, chemicals, motors, electronics, rails, airlines, aircrafts and other issues as they flashed across the big board. Observers said the wave of selling was caused by a possibility of a mideast war. The Dow Jones Industrial Average took its largest tumble since Oct. 3, 1966, dropping 12.42.

U. S. STUDYING DRUG AID IN MEDICAID PROGRAM

THE JOHNSON ADMINISTRATION said it would decide within six months, possibly by June or July, whether the Medicare Program should be expanded to make prescription drugs available for free or at reduced costs to persons over 65.

If recommended and approved by Congress, the plan would add several billion dollars a year to the cost of Medicare. Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner said a task force comprised of federal health and Social Security officials had been set up to study the matter.

SENATE PASSES 7 PERCENT TAX CREDIT BILL

THE SENATE PASSED by voice vote and sent to the White House yesterday a bill restoring the 7 per cent investment tax credit for business. The high priority measure requested by President Johnson last March 9 gives industry a $1.7 billion tax break.

The compromise measure restores tax incentives for industry which were suspended at the president's recommendation last October 10. Under the bill, a business may subtract from its final tax bill up to 7 per cent of the funds it spends on plant equipment and expansion.

PROBER SAYS M16 RIFLE ROW HURT MORALE

A HOUSE INVESTIGATOR said yesterday the only thing wrong with the M16 rifle was that there were too few of them. He said continued controversy over the weapon would only cause a morale problem in Vietnam. Rep. Richard Ichord (D-Mo.), chairman of an armed services subcommittee said there were not enough of the weapons to train troops in the United States adequately before they were sent to Vietnam.

But he said his subcommittee had found nothing to substantiate reports that the M16 had a tendency to jam in combat, resulting in unnecessary casualties.

NEWTON MAN FINED $4000 IN GUNS CASE

ARTHUR C. SCHWARTZ of Blake St., Newton, was given a suspended two-year jail sentence in U.S. District Court yesterday on a charge of transporting four guns from Kittery, Me., to Newton. Schwartz additionaly was placed on probation for three years and fined $4,000. He previously had pleaded guilty.

Asst. U.S. Atty. John M. Callahan told the court the defendant is a gun collector but that three of the guns were not collector's items.

ARM SURGERY BOY UNDERGOES MENTAL TESTS

A BOY, WHO MADE medical history five years ago, when his severed right arm was rejoined to his body, was at Westboro State Hospital today undergoing mental tests. He was arrested yesterday for allegedly stealing milk.

It marked the second time in five days that Everett (Red) Knowles Jr., 17, of Somerville appeared before District Judge Allen R. Kingston. Before sending Knowles to the hospital for 35 days observation, Kingston told the boy, "I'm very disappointed to see you here again."

STUDENT HELD FOR JURY IN ROOMMATES' DEATH

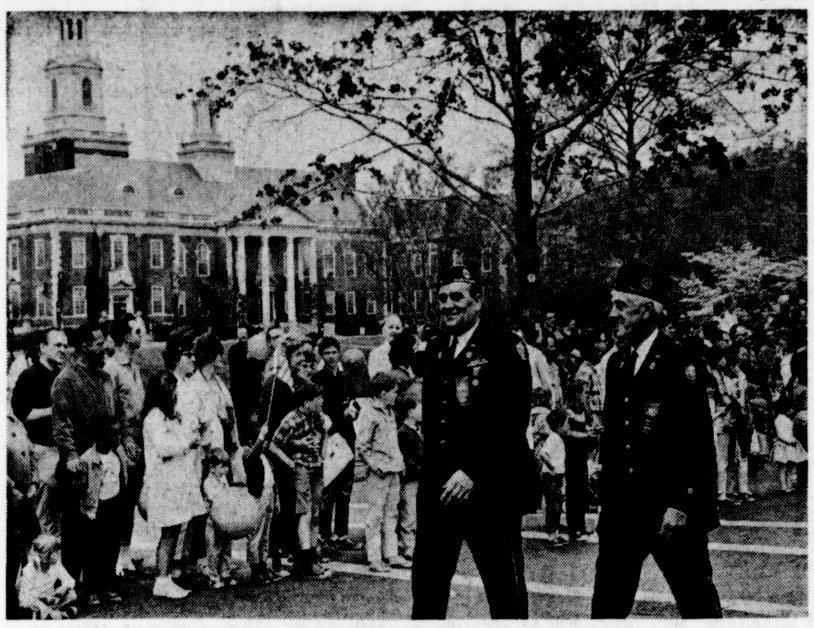

A 26-YEAR-OLD Lexington man, was bound over to the grand jury yesterday on charges of murder and arson in connection with the beating death March 23 of a fellow University of Massachusetts student. Northampton District Court Judge Charles O'Connor ordered Stephen Murphy held without bail.

Murphy was accused of beating UMass senior George Rollins, 22, of 514 School St., Belmont, and setting fire to his room in an Amherst boarding house where both lived.

NORTHEAST AIRLINES REPORT 4-MONTH LOSS

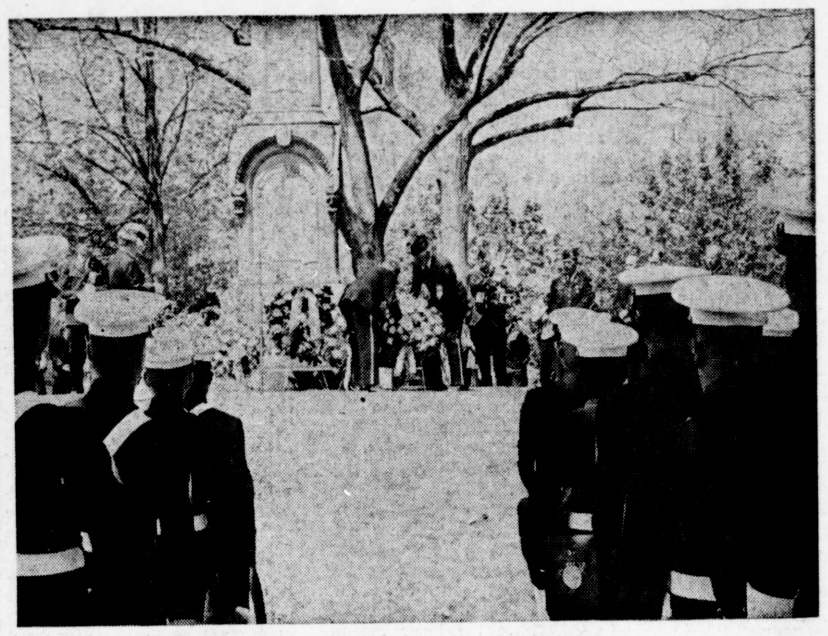

NORTHEAST AIRLINES reported Wednesday a net loss of $6,000 for the first four months of 1967 compared with a net profit of $518,000 a year ago. The 1966 figure was restated to reflect a $383,000 reduction in federal subsidy.

Northeast President F. C. Wiser said, poor weather during the first four months of 1967 forced cancellation of the equivalent of one week's service to Florida. In addition, he said, the early Easter this year cut the Florida season by three weeks.

Hale And Hearty At 74

Saltonstall Sees US Keeping Faith

Former U. S. Senator Leverett Saltonstall appeared hale and hearty at 74 Tuesday as he marched through Newton with Mayor Monte G. Basbas and ex-Mayor Donald L. Gibbs, leading the traditional Memorial Day parade as he has done for years.

Hundreds of spectators along the parade route applauded the public figures and the marching units on their way to the ceremonies held yearly to honor the memory of the men who gave their lives in their nation's wars.

Ex-Senator Saltonstall, speaking at exercises held at the GAR Monument in Newton Cemetery, paid tribute not only to the men who fought in past wars but also to those now fighting in Viet Nam to help "those Vietnamese who desire to govern themselves.

He declared that the United States is keeping its word in aiding the South Vietnamese in their struggle against Communism. "Our men are fighting and dying in a far-off land today, paying the price of liberty and freedom on which our country was founded," Saltonstall added.

College 'Thank You' Is Said With $2500

Mayor Monte G. Basbas has commended the recent action taken by Mount Ida Junior College in Newton in making payable a check in the amount of $2,500 to the City in lieu of taxes.

President F. Roy Carlson of the college made the presentation to the mayor at city hall. Mayor Basbas expressed appreciation to the college for its thoughtful consideration of the City's needs.

In making the presentation, Dr. F. Roy Carlson pointed out the many services contributed by the City of Newton in the past, which have directly benefitted the college.

He spoke specifically of the recent fires in the wooded area behind the college.

Mayor Basbas remarked that, to his knowledge, this was the first such contribution from any Newton institution, at least for the last seventeen years in which he has been associated with the City.

Mayor Basbas respectfully requested that the Board of Aldermen authorize the acceptance of the contribution and express the City's gratitude to Mount Ida Junior College.

See Tax Rate In Jump Of $4 to $5

Newton's tax rate will jump between $4 and $5 over last year's figure of $72.20, according to the calculations of experts on municipal finance.

Their estimates placed this year's rate at about $76.70. They scoffed at published reports that the rate will only rise $1, expressing the belief that it will be impossible for Mayor Monte G. Basbas to prevent a tax rate hike of over $4.

The Mayor is expected to announce the city's 1967 tax rate within the next two weeks.

City May Get Shifted From 10th District

Newton may be removed from the congressional district of Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler, a member of the legislative committee working on a plan for the creation of new congressional districts in Massachusetts told the Graphic yesterday.

In such an event the city probably would be added to the district of either Congressman Harold D. Donohue of Worcester or Congressman Philip J. Philbin of Clinton, it was indicated.

A bill which would eliminate the need for any congressional redistricting this year has been approved by the national House and is now awaiting action by the U.S. Senate.

See Ted-Volpe Clash in '70 If LBJ Gains Another Term

Whenever Governor Volpe's top advisers discuss his future political course they base their comments on the assumption that a Republican will be elected President next year.

As they see it, Volpe either will be elected President or Vice President in 1968 or will be appointed to a cabinet position when he completes his term as Governor at the end of 1970.

That's a reasonable forecast of what's likely to happen - - if it can be safely assumed that the Republican Presidential standard-bearer will defeat President Johnson a year from November.

However, even though LBJ's political stock is

Dr. Menninger Lauds Local Mental Center

Recently inaugurating an Annual Memorial Lecture in Newton in memory of his brother, Dr. Will Menninger, under the auspices of the Newton Mental Health Assn., Murray E. Sholkin, chairman, Dr. Karl Menninger both lauded the citizens of Newton for having the vision to establish such a Center and strongly urged more and wider participation by the community.

"Mental health — or mental ill health — is everyone's business," he said, "and the healthier individuals we become, the healthier society we build. Everyone must pass through many phases of emotional growth and development, but everyone doesn't have the inner resources to master his own problems and some need help. A little help goes a long way, especially for the young."

Dr. Menninger recapitulated a miniscule history of what he called "The Three Psychiatric Revolutions," the first one starting when Dorothy Dix first became aware of emotionally disturbed children being left in her Sunday School class for lack of anything else to do with them.

She became incensed at the non-treatment and crusaded to arouse the citizenry of the need to help these children. As a result, the first state hospital was established about the time of the Civil War.

Second, about the turn of the century, feeling was once again generated which gave rise to the realization of the need for facilities in the urban areas where the greatest number of people were living, and the first city hospital for the treatment of emotional illness was built in Boston, which we once knew as the Boston Psychopathic Hospital, and after which many states followed suit.

We are now living during the 3rd psychiatric revolution wherein the emphasis is shifting to the suburbs along with the people and local community mental health centers are more readily accessible to everyone.

Dr. Menniger said that Massachusetts once was a leader in the field of mental health and, although it had slipped in the past, will once again be in the forefront with the implementation of the new Mental Health Bill. Through this new program, combined with an enlightened citizenry and new techniques in the field of psychiatry, more and more people are being reached sooner and helped in a shorter period of time.

As a result, the number of people sent to state hospitals has been reduced to about 1/10th and the number of years spent there has been drastically reduced from an average of about 25 years to about 5 years.

Speaking about the Newton Mental Health Center under the Directorship of Dr. William Stone, he said, "There is something harmonious about a Mental Health Center being right across the street from the high school. Children are the most underestimated and their difficulties are the most, but they show the greatest results. Children give us the greaest hope."

Rothstein was chairman of the Fine Arts and Furnishing Committee which coordinated the project. He will speak on the Sanctuary as a work of art.

Mr. Bronstein will discuss the historical background of the tapestry and its meaning to the congregational family and Temple community.

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, spiritual leader of Temple Shalom of Newton, will speak on the concept of beauty as a religious dimension and the sense of enhancement which beauty gives to our spiritual aspirations. He will lead the congregation in the recital of the "Shehecheyanu", the traditional prayer recited at times of thanksgiving for the attainment of worthy religious objectives in the life of the person and the community. A reception will follow the Service.

Congresswoman Heckler Lasell Jr. College Speaker

Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler will be the commencement speaker for the 112th graduation exercises of Lasell Junior College, Auburndale, Sunday morning, June 4, at 11 o'clock, on Lasell's campus. More than 250 candidates will be presented degrees by Lasell's Trustee Chairman, Wilder Smith, and Dr. Vincent C. De Baun, president, for whom it will be the first commencement of his presidency at Lasell.

Congresswoman Heckler, who served for four years as the only Republican member of the Massachusetts Governor's Council, was elected to the 90th Congress from Massachusetts' 10th district, upsetting veteran Congressman Joseph Martin in the race. Mrs. Heckler, a graduate of Albert Magnus College and a former exchange student at the University of Leiden, Holland, received her law degree from Boston College (1956) where she was editor of the Law Review.

She is a member of the Boston Bar Association, Massachusetts' Trial Lawyers' Association, and the Women Lawyers' Association. Her political career began in her student days when she was student director of the Eisenhower campaign of 1952. She also founded the Young Republican Club at Boston College.

She served as Vice President of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, as Women's Co-ordinator in the Congressional campaign of the Hon. F. Bradford Morse, and has been a member of town meeting, as well as having served on Republican town committee. Her husband, John M. Heckler, is an institutional investment broker with Harris, Upham and Company. Mr. and Mrs. Heckler have two daughters and a son.

In 1965 Congresswoman Heckler was named one of the Outstanding Young Women in America. When she speaks at Lasell, the Hon. Margaret Heckler will have just returned from a trip abroad with the Government Operations Committee.

Lasell's 112th Commencement will culminate two days' events honoring the seniors. There will be a senior-freshman picnic; the traditional Class Day luncheon on June 3 will be followed by the crowning of the June Queen and the president's informal reception. Class Night exercises that evening will be followed by the torchlight-parade and a farewell ceremony.

EDWIN HAWKRIDGE

Hawkridge To Seek 6th Term On School Board

Ward 5 School Committeeman Edwin Hawkridge today announced his candidacy for reelection to a sixth term on the School Board.

Hawkridge, who resides at 92 Winsor road, Waban, was born in Boston in 1921, although his family moved to Newton in 1926.

He is a graduate of the Rivers Country Day School, of which he has served as an incorporator, and of Dartmouth College (cum laude.) He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, the National Scholastic Honorary Fraternity.

Hawkridge served as a destroyer gunnery officer during World War II, returning to civilian life in 1946 as a lieutenant with four battle stars for action in the Pacific and a Presidential Citation.

Joining Hawkridge Brothers Company, a metals distributing concern founded by his grandfather, he became vice-president and a director in 1952, and president in 1957. He has served as president of the New England Chapter of the Steel Service Center Institute and as a national director of that trade association. He is also a director of the Vulcan Tool Manufacturing Co. and of Alcoma Asso. Inc.

He has served as a director of the Newton Mental Health Association since its founding and was recently elected president of the organization. He is chairman of the Dartmouth College Alumni Interviewing Committee in Newton.

Hawkridge participated for many years in the annual Red Feather campaigns, rising to Assistant Residential Chairman. He is a former director of the Newton Taxpayers Association and a former member of the Republican City Committee.

He is married to the former Edith Crouse. They have five children, three in the Newton public schools. Mrs. Hawkridge has been a Board member of the Angier PTA and the Waban Improvement Association and has been active as a Red Cross Blood Volunteer.

In making his announcement Hawkridge stated: "In the last two years, pressures for improvement of programs in the public schools of Newton have continued to increase.

"Whether they be demands for a school lunch program or improved reading aid for dyslectic children, to mention only two, they compete with each other for available funds, and the School Committee must determine a balance between the need for additional service and the effect of these additional costs on the real estate tax and ultimately on the city," he said.

"When one realizes that school costs are going to increase a minimum of 5 per cent a year without changes in program and staffing, a real dilemma appears," the Ward 5 Committeeman stated. "I offer my candidacy for a sixth term with confidence that my 10 years of experience can help resolve these problems intelligently in the best interests of both the schools and the city."

A Shadow Falls Over All

It is frightening to the average citizen to discover that Cosa Nostra members boast of their connections with government officials and judges in private conversations between themselves.

It is comforting to learn that the private conversations were not so private and that for three years and four months every word spoken in the office of Cosa Nostra overlord, Raymond Patriarca, was recorded by means of an electronic listening device planted and monitored by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Although the many, many names of the officials mentioned by members of the infamous Mafia were deleted from the records made public recently by the FBI, they are known to J. Edgar Hoover and his Bureau..

Revelation that the Cosa Nostra bragged of their "connections" with men in positions of high trust was made by U.S. Atty. Edward P. Gallogly of Rhode Island. He said that what was made public by the FBI only covered about 20 days of what went on in Patriarca's office during the three years and four months the "bug" was in operation.

"There were certain discussions during which men present, in braggadocio, mentioned prominent people in government, judges and such in connection with their activities," Gallogly said.

He said the names were deleted from the material made public by the FBI and that there were "many, many" of them.

It was not revealed whether the names mentioned by the gangsters were members of the federal, Massachusetts or Rhode Island governments or judiciary. It doesn't matter. It's a horrifying thought that men who were elected or appointed to positions of honor and trust might be tools of the Cosa Nostra.

Unfortunately, when something like this is revealed, without naming names, a shadow falls over all, and the public bitterly casts all judges and government officials in the same mold.

This is patently unfair because it is only a few - if any - who betray their trust. Those few - if any - are known to the FBI.

We feel that the great, great majority of our appointed or elected officials are honest and doing the best job they can in the best way they know how.

Open Letter To Teeners

"Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teenagers: "What can we do? Where can we go?"

"The answer is: Go home.

"Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork. Rake the leaves. Mow the lawn. Shovel the walk. Wash the car. Learn to cook. Scrub some floors. Repair the sink. Build a boat. Get a job.

"Help the minister, the priest or the rabbi, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Visit the sick. Assist the poor. Study your lessons. And then when you are through, and not tired, read a book.

"Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your town does not owe you recreation facilities. The world does not owe you a thing. You owe the world something. You owe it your time and energy and your talents so that no one will be at war or in poverty, or sick, or lonely.

"In plain, simple words: Grow up; quit being cry babies; get out of your dream world. Start acting like a man or a lady."

The above "Open Letter To A Teen Ager" was not written by us. It was the creation of a police chief in a small village in Virginia who distributed it at a Parents Teachers Association meeting.

We feel the letter was not meant for all teen agers. Only to those who ask: "What can we do ? Where can we go?"

METCO Group Honors Teachers Of Newton

Hot tea and warm thanks were the antidote for last Thursday's rainstorm, when Newton teachers were honored by the Newton METCO Committee at a reception held at the First Unitarian Church in West Newton. Invited guests were the 43 teachers at seven schools in Newton who have been responsible for the education of the 50 youngsters bussed there this year from Boston in the voluntary METCO (Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunity) program.

Speaking for the Newton METCO Committee, Mrs. Katherine Jones praised the teachers as "the ones who really helped make the program meaningful." Calling attention to the large number of people who had helped make the year a success, she singled out for special thanks "the teachers who stayed after school and the principals who drove pupils to Boston when their bus didn't come."

Joseph Killory, director of METCO, stated that because of the cooperation of teachers, principals, school systems, parents and committees, the results of this year's program had exceeded his wildest expectations.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, assistant director, said, "Speaking for the parents of the children, I feel METCO is one of the best things that has happened to us. I hope it will grow."

Mrs. Norma Mintz, member of the School Committee, who also served as a "host family" to a Boston youngster, praised the Newton teachers for their dedication to first-rate teaching. "They understand," she said, "that learning must be relevant to the world our children will live in." She felt that METCO had contributed to all those connected with it, especially in helping the middle-class child to experience and appreciate diversity. Calling attention to the many communities joining METCO next fall, she concluded, "It is my hope that we will be able to take some additional children as a token of our commitment and the success of the program."

Mrs. Peggy Hall, representing the Roxbury Parents Council, conveyed the thanks of all the Boston parents to the teachers, "who have had the most responsible job."

Political Highlights

believed to be low at the present time there's no assurance whatever that the next President will be a Republican.

As a matter of fact, President Johnson's popularity appears to be on the rise after hitting rock-bottom.

On the other hand, Michigan Governor George Romney, who on the basis of the polls currently looms as the top GOP Presidential prospect, seems to be losing ground as he commits himself on hard issues.

The record certainly provides no grounds for GOP optimism. In the last nine Presidential elections the Republican candidate has emerged the victor only twice.

The two GOP wins were scored in 1952 and 1956 by Dwight D. Eisenhower who attracted massive public support because he was a great war hero, not because of his association with the Republican party or what the party stood for.

It is a fact of political life that the GOP has shown a faculty for losing Presidential elections and for snatching defeat from the jaws of victory.

If we were to make a long-range guess at this time, it would be that President Johnson will win reelection by a narrow margin next year.

If that happens, there will be no cabinet position awaiting Volpe when he ends his term in the Governorship.

What will Volpe do if Lyndon Johnson is still President in 1970?

The answer from the Volpe adherents who only reluctantly contemplate the possibility of a Democratic President sitting in the White House from 1969 through 1972 is that in such a turn of events Governor Volpe probably would challenge Senator Edward M. Kennedy in the 1970 election.

They add that the three choices confronting Volpe would be:

1. To oppose Ted Kennedy.

2. To seek another term as Governor, an office he then would have held for eight years.

3. To retire to private life when he is virtually committed to a career of public service.

Those close to Volpe think the first alternative is the likeliest—if a Democrat is President.

Ted, Brooke Differ On Professional Army

The two Massachusetts members of the U.S. Senate have taken sharply opposing sides on the question of recruiting a volunteer, career army to eliminate or lessen the need for a draft.

Republican Senator Edward W. Brooke proposed the creation of a well-paid, highly-trained, professional army, maintaining that it might attract enough volunteers so there would be no need for drafting young men.

Senator Ted Kennedy, who has repeatedly called for reforms in the selective service system, lists a number of pungent reasons why he feels the proposal for a professional army is not a good one .

"During the course of our hearings we considered alternatives to the present draft system," Ted Kennedy asserts. "Among the most popular concepts suggested so far are the voluntary army and a system of alternative national service. But both of these, I believe, pose many unanswered questions.

"The concept of the voluntary army present a number of difficulties," Ted declares. "The first is the influence that such an army might have on our conduct of foreign policy.

"Historically, foreign policy decisions which have involved our nation in military action have been made with the full knowledge that the burden of the fighting will be borne equally," Ted continues.

"We have all become involved in determining the wisdom of our foreign policy because so many of our young men are affected by it. The national involvement acts as one of the checks on the use of our power. If we did not have this check—if we had a standing army of volunteers who would fight our battles for us—our conduct of foreign policy could well become much less responsible, much more arbitrary.

"A second major drawback is the fact that a voluntary army would eventually become a mercenary army, and very likely a Negro army, because the most disadvantaged materially in the nation would tend to be attracted by the pay and the benefits of the military service," the senior Bay State Senator maintains.

"Also among the difficulties of a voluntary army is the cost of maintaining such a force—the Defense Department has estimated the additional cost of a voluntary army at from $4 to $17 billion a year. And another problem is flexibility. If we had a volunteer army at a time when we needed a rapid troop buildup—as in the Berlin crisis, for instance, or the present situation in Vietnam—how would we raise the additional volunteers? Presumably by offering more mony, which would jack up the costs of the system even more," Senator Kennedy observes.

Ted Kennedy's arguments in opposition to the recruitment of a professional army are extremely convincing. Some people, however, still believe Brooke made a good case in urging the creation of such an army and that the people of the United States should be prepared to meet the expense involved.

Sparklers Said Threat To Safety of Children

Unless members of the State Legislature move swiftly to repeal a law enacted during the closing stages of last year's session, children in this community and throughout other sections of Massachusetts will have the privilege of burning themselves and endangering their own safety and that of others "with sparklers" for a 35-day period starting June 10.

Back in 1943 the fire chiefs and other safety officials succeeded in obtaining the passage of a law which prohibited the sale or use of fireworks in Massachusetts.

It now develops that in the closing days of the 1966 legislative session a bill sponsored by Senator William Weeks of Cohasset was adopted, amending the law to permit the sale of "sparklers," described as "safe fireworks, "for 35 days beginning June 10.

The fire chiefs, headed by Chief Walter Carter of Lynn, president of their organization, have been striving to knock out the provision sanctioning the sale of "sparklers."

A measure designed to strike out that section of the fireworks law was endorsed by the legislative committee on public safety. Then, to the dismay of the fire chiefs, Representative Janet Starr of Belmont, like Weeks a Republican, tacked onto the repeal bill an amendment permitting the sale of sparklers up to a foot in length.

Now there is a question as to what, if anything, will happen before the June 10 deadline when "sparklers" are scheduled to go on sale.

The fire chiefs say they don't know where Senator Weeks or Representative Starr got the idea that "sparklers" are safe fireworkers or that a 12-inch "sparkler" is a sane plaything in the hand of a child.

They admit they have special interests in seeking to change the existing law. They're interested in trying to save the lives and limbs of children who may mortally or grieviously burn themselves with "sparklers" while it's legal to do so.

The fire chiefs cite the cases of a small boy and girl who were burned to death while playing with "sparklers" last year, of a boy who lost the sight of both eyes, of a little girl who is still hospitalized with burns she suffered almost a year ago.

Experts report that "sparklers" burn at a temperature of about 2000 degrees and are extremely dangerous.

We may witness a first-hand demonstration that this is so unless the Legislature takes quick action to knock out a provision which never should have been placed in the law.

Davoren, Donahue Blunt Snub To Ted

House Speaker John F. X. Davoren and Senate President Maurice A. Donohue lined up the votes necessary to obtain initial legislative approval for a proposed constitutional amendment which would lower the voting age from 21 to 19.

In so doing they blunted a snub which a substantial number of Democratic law-makers previously had administered to Senator Ted Kennedy who was known to favor a reduction in the voting age.

At a previous joint session of the House and Senate proposals for lowering the voting age to both 18 and 19 were rejected. Davoren, however, was ill at home at that time.

When Davoren recovered from his illness and returned to the State House, he shifted enough votes so that a suggested amendments to the State Constitution which would fix the minimum voting age at 19 was easily passed at a joint convention of the two legislative bodies.

Collins To Announce His Plans Next Week

Boston Mayor John F. Collins will announce next week whether he will stand for reelection to a third term as chief executive of the capital city or will retire to private life at the end of the year.

Unless Collins has changed his mind during his visit to Ireland, he will disclose that he will not run again and will leave office next Dec. 31.

Mayor Collins has declared all along that he probably would not stand for another term but that he was leaving the door open to the possibility that he might change his mind.

The thing was that most politicians and political writers didn't believe what Collins said but assumed he was just being coy and that there was no likelihood he would voluntarily leave the office of Mayor.

Collins usually means precisely what he says.

World Of Light In Photography Now At Library

The Fantastic World of Light as seen in the photographs of Georgia Litwack is on display at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street.

Mrs. Litwack, a free-lance photographer who lives in Newton, has taught photography at the Boston Center for Adult Education, and her pictures have been published in books, newspapers and magazines.

In her display at the Main Library she demonstrates how the photographer must control light to give meaning to his photographs. She illustrates two major roles of light in photography in this exhibit: as illumination, and as the subject.

Mrs. Litwack is a member of a creative photography workshop conducted by Minor White, Professor and Curator of Photography at M.I.T. Her photographs have been exhibited at the Museum of Science, Boston, and locally at the Newton Savings Bank.

Light in Photography will remain on display through June 20. Included is a wide selection of books on photography.

Wind And Rain A Reminder Of Carol, Edna And Diane

Last week's prolonged, unseasonable storm bore no feminine name, but its torrential rains and hurricane-force gusts did cause extensive damage in Newton, bringing memories of the more violent disturbances called Carol, Edna and Diane that hit this area with unladylike intensity 12 and 13 years ago.

Winds that attained a 60-mile velocity at times last week brought down branches of trees all over the city, uprooted small trees and shrubs and kept Edison crews busy Thursday night and Friday morning picking up fallen wires and restoring power service.

The watery blow was a factor in a number of accidents.

In one, a tree fell on the small car of Hazel O'Donnell of 64 Oakwood Ave., Newtonville, as she drove along Herrick Rd., Newton Centre. She was treated for back injuries at Newton-Wellesley Hospital and released.

Jack Graber of 183 Florence St., Chestnut Hill, was treated for a concussion after his car was involved in a collision on a Walnut St. curve in Newton Highlands.

There were some 110 accidents of cars damaged by falling limbs reported to police. There were parts of the city without power and lights throughout Thursday night, and parts of Newton Highlands were in darkness for approximately five hours.

No injuries resulted from two other accidents reported that may have been due to storm-caused conditions.

In one, cars driven by Mark Sherman of 37 Sevland Rd., Newton Centre, and Herbert S. Ober of 414 Brookline St., Newton Centre, collided near 391 Dudley Rd.

In another two-car collision, the drivers were listed as Hal J. Wilkins of Northboro and Ronald W. Villa of Hyde Park. Their cars came together on Boylston St., Newton Highlands, near Woodcliff Rd.

Lee Loumos Says:

There is a very peculiar situation right now with respect to supplies of window air conditioners. In spite of the very poor way weather in New England and the concurrent local slow down in new installations, there is a very severe shortage of air conditioning units. The climate to the south has been hot and humid and coupling this with the yearly increase in demand for air conditioning, factories are hard put to keep pace. Even now, I have been waiting for over a month for some special sizes I have on back order. I wonder what will happen when our weather turns, which I have no doubt will occur any day now. Let's hope the weather will cool off in other parts of the country so that supplies can be diverted to us in New England. But what will happen if the weather stays warm everywhere? At any rate, if you know you are going to put in air conditioning this year, you might as well act now and be sure of getting the correct size unit.

Alice G. Boyden Is Lauded For Her Social Work

A local resident was among the 12 persons presented special recognition awards for outstanding service on behalf of mental retardation by the Mass. Association for Retarded Children at annual convention at Eastover in Lenox.

Mrs. Harry Finkel of Sharon, president of MARC, in presenting the award to Miss Alice G. Boyden of Newtonville, said, "This award of special recognition is presented to a social worker whose love of children did not allow her to retire.

"Miss Boyden spent a lifetime as a medical social worker, and looked forward to a well-earned rest upon retirement. However, her concern for retarded children led her to the MARC Retardate Trust as a part-time employe. She has taken to this position with renewed vigor and devotes many hours beyond what is required in visiting all of her children.

"Her love, warmth, understanding, and fighting spirit for the rights of our mentally retarded is to be admired by all. Members of the Retardate Trust can never forget how she relates her case stories with a sincere commitment to her professional code — that hers is a public trust which requires integrity, compassion, belief in the dignity and worth of human beings, respect for individual differences, a commitment to service and a dedication to truth. For Miss Boyden, as she is affectionately called, is truly a social worker in the true sense of the word."

Playing Cards, Ancient And Modern, At Library

Aces are high at the Newton Free Library, during June, in an exhibit of antique and modern playing cards. The display is part of the collection of Professor and Mrs. Louis H. Orzack of Newton, who have been collecting cards for about two years.

The oldest card in their collection was made in Milton, Mass. in 1800 by one Jazamiah Ford. It's a jack of hearts, has square corners, and like all picture cards or court cards of that time, it shows only one figure.

Playing cards go back as far as the 1300's in Italy, France and Germany. They became widely popular in the 15th century; they were frequently condemned, taxed and regulated.

The Orzacks have included in their exhibit examples of tarot or fortune-telling cards, marked cards, jumbo cards, circular cards, and miniature cards plus cards from the U.S., Switzerland, Austria, Germany, France, Spain, Portugal, Israel, Great Britain, Mexico, Japan and Morocco.

Professor Louis H. Orzack is a member of the faculty of Boston University, Department of Sociology. On leave from B.U he is currently assistant director of Mental Retardation, Massachusetts Department of Mental Health. His wife, Dr. Maressa H. Orzack, is an experimental psychologist engaged in research on psychopharmacology as Research Associate, Medfield Foundation and Division of Psychiatry, Boston University School of Medicine.

The Library has assembled a group of books on card games, collecting cards, magic tricks with cards and fortune telling.

June 11th Parade Invites Both "Doves" and "Hawks"

With both "doves and hawks" taking part, a Loyalty March will be held in Cambridge on Sunday, June 11, with the prime motif an opportunity for the general public to show its support for the U.S. fighting forces in Vietnam.

The march is organized with the idea of transcending all political convictions, according to Jerry Foley, chairman of the committee in charge.

Chairman Foley stated that the march neither supports nor opposes the U.S. involvement in Vietnam, it simply recognizes the caliber of the American fighting man in Vietnam. A committee of 20 Greater Boston residents, many of them young adults, have organized the Loyalty March.

Chairman Foley stated that it is the opinion of many that the American public has been indifferent for too long toward the morale of our fighting men. We must in some way show them that they have our unrelenting support.

The March-In will form in Harvard Square at 1:30 p.m., on Sunday, June 11 and proceed down Massachusetts avenue, across the M.I.T. Bridge to Commonwealth ave. then on to the Boston Common where a program will be held.

"We would like to call upon all organizations, and individuals to support our cause in bolstering the morale and in giving needed support to the men and women now serving in Viet-Nam. We need ordinary citizens, honor guards, bands, drum and bugle corps.

"We hope that by means of this March our soldiers in Viet-Nam will know they have the support of others besides their families, Foley said.

He may be contacted at: Jerry Foley, 1200 Commonwealth ave., Allston, Mass., Tel: 731-0638.

Headlights And Highlights From Newton South High

By JAMES SHULMAN

Two outstanding students from Cutler House of Newton South High School, Lynn White and Victor Lerish received the Cutler House Scholarship Award and the Ferris Memorial Award respectively. Each Award is worth $150.

The students were chosen by the members of the Senior Class who are in Cutler House, and the teachers. Lynn and Victor were given the Awards on the basis of their character, leadership, and service to Cutler House.

The first annual Ferris Memorial Award, is in honor of Robert C. Ferris, who is the first Newton South boy who lost his life in the struggle for peace in Vietnam.

Warrant Officer Ferris enlisted in the Army in November of 1965. He had been in Vietnam only two months before he died, while piloting a helicopter that crashed and burned on an assault mission January 14, 1967.

After two hectic weeks of planning, producing and praying The Newton South English Department's presentation of "An Evening of Poetry, Dramatic Reading, Music and Dance," produced by Mr. Jonathan Slater, was a "smashing success."

Many students forcasted a small turnout and had pessimistic views about the production because there was never a real serious drama of this kind ever presented before for the students enjoyment at South. The students forecasts were like those of the weatherman, wrong as usual. A near capacity filled auditorium of people weathered the unbearable storm last Thursday and when the presentation was over the audience lauded heaps of praise on all the actors and actresses aand especially Jonathan Slater for his fine production and Mr. Louis Weingarden for his beautifully composed and conducted music. Many hope to see more of this kind of drama presented at Newton South.

Two musically inclined students from Newton South took part in two different Pops Concerts, Bruce Lewis anad Terry Bryant.

Bruce, a Junior, played with Pops May 20 for the kidney benefit. He played the last movement of Beethoven's first concerto in C major. After Bruce's flawless performances he said that this was the most exciting thing that had ever happened to him.

Previous to this memorable experience Bruce played with members of the Boston Symphony at Temple Mishkan Tefila, under the direction of Harry Ellis Dickson, assistant conductor of the Boston Pops.

Theresa Bryant was honored by being selected as a solo singer for "Newton Nite" at Pops, May 28. Terri was one of five musicians who auditioned for this great honor, and when told she was chosen, Terri was in a state of "disbelief." Her beautiful tone came through clear as a bell when she sang an aria from "Carmen" and "Summertime" from "Porgy and Bess."

Terri is a soloist at the Newton Center Methodist Church. This past year she stared in the musical "Where's Charley" at Newton South, and in last year's South musical, "Little Mary Sunshine."

NEWTON COMMUNITY PEACE CENTER

"THE TREE OF HOPE"

An Appeal to the Newton Business Community:

"A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step".

That single step was taken four years ago when the Newton Community Peace Center was activated. From small beginnings, the Center has come into maturity particularly during the past 12 months. The concept for its reason for being has become more clearly evident as the Vietnam war has escalated and continues to escalate.

Over the past year, the Newton Community's concern for Peace was never more evident than at the two Vietnam meetings held in the Mason Rice School and the Newton South High School attended by some 800 Newton residents which in turn led to another 150 persons expressing their concerns in discussion groups conducted at 12 House meetings in the Newton area. These meetings both focused and galvanized awareness and attention for both the need for and meaning of the Peace Center as a forum and community social action group, non-political and non-sectarian. For, Peace is everybody's business!

But, even a Peace Center needs financial support. The Eliot Church of Newton has provided office space without charge where pamphlets, books and other materials in the interest of Peace are available to all. This office is open daily from 9 A.M. until noon, with an Executive Secretary in charge. The small monies required for postage, mailings and operating expenses have thus far been borne by individual members of the Advisory and Supporting Council who have given their time and sponsorship to the Center and by a membership of some 124 Newton residents who contribute $2.00 each in annual dues.

The work now started and developing so promising must now have a broader base of financial support in membership and contributions for its effective continuation. The business interests of the Newton Community, both corporate and individual, are therefore being asked to lend their support now by making their financial contribution to this important community activity. As a non-profit organization, your contribution is tax-deductible.

May we ask that you keep this effort alive by your contribution of $5, $10, $25 or whatever amount you are prompted to give so that the Newton Community may register its voice in unison with our State and National leaders for the end of war and hopefully look toward Peace in our time!

Your contribution will be gratefully acknowledged and a receipt for tax purposes sent you, if desired. A grateful Newton Community thanks you!

Cordially yours,

Hirsh Sharf

Group Approves Proposal For Town Houses

The first formal meeting of the new Beacon-Washington Neighborhood Association was held at St. Mary's Church, Newton Lower Falls on Thursday, May 25. The purpose of the organization, as explained by the chairman, Mr. C. A. McCarthy, is to protect the residential character of the neighborhood and to co-operate with other civic groups.

Guest speakers included Aldermen William P. Matthews, Louis Egelson and H. James Shea, Jr., who congratulated the members for their interest in city affairs and their constructive attitude toward city problems.

Members of the Beacon-Washington Neighborhood Association were especially interested in the proposed change in the Zoning Ordinance to permit the construction of so-called "Town Houses". Luster T. Delany and Louis Rubenstein illustrated the type of town houses which they have built in Brookline. These are extremely attarctive and appeal to people who desire all the comforts of a single home without the responsibility of care. The reaction of the group was most favorable to the type of houses described.

Officers elected by the Association for the coming year were Charles Albert McCarthy, president; Roger Cederlund, vice-president; Mrs. Frances Coyne, secretary, and Harold Fine, treasurer.

Bible Lesson Science Church

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Bible Lesson to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The responsive reading is from Psalm 78, and includes this verse: "And they remembered that God was their rock, and the high God their redeemer."

Peace "Blitz" Planned In Newton For Com'g Summer

Have significant inroads been made to combat apathy among Newton citizens on vital issues of war and peace? Definitely yes, according to Leonard Salter, outgoing president of the Newton Community Peace Center. Salter, a well-known Boston attorney, pointed to a forthcoming program "Vietnam Summer" and to the Peace Center's educational program over the past year as reliable indicators.

Reviewing the year's achievements and plans for the future at the Peace Center's annual meeting held last Tuesday, Salter stated that the peace movement, often described as the province of "beats"-off and dead-has definitely become "respectable" in Newton.

He pointed to a 150 percent increase in Peace Center membership (which was opened officially to the public-at-large only last June) to the roster of important Newton residents who have continued to support the Peace Center through its advisory council; and to a program which over the 1966-67 season attracted Newton audiences totaling more than 750.

Peace "Blitz" planned for Newton, climaxing a year of peace education activities which has included community-wide meetings of the Draft and Vietnam, co-sponsorship of a United Nations Day Dinner and an International Student Weekend as well as two meetings on Vietnam conducted at the request of the Boston Y.W.C.A. by a Peace Center member, Mrs. Bernard Jacobson, is a new intensified peace-education drive which will sweep Newton this summer

The drive, which seeks to bring the techniques of the civil rights movement to the peace effort, will be known as Vietnam Summer, according to Lee Webb, national director of the movement which has offices in nearby Cambridge. Mr. Webb, a native of Brookline with extensive organizing experience in the fields of both civil rights and peace, was the featured speaker at the Newton Peace Center's annual meeting.

Mr. Webb described how the Vietnam Summer program will attempt to rally massive grass-roots support on a national basis calling on the Administrative for more vigorous efforts to halt the war in Vietnam through negotiations.

Newton, as a sample community, will be saturated by a door-to-door campaign in which citizens will be encouraged to air their views on the war, to discuss them with their neighbors, attend small neighborhood meetings and seminars, and generally to educate themselves on the issues and alternatives in war-torn Vietnam.

Mr. Webb expressed the conviction that public sentiment is actually far more opposed to the continuation of the war than public opinion polls indicate. He pointed out that frequently citizens will admit reservations about Administration policy in private but will not express them publically because of fear of being misunderstood by neighbors and fellow workers. Mr. Webb also showed how public opinion polls can be biased and statistically inaccurate.

After Mr. Webb's talk, discussion groups considered his message and voted that: "THE NEWTON COMMUNITY PEACE CENTER FORM AN AD HOC COMMITTEE WITH REPRESENTATIVES FROM ALL ORGANIZATIONS IN NEWTON INTERESTED IN PEACE AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS TO EXPLORE THE NEXT STEPS IN IMPLEMENTING THE VIETNAM SUMMER PROGRAM IN THIS COMMUNITY." The kick-off meeting of the ad hoc group was held last Thursday, May 25th at the Peace Center, located in Eliot Church in Newton.

General arrangements for the Peace Center's annual meeting were handled by members of the executive committee: Mrs. Lawrence Cooke, Mrs. David Nemzoff, Mrs. John Samuel, Mrs. Proctor Houghton with the assistance of Elizabeth Merrill, executive secretary. New officers for the coming year, elected at the annual meeting include Arthur Gilbert of 1470 Beacon street, Waban, elected as the chairman of the Peace Center Advisory Council and Mrs. Norman Barres of 27 Buswell park, Newton who will serve as secretary of the Council. The following prominent Newtonians served as discussion leaders and recorders: Mrs. John Samuel, Mrs. Bernard Jacobson; Mrs. Proctor Houghton, Mrs. William Ripley; William Carmen, Mrs. Paul Deats; Representative Irving Fishman; Mrs. Lawrence Cooke, Reverend Harold R. Fray, Jr., Mrs. Kay Stein; Rabbi David Weiss, Mrs. Ida Mae Randall; Leonard Salter, Mrs. John Webber; Mrs. Rohna Shoul and Mrs. Edward Berkeley.

Kenneth M. Selig, son of Mrs. Marilyn M. Selig, 89 Morton St., Newton Centre, a Wilbraham Academy junior, attained first honors for the marking period just ended.

She has been connected with the religious education program of the First Unitarian Society in West Newton for more than 12 years, first as teacher, then as Chairman of the R.E. Committee, and, finally, as Director of Religious Education, which, until now, has been a part-time position.

She has also been a life-long member of the Society and grew up in its Sunday School.

"Because of my background in biology, I was at first interested mainly in the science-oriented segments of the curriculum," Mrs. Laughland explained, "but our discussions on ecology and evolution opened onto so many questions dealing with values, meaning, and various models for ethical behavior, that I soon was caught up in the full range of religious education. That was when I decided to enroll in Theological School."

Under Mrs. Laughland's direction the Church School enrollment has increased to nearly 300. The First Unitarian Society's Church School in West Newton was one of two in the Greater Boston area picked by the Unitarian Universalist Association to be shown to a group of Unitarians from England who were visiting the United States this past month exploring ways to improve their own Religious Education programs.

The First Unitarian Society in West Newton is one of the few area churches to offer a two-hour Sunday School program. It was one of the first to undertake this program twelve years ago.

Two years ago, under Mrs. Laughland's direction, the church was the background for an educational film illustrating the creative approach to religious education. The film was featured at this past month's annual meeting of the Unitarian-Universalist Assembly in Denver, Colorado.

Mrs. Laughland attributes part of the program's overall success to the diversity of religious backgrounds represented on the teaching staff, the Religious Education Committee, and the general membership of the Society. "Far from being a devisive force," she said, "this diversity of interests has been a constant source of enrichment for the program. We also maintain a flexibility and openness that allows us to capitalize on this diversity."

"Among the things we have been working on," she added, "is a responsible program of sex education which will begin in kindergarten and continue on through adulthood. It even includes a Thursday morning session on the Dynamics of Family Living in which a group of young mothers has been exploring the problems of child-rearing and family relations."

Mrs. Laughland attended the Newton public schools. She is a member of the Massachusetts Bay District Religious Education Committee; a member of the Board of the Church School Union; Regional Coordinator for the Unitarian-Universalist Religious Education Field Work program; member of the inter-denominational Association of Religious Educators; Staff Member of the Roxbury-Newton Freedom School; and for many years a member of the Children's Museum Aid. She is also a member of the team that is writing new science materials for the denomination's religious education curriculum which will be published by Beacon Press, Boston.

In July, Mrs. Laughland has been appointed Co-Director of the Religious Education Workshop at Star Island. This is a Unitarian-Universalist conference site 10 miles off the coast of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, conducted for parents, ministers, teachers, and church administrators.

Lay Chairman of the Religious Education Committee of the Society is Mrs. Thomas A. Morris, Jr., of Newtonville. The Coordinating Member of the Board of Trustees is Mrs. Charles Levy of Auburndale.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Robert M. Foulkrod, Newton Highlands; Mrs. Floyd H. Gilles, Waban; John Ertha, West Newton; Rev. Dr. Hugo Hollerorth, Natick; Stanley W. Kulik, Auburndale; Parker M. Lord, Newtonville; Mrs. Henry Maxwell, Newtonville; Mrs. Dutton S. Van Alstine, Auburndale; Rev. Robert Woodbury, Auburndale; R. Eugene Bullock, Newtonville; and Mrs. Leonard A. Monzert, West Newton, who represents the Women's Alliance on the Committee.

The case of an 18-year-old Newton youth involved in a fatal two-car crash last Wednesday was continued by Judge Frederick A. Crafts in Waltham district court.

Walter J. Panzera was released in $1000 bail after he pleaded innocent to manslaughter charges in connection with the crash in which Mrs. Bernice M. Butcher, of 290 Dale street, Waltham, a grade-school teacher, was killed.

Panzera, of 94 Jewett street, was arrested at the scene of the accident at Bacon and Plympton streets. Mrs. Butcher had just left the Plympton School when the accident happened.

George W. Haggie, 19, of 129 Parmenter road, West Newton, and Edward J. Sullivan, 18, of 41 Lawrence street, Waltham, passengers in Panzera's car, were charged as minors possessing alcoholic beverages in a car.

Judge Crafts continued the case until June 19.

Hails Greenblatt Naming As Mental Health Boon

Appointment of Dr. Milton Greenblatt of 11 Burnside Rd., Newton Highlands, as Massachusetts Commissioner of Mental Health, has been hailed by Irving R. Chase, president of the Massachusetts Association of Mental Health.

He congratulated Gov. John A. Volpe for appointing "one of the nation's outstanding pioneers in community mental health, a man eminently qualified to lead the Commonwealth's bold new approach in treating the mentally ill, as envisioned in the recently enacted Community Mental Health Act."

Said Chase, "I have come to know and respect Fr. Greenblatt as a man of vision, understanding and courage. His lifelong commitment to the healing of those sick in mind caused the screening committee unanimously to recommend him for the commissionership.

"A native of Massachusetts, he has led the state and the nation in opening the doors of the mental hospital to the community so that thousands of volunteers have given their time and service to Boston State Hospital where he has served so well as superintendent. He pioneered in the open ward treatment, in patient government, the halfway house, home visiting programs, sheltered workshops for the mentally ill and developing the type of social milieu therapy which holds out the greatest hope, today, for rehabilitating the mentally ill.

"Dr. Greenblatt has demonstrated a capacity to inspire and attract topflight mental health personnel who find it exciting to work with someone of his vision and creativity. He has demonstrated a deep concern for the principle that no person, no matter how sick or how long in the mental institution, should be neglected. His intensive treatment programs have helped rehabilitate hundreds of patients who formerly had been abandoned to custodial care for ten, twenty, thirty and even forty years.

"Our Association is especially happy that the state's mental health program will be headed by a man who understands the need for citizen participation in meeting the needs of the mentally ill. We have found Dr. Greenblatt ready at all times to meet with us and work out ways in which citizen volunteers can help the professionals develop new services for the rehabilitation of mental patients. He has also drawn into his treatment staff many non-professionals, indigenous workers from the community, successfully demonstrating the possibility of tapping an entirely new manpower pool for working with the mentally ill.

"Under Dr. Milton Greenblatt's direction, Massachusetts should continue to provide leadership for the nation in treating the mentally ill."

Community Centre, Pomroy House Camps Combined

The Newton Community Center's summer camp program serving youngsters 7 to 12 years of age will be merged this year with the program of the Rebecca Pomroy House, according to the Center's executive director, Anthony J. Bibbo.

The consolidation was arranged with the view to enhancing the calibre and experience of the staff and adding facilities.

Day camp for boys and girls 7-12 years of age will be directed by Miss Edith Babkey. She will be assisted by Eric Reiner. The private camp site, on Sever Hale Reservation in Westwood, includes 30 acres of tree covered land, swimming facilities, cookout accommodations, and more than 300 acres of long winding nature trails. To meet the camp expansion as evidenced by the heavy demand for registrations, the private site has been expanded from 15 to 30 acres this year.

Campers leave in front of the Center by bus each morning Monday-Friday at 9:00 and return at approximately 4:00 p.m. The activity is varied with swimming (free swimming and instruction), arts and crafts, hikes, sports, cookouts and trips included. Children bring sandwiches and are served milk.

The eight-week camp period is divided into four sessions, with each child obligated to enroll for at least one two-week period. Campers may be registered for any number of sessions desired.

Mr. Bibbo stated that all elementary school children in the city of Newton have received brochures outlining the program through their schools. Registrations will be taken at the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton, Monday through Friday 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. and Thursday evenings. Also on Saturday mornings from 9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon. Additional information and applications may be had by phoning 244-2260.

Transportation to and from camp is available. Anthony Quintiliani will coordinate the transportation. Parents are urged to make reservations early.

President Samuel Rabinowitz of the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for Aged who served as the installing officer told the capacity audience that "the institution which the Jewish women of Greater Boston created can retain its position of leadership through the continued financial support, on a larger scale than ever, and by a vast increase in volunteer service."

Mrs. Barnat M. Wein, acting president for the first phase of the meeting, reported that the Women's Auxiliary has fulfilled its financial obligations to the Center and called on Mrs. Henry Wintz, assistant treasurer, to present the balance payment on its $70,000 pledge to President Rabinowitz. Mrs. Abraham Zimble, chairman of the 1966 benefit luncheon, served as chairman of the meeting and also introduced Executive Director Maurice I. The following slate of officers of the Women's Auxiliary was unanimously elected and installed: Mrs. Shulman, president; Mrs. Archie Kaplan, Honorary President; and Mrs. Mark Burston, Honorary Vice-President; Mrs. Charles E. Dockser, Mrs. Peter Kranz, Mrs. Simon J. Prives, Mrs. Barnet M. Wein and Mrs. Carl Zimble, vice presidents; Mrs. Jack I. London, treasurer; Mrs. Henry Mintz, assistant treasurer; Mrs. J. South Tennis Team Loses To Cross-Town Rivals

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

The Newton South varsity baseball squad won one game, and lost one last week in bringing their season's slate to 5-12.

Last Tuesday, the Lions dropped first place Weymouth, 6-4, on a well-pitched ball game by Jack Dunnigan, who earned his second victory of the year.

On May 24, the Lions were up-ended by Watertown, 10-1. The starter and loser was Jimmy Gamble, who gave up six runs in his 4 2/3 inning stint. However, only one was earned. Richard Lourie came on in relief, and was touched for four runs in 1⅓ innings. Paul Erba cleaned up in the seventh, allowing no runs.

Tom Rezzuti scored the only South run in the third inning. He singled, went to second on a balk, and was driven home by Jack Dunnigan's single. In all, the Lions only managed five hits; none for extra bases.

The jv baseball team dropped two of their three games last week. The week began in fine style as regular outfielder Ron Nelson took over the mound duties and fired an excellent two-hitter at Cambridge Latin. The Lion bats did their share of the work, gathering six hits, (two by Barry Kaplan), and driving across four runs to enable Nelson to pick up the victory, 4-2.

Tuesday, against Weymouth's strong jv, the Lions were beaten 7-2. John Lopez, coming off two excellent relief appearances, made his first start, and received his first loss due to the erratic fielding of his teammates. The Weymouth pitcher was superb, as he struck out the first eight men to face him.

On May 24, Paul Harris, coming off his first victory of the year, was rudely tossed around by Watertown, who sent him to the showers after only one inning. Jeff Newman and Richard Arin also worked. Watertown prevailed, 7-2, as the Lions' fielding was sloppy and the Lion bats weak. All of the South hits were of the infield variety.

The varsity tennis squad dropped their first match of the season to cross-town rival, Newton High. It was a 3-2 loss as number one player Bucky Adams, number three singles player Andy Cornblatt, and the second doubles team of Alan Starr and Paul Cohen all dropped their sets. The only winners were number two singles player Gary Mescon and the first doubles team of Jon Bloom and Bruce Cornblatt. The Lion record now stands at 10-1.

The Lion trackmen split two decisions last week, winning 66-64, over Brookline, and losing to a powerful New Bedford team, 85-45.

Against Brookline, firsts were taken by South in the low hurdles, (Jim King) the 440, (John Anderson) the 880, (Stan Dolberg) the one-mile, (Rick Ginsberg) the high-jump, (Nick Parnell) the shot-put, (Paul Ash) and the pole vault, (Jim King). The Lion relay team of Jim King, Robin Hirsch, John Anderson, and Stan Dolberg also won.

Second place finishes were won by Henry Finch, Mark Levanthal, Jeff Davis, Justice Wiener, Stan Dolberg, and Bob Hahn. Thirds were taken by Robin Hirsch and Jeff Davis.

The Lions had only four first place finishers vs. New Bedford. Jim King took first place in two events, while Nick Parnell and John Anderson also placed first in their respective events.

In the former game, Steve Cooper, captain of the Warriors, gunned in an amazing 82 points!

In a preliminary game between the Royals and the Gunners — played to determine who would play the Warriors in the first round — the Gunners triumphed. (Continued from Page 1)

At the Veterans' Lot, former Mayor Howard Whitmore Jr., introduced Mrs. Etta Haverly who placed the Gold Star Mothers' Wreath, Mayor Basbas who placed the City of Newton Wreath and former Mayor Gibbs, who placed the Newton Veterans' Council Wreath.

"We assemble here today," declared Mayor Basbas, "to pay homage to the memory of these heroic dead who have given the last full measure of devotion in the service of our country.

"Traditionally, this is a day for commemorating the sacrifices of past generations. However, this year, Memorial Day is also a poignant reminder that members of our generation, sons, fathers, brothers and husbands, are at this very moment fighting and dying in a remote and different battle," the Mayor continued.

"Although men may differ as to the wisdom of that battle and as to the advisability of our being involved in the Vietnamese conflict, there can be no argument as to the courage and dedication our men are displaying there. But then, courage and dedication have always been the hallmark of the American Fighting Man," Basbas told his listeners.

"So as we are gathered here for the purpose of manifesting our sincere gratitude to those of our men and women who have fought and fallen in wars gone by, let us not be unmindful of those who are fighting and falling now.

"And with our gratitude and acknowledgment of these selfless deeds, let us also include our fervent prayers that Almighty God will endow us all with the wisdom and the capacity and the resolution to seek out and establish an everlasting peace, not only in Southeast Asia and the Middle East but even here among our own people. Then will Memorial Day be what it was intended to be, a day for honoring the fallen of past conflicts and not a grim reminder that man still fights war," the Mayor concluded.

After the ceremonies at the cemetery, the parade returned along Walnut street to City Hall where Mayor Basbas, former Sen. Saltonstall, ex-Mayor Gibbs and a group of Aldermen who took part in the parade, reviewed it.

The great U. S. Marine Corps Band was late in arriving for the parade as a result of a delay in its flight from Quantico, Va.

It was not on hand for the start of the parade. However, after a halt at the War Memorial Staff near City Hall, the parade was held up until the arrival of the crack band which fell into the line of march behind Saltonstall, Basbas and Gibbs.

The parade left its starting place at the corner of Washington and Crafts streets, Newtonville, proceeded down Washington street, turned left at the viaduct over the Massachusetts Turnpike at Walnut street, and marched along tree-lined Walnut street, under skies that alternately clouded over and were warmed by a bright sun.

During a halt at Commonwealth avenue, wreaths were placed at the War Memorial Staff near City Hall and a prayer was read by the Rev. Eddie S. O'Neal of Myrtle Baptist Church, West Newton.

Exercises were held at both the Civil War Monument and at the Veteran's Lot in the Newton Cemetery.

At the GAR, parade secretary Jayne C. Driscoll introduced the Rev. Michael Doocey of Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, who gave the invocation.

Janet M. Howley, a sophomore at Elizabeth Seton High School recited Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. Wreaths were placed by various organization commanders and Auxiliaries.

These included Dr. Howard S. Lawrence, commander of the Thomas Burnett Camp No. 10, United Spanish War Veterans; Mrs. Etta Haverty, president of the Gold Star Mothers' Chapter No. 24 of Newton; Mrs. Viola Jepsen, president of the Garden City Chapter No. 42 World War 1 Widows; Mrs. David Hamblem, regent of the Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Carson Post No. 141 of the American Legion; Mrs. Louise Commiskey of the Burns-Kerr Post No. 333 American Legion Auxiliary; John Boyle, commander of the Nonantum Post No. 440 of the American Legion; Thomas Medaglia, commander of the Sgt. Eugene J. Daley Post No. 2384 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Another first for the Newton Centre Woman's Club occured recently when it chartered a bus and traveled for a four-day visit to Montreal's Expo '67. Doggie Gear Worth $3000 Stolen Here

"Hot" dog chains and collars were apparently on sale in the thieves market last week after a car was looted of $3000 worth of the canine equipment in Newton.

Also taken in breaks throughout Newton were $1000 worth of IBM machines, cameras, radios, musical equipment, television set and a small amount of cash.

The dog chains and collars were taken from the car of Samuel Kalichman, of Bronx, N.Y., by thieves who broke into it while it was parked overnight at the Holiday Inn parking lot.

Another car owned by John A. Bauer, of Baltimore, Md., was looted of a typewriter, tape recorder and a guitar.

The National Research Co., 244 Needham st., Newton Highlands, reported thefts of two IBM machines valued at $500 each; two typewriters and a camera with attachments, valued at $200.

Entrance was gained through the second floor by breaking a window over the lock and jimmying the fire escape door.

Two portable television sets were reported stolen in a break at the home of Seymour H. Hambro, 138 Cotton st., Newton. Entrance to the house was gained by climbing up the rear porch roof, removing a screen on a bedroom window and unlocking the window.

Stuart Stearns, 145 Algonquin rd., Chestnut Hill, reported to police his parents' home was entered by breaking glass in a rear door. Some $37 was missing from the sun room.

A break at the Newton Centre Camera and Music Store, 839 Beacon st., Newton Centre, was interrupted by the timely arrival of Patrolman Frank Burokas. He saw a youth flee from the rear of the store as he approached.

A duffel bag containing radios, records and guitars was found but the youth wasn't.

A trunk stolen in Brookline was recovered by Newton police after it struck a stone wall at Hammond st. and Suffolk rd. A youth fled the scene.

Assorted tires, hubcaps, tire jacks and chrome roof racks found by police in the rear of the truck, were not in the vehicle when it was stolen, the owner said.

Natick Dodge Honored As Top Dealer In N.E.

Robert B. McCurry, vice president of Chrysler Corporation and general manager of its Dodge Division, was in Boston last week at ceremonies honoring James G. DiCostanzo, president of Natick Dodge, Inc., Route 9, across from Shopper's World.

The occasion was the unprecedented success that Natick Dodge has achieved after just fifteen months in business. They are the largest volume Dodge Dealer in New England, and the third largest in the world.

While in Boston, Mr. McCurry viewed the architects drawings of Natick Dodge's proposed expansion of the existing facilities. These impressive plans call for an attractive addition which shall triple the size of the current building.

Mr. DiCostanzo, who resides with his family in Dover says "our sales pace is due in great part to the fact that our prime objective is customer satisfaction. Truly, a satisfied customer has been our best advertisement, and our addition, which will contain over 60 customer service bays, and the largest parts department in New England, has been designed to continue our strong customer service program."

Natick Dodge has the largest inventory of new 1967 Dodges in the Northeastern United States, consisting of all colors and models, including the Dart, Coronet, Polara, Monaco and Charger in addition to the complete line of Dodge Trucks and Campers.

The selection of Dependable Used Cars ranks as the largest in New England, and more important is The Natick Dodge Good Guy Guarantee which has been hailed by leaders of the automotive world as the strongest in the industry. Asked about this, President DiCostanzo said "we believe that when a person buys a used car, they are entitled to as much confidence and happiness as is the buyer of a brand new automobile. Our Good Guys Guarantee is specifically designed to do that."

A sister company, Natick Leasing Co. has had similar success, and now they are the largest Chrysler Leasing Co. in the Eastern area, and they offer all makes of cars and trucks for daily rentals or long term lease.

Why not drop over to Natick Dodge right away and join the Natick Dodge Rebellion.

Suburban League Berth Eludes Newton High Nine

By STEVE KENDALL

A sad ending was written to an otherwise happy baseball story when the Newton High nine lost a clutch game to Cambridge Latin, 4 to 3, on May 23 at Cambridge.

The loss, coupled with two victories, left the Newtonites with a 14-4 Suburban League record and third place. It wasn't quite good enough to catch Arlington and Weymouth for a state tourney berth.

An eighth-inning single by Don Harrison drove in Pierre Marchando with the winning run to upset Newton in the team's next-to-last league game. Marchando had tripled off Archie Cameron earlier in the inning.

Ironically, at the same time the Tigers were losing, so was Weymouth, therefore a Newton triumph would have caused a three-way tie for the loop roof. Bust instead, Weymouth and Arlington went on to tie for the championship with 15-3 slates.

Cambridge Latin opened the scoring in the third inning when three singles and a double resulted in three runs.

Newton tied the count in the fifth as Dick Dezotell reached on an error and Cameron moved him to second on an infield hit. Phil Nelson then brought in Dezotell with a single to center and when Tony Ciocca walked, the bases were loaded. Steve Colantuone's ground ball went through for an error with Cameron scoring, and Kevin Mancuso's fly ball sent Nelson home.

Nelson was seeing his first lengthy action since returning from the injury list and had two hits, as did sophomore Colin Clopton.

The day before, on May 22, Eliot Libman's two-hitter kept Newton hopes alive when the Tigers edged stubborn Watertown, 2 to 0.

The winning run was tallied in the fourth as Kevin Mancuse tripled, and later scored on shortstop Pete DiDomenico's single to left.

Catcher Dick Dezotell led off the seventh with a double and was sacrificed to third by George Gershman. Hurler Libman allowed Dezotell to score when he knocked a sacrifice fly to left.

In the final contest of the season, Newton squeeked past Brookline, 1 to 0, on May 24 at Newton. It took a game-saving throw by leftfielder Kevin Mancuso to ice the decision.

With two out in the top of the seventh and the Wealthy-Towners' John Kilgallon on second, Phil Baker lined a single to left. Mancuso grabbed the ball on one bounce and rifled a throw to catcher Dick Dezotell who put the tag on Kilgallon to end the game.

It was a single by Phil Nelson that drove in the only run of the game in the fourth inning. Pete DiDomenico had reached third on an error and became the only Tiger to cross the plate.

Senior Dana Westlund pitched five-hit ball for six innings before yielding to Eliot Libman in the seventh. He picked up the win in his only start of the year.

The big tennis story around eastern Massachusetts last week was Newton High's upset victory over Newton South, 3 to 2. The previously unbeaten Lions were considered one of the best teams in the state.

Don Bertsch and Dave Hirschberg won the decisive match, 4-6, 6-4, and 7-5. Paul Lubin won his match against Bucky Adams, who he beat easily in the EMass Individuals, and lefty Steve Cain took care of Andy Cornblatt.

In other net action, Winchester brought the Tigers down from the clouds by defeating coach George Jessup's crew, 3 to 2. A private school match resulted in a 13 to 5 victory for Middlesex. The team is now 7-2 in public school play and will be seeded number two in the EMass Team Championships beginning today.

The trackmen won the Suburban League title once again when they humbled Rindge Tech, 99 to 31, and ended with a 5-0 record. A forfeit victory over New Bedford gave the Tigers their fourth win.

Kevin Morrison and Ron Howland, both seniors, each copped a first and second in the meet. Morrison won the high hurdles for the fourth straight time, and was second to Howland in the broad jump. Ron was the runnerup in the low hurdles.

The state championship was to have taken place last Tuesday and the league week has been rescheduled due to rain.

The lacrosse team continued to win as Al Alessi scored six goals in two games. The senior netted three each in the team's 5 to 2 win over Framingham South and the 8 to 1 triumph over LaSalle Academy.

Harry Nesbitt birdied four holes and played one-over-par golf for fifteen as he led the linksters to a 9 to 0 trouncing of Newton South. Ralph Murphy, Jack Mavisakalian, Dudley Cotton, Bob Anderson, and Brian Quigley were the other winners. The team is second in the league with three matches remaining.

College Of Sacred Heart To Honor Noted Educator

Newton College of the Sacred Heart will award an honorary degree to a lay person for the first time at the schools' eighteenth annual Commencement exercises Sunday, June 4, at 4 p.m. on the Centre street campus.

Mrs. Isabelle Palms Buckley, founder and director of The Buckley School of Los Angeles, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters. She will be the fourth person so honored by the liberal arts college for women since its founding in 1946.

Other honorees have been Richard Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston (1953), Gregoire Pierre Cardinal Agagianian, prefect of the Sacred Congregation of the Propagation of the Faith (1960); and Mother Eleanor S. Kenny, R.S.C.J., first president of Newton College (1962).

Mrs. Buckley—a native of Detroit, and a graduate of Manhattanville College—began Buckley in 1933, as a one-teacher school with nine students and a no-nonsense approach to education based on "self-expression through self-discipline."

As principal of the four-school complex for the past three decades, she has been successfully maintaining that most children have the capacity to begin school at the age of two; that permissive education does not enhance character development in a child; and that no education program at the elementary and secondary level can operate at its optimum without complete participation and co-operation of parents.

The Buckley School today—still one of the nation's few co-educational independent school systems educating students from pre-school through high school—has an international faculty of 50 members, and an enrollment of 600 boys and girls.

One of the four children of Mrs. Buckley and her husband, the late Col. Harold Buckley, is now Mrs. Paul Simqu of Sherman Oaks, Calif., and is a graduate of Newton College of the Sacred Heart.

The College will also award 149 baccalaureate degrees in 18 major fields of study at the Commencement exercises.

Admission is free and the public is invited and encouraged to attend.

DR. GEORGE WHITE

WILLIAM SCHEFT

Newtonites On Committee For Hospital Fund Drive

Newton residents are serving as vice chairmen for the capital funds drive of the Golden Anniversary Development program for Beth Israel Hospital.

William Scheft of Newton, Dr. George White of Newton Centre, and Mrs. Allen S. Lewis of Chestnut Hill, trustees, are vice chairmen serving on the campaign committee.

Stanley H. Feldberg, general chairman, has announced that the hospital drive will move into high gear, now that the 1967 appeal of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies has been completed.

Construction of three new buildings and substantial renovation of some existing facilities are contemplated by the Development program. The largest unit to be erected is the Feldberg Building, a 160-bed patient facility consisting of eight stories and basement.

The building will be designated in honor of Morris and Anna Feldberg, Max and Elizabeth Feldberg, and the children of both families. Under construction are the four-story George Sherman Clinical Research and Therapy Building and a Research Building.

Stressing the "key role of the Board of Trustees and other community leaders" in assuring the success of the drive, Mr. Feldberg pointed out that a substantial number have already made generous pledges and urged those who had not formalized their commitments to do so at the earliest possible moment.

To Mark Miss Keyes' Long Service As Teacher

Newton educators have planned a system-wide reception for Marion J. Keyes, marking her retirement after 40 years as a Newton teacher.

It is to be held this (Thursday) afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock in the Second Congregational Church, Chestnut St., West Newton.

MARION J. KEYES

Marion Keyes, during her long service here, has never lost her enthusiasm for life, work and people. Her natural intuitive ability to draw from a child what he already possesses has led many a youngster to infinite worlds or creativity and unconfined adventure.

This week, she made her last homemade ice cream for young children. Other teachers will continue the traditions she initiated in the 1930's—classroom experiences in making soup, apple sauce, butter, and even hatching chickens.

Miss Keyes' unique rapport with children was noted even before she graduated from Deerfield Academy. Often she was called from classes to substitute in the nearby elementary schools of Deerfield.

Upon graduation, Marion Keyes promptly faced the one-room frame schoolhouse of eight grades which her father had attended as a boy. The inadequate pot-bellied stove and dim oil lamps were unnoticed as the children responded to the warmth and light of their new teacher's ebullience!

The following year found this delightful young lady in a big brick schoolhouse which her father had newly built in West Deerfield. The superintendent, Andrew Thompson, however, saw her as a primary teacher. He recommended a move to Old Deerfield, where she could specialize in teaching the first and second grades. After Old Deerfield, Miss Keyes left to continue her education at Fitchburg Teacher's College.

A single first-grade classroom in Lexington provided her with a new experience for three years. However, her constant interest in new horizons lured her on to a private school position with Utica Country Day School in New Hartford, N.Y. At the end of that year a telegram from assistant superintendent, Miss Mabel Bragg, brought Marion Keyes to the school system she has served so well . . . the Newton Public Schools!

Here she remained to teach and inspire young children, young teachers-in-training, and many, many adults.

An elementary consultant for the past 13 years, she was enthusiastically welcomed as she visited classrooms.

Mann Sponsors Resolution For Mid-East Calm

Rep. Theodore D. Mann of Newton was one of four State representatives co-sponsoring a resolution enacted this week in the Massachusetts House of Representatives urging immediate congressional action to bring peace and security to the Middle East.

"Because of the untimely withdrawal of the United Nations observers, and because of the massing of military forces, it appears, "the Mann resolution declared, "that we are on the verge of a disastrous war."

Contractors To Paint Quarters Of Sea Scouts

Cutler, whose district includes five Newton wards, this week backed a measure to lower the voting age to 19 in a joint session of the House and Senate sitting in Constitutional Convention. "Age 19 is a prefectly proper age to vote," she said, and pointed out that she was unable to vote until she was 30 because women couldn't vote until 1920.

Pilot Accounting Sought By Taxpayers Association

The pilot curriculum programs in conjunction with the pilot single sessions to be started at the Cabot, Hyde and Pierce schools this coming fall," furnish a good opportunity to start pilot functional accounting for school instructional programs in Newton," asserted Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., exectuive director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association this week.

"We hope the school department will take advantage of the opportunity," he said.

"As a part of its' value engineering in government' effort the Taxpayers' Association has urged functional accounting in the school with some success. Program accounting has been developed for federally aided programs and for ancillary activities such as the cafeteria, athletics and school building maintenance," Muther noted.

The various pilot lunch and curriculum change programs will be developed differently in the different pilot schools. The cost of the school lunch aspect of the single session can and should be separated from the paralleling curriculum change costs anyway. The Division of Instruction is to assess the program differences and values educationally," Muther continued.

"So now is the time to set up accounting procedures whereby not only the varying cost elements in the pilot programs can be evaluated too, but also the beginpings of functional accounting for the various instructional programs in the whole school system can be established," he stated.

"What with the taxpayers' financial burdens for schools growing as they are, the basis for financial evaluation along with educatioinal evaluation of the various programs should be made a matter of normal school procedures now," Muther concluded.

Fishman Favors Four Year Term

Rep. Irving Fishman of Newton this week advocated that both the Massachusetts House and Senate be elected for four-year terms. Fishman addressed the House and Senate together in Constitutional Convention.

The Convention was studying the possibility of electing half of the State Senators every two years for four year terms.

Fishman went on to say that "there's really no need for a Senate at all", and recommended a unicameral legislature.

US Study Grant Sought Here In Renewal Project

The Newton Redevelopment Authority is seeking a $297,-129 federal planning and study grant in connection with a proposed urban renewal project in the Newton Corner area.

This was revealed at a meeting of the Board of Aldermen Monday night when the Aldermen voted unanimously to hold a public hearing June 19 on the proposal.

Under the law, the Redevelopment Authority must have permission of the Board of Aldermen before it can submit its application to the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development for financial assistance.

The vote to hold the public meeting was taken by the Aldermen after executive session and after several aldermen from the affected area explained that property owners there were concerned about the project and its effect on them.

Aldermen from Wards 1 and 7—Adelaide B. Ball, William E. Hopkins, Joseph M. McDonnell and Jason Sacks—said they had been besieged with calls from property owners who are in fear of losing their homes.

The public meeting was set up so that property owners in the renewal area, generally located north of Washington st., east of

MIDEAST CEASE-FIRE PROSPECTS STILL CLOUDY

THE DEADLINE for a cease-fire in the Middle East has passed and as dawn broke today on the sandy battlefields of Egypt, Jordan and Syria, there was no indication whether the Israeli and its Arab neighbors were willing to stop their four-day war. Egypt was reeling under the blows of the fast-moving Israel army and the Suez Canal could be in Israeli's hands if Defense Minister Moshe Dayan desired to grab the waterway. But Dayan said that his country "had no intention of going to the Suez Canal even though her troops could easily have done so."

Israel has accomplished its two main purposes. It seized the heights of Sharm el Sheikh and broke the back of the blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba, and it captured the old city of Jerusalem. It aims to keep Jerusalem. Dayan said, "We have returned to Jerusalem, never to part from her again."

Israel is now ready for "permanent peace" in the Middle east. Dayan declared that "at this crucial hour we earnestly stretch our hands to our Arab brethren in peace."

The Security Council adjourned late yesterday after its second "toothless" cease-fire resolution and its future plans are uncertain. Sources said that the Council may meet again at 11:30 today, but there was no certainty of it. The Soviet Union pushed for the resolution of the cease-fire deadline, but it was unwilling to entertain the proposals advanced by other nations giving the United Nations a possible peace-keeping role in the war.

MARINES AND COMMUNISTS BATTLE FOR NEW HILL

U.S. MARINES and Communist forces battled today for another of the unnamed hills near the demilitarized zone, shattering the lull in the ground war.

The U.S. 26th Marines reported running into Communists on Hill 900 near the key Leatherneck outpost of Khe Sanh just south of the DMZ separating North and South Vietnam. The size of the forces involved and details on the fighting were not immediately disclosed. Marine authorities said the Leathernecks had pulled back from the hill late yesterday but did not say why.

SENATE PASSES LBJ BAN ON RAIL STRIKE

THE SENATE responding quickly to prodding by President Johnson, Wednesday approved by a 70-15 vote the administration's proposal for averting a threatened nationwide railroad strike until 1969.

The vote was the third Senate move this year to head off a strike by six shopcraft unions against the nation's railroads over a contract dispute. Previous congressional actions deferred the strike deadline to June 19.

HOUSE-SENATE GROUP AGREE ON DRAFT BILL

SENATE AND HOUSE negotiators reached agreement yesterday on a new military draft bill which rules out, for the present, any lottery-like random selection system to determine the order of induction. The Senate may act on the four-year draft extension bill today.

The compromise bill was approved on the basis of differing bills passed by the Senate and House. It would guarantee the continuance of educational deferments for college undergraduates and students enrolled in apprentice and job training programs.

McNAMARA MOVES TO GET OIL FOR VIETNAM

DEFENSE SECRETARY Robert S. McNamara announced yesterday the United States was making arrangements to continue the flow of oil to Vietnam in the event Middle East supplies are cut off.

HOPES FOR WAR'S END BOOSTS STOCK MARKET

STRONG HOPES of a rapid end to the Arab-Israel war without direct intervention by the United States, prompted the second consecutive advance yesterday on the New York stock exchange.

In addition, she said, one of the inspectors committed assault and battery on her.

The testimony came from Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Kelley of Irving Park, Watertown, wife of John J. Kelley. She is a plaintiff in a civil damage suit in U.S. District Court. Newton Girl, Hubby Start Medical Team

Ron McCall of Montourville, Pa., and Barbara Louise Parkhurst of Newton Centre, were one of several husband and wife duos in the 120th class to graduate from Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia this month.

County Delays Tax Rate Here

Mayor Monte G. Basbas is holding up the declaration of Newton's 1967 tax rate until he ascertains whether the $1,416,832 Middlesex County assessment against the city is $255,000 more than it should be.

Basbas explained yesterday that he believed a $255,-000 included in last year's assessment was a one-year proposition because it was part of an appropriation for the erection of a new courthouse in Woburn.

White, City Council President Barry Hynes, Development Administrator Edward J. Logue, School Committeewoman Louise Day Hickes, City Councillor Peter F. Hines and City Councillor Christopher A. Newton Priest Miracle Worker In Far-Off Guatemalan Jungle

Missioners in the highlands of the Central American country of Guatemala have long been worried about the economic welfare of the Indians among whom they work.

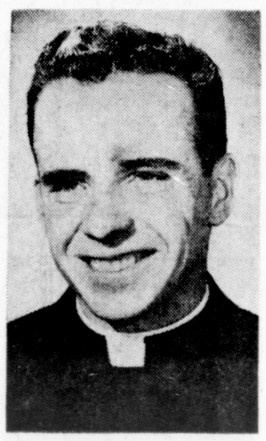

One of these missioners is a youthful-looking and rugged Maryknoll priest from Newton, Father Thomas Melville, who played a key role in the area's development.

The people live largely on a diet of corn which is grown in eroded and depleted soil, and their is a bare and unrewarding existence.

It was these conditions which brought a group of highland Indians to the vast and unexplored jungle region in Colonia Juan XXIII, Guatemala.

Today, fifty families have already settled a 10,000 acre tract provided by the Guatemalan government along the Pasion River. The soil is rich, game abounds and the forests yields pepper, chicle, cedar and mahogany.

These colonists arrived in the area under the leadership of Father Melville who saw the migration as an answer to many of the Indians' pressing problems.

REV. THOMAS MELVILLE

To further gladden the heart of the Maryknoll missioner from Newton, today the land has been cleared, an airstrip is being built and crops have been planted.

As colonist Ramon Lopez sees his newly-found home: "This year I'll get 6000 pounds of grain from two acres. Back in the mountains I had one acre and in a good year I got 750 pounds of grain."

The diet of these former mountain people has improved immeasurably since coming. In the mountains, beans were a treat since they used so much firewood to be cooked.

In the colony firewood is plentiful, and the men can easily catch wild game, fish and pheasants in large numbers.

The colony, according to Father Melville, was organized as a cooperative. Each member is paying

Congresswoman Heckler In Strong Suppot Of Israel

Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler this week announced her strong support of Israel in its war with the Arab nations of the Middle East.

She declared her position immediately upon her return from a fact-finding trip to Europe as a member of the subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations.

At the same time she blasted the action of United Nations Secretary General U Thant in unilaterally and instantaneously withdrawing the UN peace-keeping mission on the demand of Egyptian Premier Nasser.

Mrs. Heckler maintained that Thant should have brought the matter before the UN Security Council instead of acting on his own. She termed his action "a major diplomatic blunder which could be a nail in the UN coffin."

The congresswoman expressed the conviction that the United States must honor the commitments made to Israel during the Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

She pointed out that "the small embattled State of Israel is the only democracy in the Middle East."

"After the extermination of 6 million Jews on the Continent of Europe, it woulld be a tragedy if the small national homeland of the Jews could not be preserved," Congresswoman Heckler declared.

"The rights of free navigation for all maritime nations are at stake in the Gulf of Aqaba," she asserted.

Congresswoman Heckler said "the balance of power in the world is at issue," adding that "the Russians have been a potent force in assisting the Arabs."

J. Webster Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Hull, 41 Berkley street, West Newton, received a B.A. degree in arts at Brown University, Providence, R. I. Stephen T. Veiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Veiner, 219 Fuller street, West Newton, was awarded a B.A. degree in Religious Thought.

Capt. Quinn Will Discuss Dog Leashing

Captain William F. Quinn, Newton Police Department, director of Animal Control, has been invited to a two-day conference of the New England Regional meeting of the American Humane Association, June 8th and 9th, at the Colonial Statler-Hilton Inn., Wakefield.

Captain Quinn will discuss with Honorable David Flynn, member of Massachusetts General Court, "Dog Laws Pro and Con."

The captain directs the unique Newton Animal Control Department and administers Newton's Animal Control ordinance which is considered to be the model control effort in the United States.

Many confuse animal control with leash laws and the captain will discuss the policy on leashes or lack of leashes.

He states that, "If you are a believer of leashing your dog - do so, if you do not believe in leashing, don't leash, either way is acceptable to his Department of Animal Control."

He went on to state that neither he nor his control officers care to debate the merits either way, but does add that " If you have a problem dog, you should make the choice, because control officers are required by law to pick up and order restraints for any problem dogs.

The captain said that "over 234 dogs that were problems and were unlicensed had been picked up in 1966 and were saved from: hunger, abuse or being forced into difficult situations and turned over to people appreciating dogs.

The captain commended the Board of Aldermen for providing the animal control ordinance and stated that he is asking that it be enlarged to cover all animals.

The experience of the control officers have been with raccoons, rats, cats, steers, monkeys, dogs and other animals, and that the law should include these other animals. In that way, humane treatment might be accorded to every animal in need, he said.

He said, however, that the $255,000 item appears again in this year's assessment and that he is questioning it.

The Mayor is fighting to keep the tax rate increase below $5.

Newton's tax rate will jump about $5.40 if he is forced to pay the $255,000. The rise will be slightly less than $5 if he can cut that amount from the county assessment the city must pay.

Families Leaving Newton Given Farewell At Church

Newton families leaving the area to take up new positions in far and near corners of the world were tendered a special farewell during Sunday services of the First Unitarian Society in West Newton.

"The most precious resource this church has is its people," remarked Mrs. Arthur S. Laughland, Director of Religious Education during the morning's sermonette. "We all can be enriched by each new member and we are impoverished by the loss of every departing family."

Heading for Santiago, Chile are Dr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Plank of Newton Highlands and their family. Dr. Plank, is Assistant Professor of Population Studies at Harvard University School of Public Health and President of the Massachusetts Planned Parenthood Association. He is undertaking a study under the joint sponsorship of Harvard and the Rockefeller Institute at the University of Santiago on the effect of contraceptives on the general health of the female population. Chile has been pioneering in a birth control program for the past two years under development at the University. Dr. Plank has been retained by Harvard as a visiting lecturer returning next Fall for 2 mos.

Mrs. Plank has been associated with the Church School for several years, spending this past year teaching the Sixth Grade course in the Old and New Testament.

Other departing members honored were Mr. and Mrs. George A. Speers of Newton Centre. Mr. Speers, chairman of the Department of Journalism at Northeastern University, and his family are moving to a nearby community. Mrs. Speers has been on the church school staff for several years as teacher of the Third Grade class.

Also leaving are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Freeman of Newtonville who will be relocating themselves with their family in Texas, where Mr. Freeman has received an appointment in the Mathematics Department of Rice University.

Flower Communion Sunday, a Czechosiovakian ceremonial service brought to the church during the war years of the '40's, was also commemorated at the services during this annual Children's Sunday of the Society with the exchange of flowers among parishioners.

Symbolic of this, Mrs. Laughland noted that, "We must find ways to share curselves generously with others, as each of us has something of value to share with one another." Parishioners selected flowers other than their own which had been placed in baskets decorating the Chancel, to complete the experience of communion with one another.

Mrs. Laughland was invited to preach by Dr. Leslie T. Pennington, Minister of the Society, in recognition of her recent designation as "Minister of Religious Education." This honor was conferred upon her at the Annual Meeting in Denver by the Unitarian - Universalist Department of Religious Education's Accreditation Committee.

In concluding her first Ministerial address the Director expressed the hope to the congregation that "our encounters will be caring ones and that we will develop understanding hearts to hear the messages not adequately expressed by words."

Church School ribbon awards were made by Dr. Pennington to Nursery through Fourth graders, for each child's contribution to the experience of the group this year and the new dimensions gained from his life.

Grade 3 students were also recognized for theid graduation into the Intermediate Division of the Church School and were presented with volumes of "Water: Its Form and Motion" from the Beacon Science series in preparation for their 4th grade study of science as it relates to Liberal Religion.

Fifth graders were presented personally inscribed Bibles for use in their next year's class studies of the Old and New Testaments. High School Seniors received copies of the "World Bible" pointing to the special significance of the sacred writings contained therein, which heritage their Church School has endeavored to impart to them through the years.

Dr. Pennington closed the morning's services with individual recognition of the entire Church School faculty and assistants staffed by well over 50 members of the Parish.

$200 for his land to the government, over a 20-year period.

But this presents no problem, says the deeply-tanned Maryknoller, even in Guatemala. During the wild pepper harvest some of the men can make as much as $150. In all, says, Father Melville, the cooperative brought in $2000 during the first harvest.

One of Father Melville's greatest successes has been the real feeling of community he has developed among the colonists.

When he was first recruiting for the new settlement, he emphasized strongly that each member of the colony would be dependent upon the other in health and sickness, in good times and bad.

"There is no room," he says here, "for any selfishness. We're here to worship God together and help another — that's our secret strength."

Without question the colonists have caught the message. They help each other build houses, take turns at community tasks such as pumping water to a storage tank or supplying food for visitors.

And everything affecting the colony — from the colony store to attending Mass in a makeshift shed — is discussed and decided by all in town-meeting style.

Father Melville's aim is to have the people working and living independent of him. He is teaching the men how to navigate the river, maintain their outboard engine, run the gasoline saw and even replace the packing on the colony's water pump.

It is a strong community growing here and one steeped in Christian life. "We've had our problems," says Father Melville, "but we're overcoming them all."

Father Melville is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Melville of 245 Cyprus street, Newton. He is a graduate of Boston College High School. He was ordained a priest in the Maryknoll Mission order in 1957, when he began his duties in Guatemala. A brother, Arthur, also is a Maryknoll missionary and is serving elsewhere in Guatemala.

Lee Loumos Says:

It's a good thing that summer weather has finally arrived, and I'm up to my neck in air conditioning work, or else I would have plenty of time to stew over the Near East mess. I certainly hope that some sensible and peaceful solution will soon be reached. I can't help but wonder at the sagacity of our college professors who have been hounding the administration to withdraw from Vietnam and now they want us to become militarily involved in Israel without any delay.

Personally, I believe all problems should be left to the experts, and I for one had better stick to my air conditioning.

Women Voters Set Week-end Name Project

A "Charter Petition Week-end" for June 9, 10 and 11 is being planned by the League of Women Voters of Newton to make a concerted effort for the 10,000 signatures necessary to put the question of a Newton Charter review on the ballot in November.

The last comprehensive study of the Newton Charter having been made in 1897, the League of Women Voters feels that there are several areas which are in need of re-examination.

In order to have the question, "Shall a Commission be elected to revise the Charter of Newton?" placed on the ballot, Newton voters must so indicate their desire by their signatures on the petition.

Mayor Basbas' was the first signature to be placed on the petition, and the League hopes that all other citizens will consider the importance of the issue and see that their signatures, too, will appear on the petition.

Other organizations which are working to achieve a Charter review are both the Democratic and Republican city committees and the P.T.A. Council.

Says Mrs. Luis Fernandez, chairman of the League Charter Committee, "Among the questions that could come up for examination is the manner of filling a vacancy in the mayor's office.

"If the mayor's office should be vacated by accident or death early in the term, under the present Charter, the president of the Board of Aldermen would act as mayor until the end of the term. However, there is the possibility that the Alderman might not have the time to assume the full-time position of mayor—or that he might not have the qualifications which the people of Newton would want in a mayor.

"This is certainly one problem to be considered. Another one might be how long the term of office for mayor should be. What we should all bear in mind, however, is that no question can even be considered for study unless the petition is filed, and that the petition can not be filed without the proper number of signatures."

This weekend will be crucial in obtaining signatures on the petition. League members who have volunteered to act as Ward Captains in distributing petitions are, Ward 1—Mrs. John Samuel; Ward 2—Mrs. Leon Barron and Mrs. Eugene Bronstein; Ward 3—Mrs. Elia Lipton, Mrs. Roy Green and Mrs. Ralph Alsmeyer; Ward 4—Mrs. David Jackson; Ward 5—Mrs. Joseph Apelbaum, Mrs. Samuel Beaser, and Mrs. Edward Morrison; Ward 6—Mrs. Solomon Fleishman, Mrs. Peter Morehouse, and Mrs. Bradbury Seasholes; Ward 7—Mrs. S. Wendell Kravitz and Mrs. Robert Wofsey; Ward 8—Mrs. Maynard Slessinger, Mrs. Felix Edenfeld, and Mrs. Henry Gesmer.

Anyone not approached by a volunteer, and wishing to sign the petition, may call Mrs. Fernandez at LA 7-7080.

Flag Week Proclaimed June 11-17

Next week has been proclaimed Newton Flag Week by Mayor Monte G. Basbas who has urged every owner of a household or building within the City of Newton to display the flag during the week of June 11 to June 17 and especially next Wednesday (June 14), Flag Day.

In his proclamation establishing the week Basbas stated:

"Whereas the Flag of the United States of America stands as the symbol of 'one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all;' whereas June 14, 1967, marks the 160th anniversary of our first Flag by a resolution of the Continental Congress,

Whereas in view of the incidents concerning the desecration of our Flag in Cuba, Panama, Ghana, Sato Domingo, France and Belgium, and to our gret dismay and shame, here in our own country; whereas with the situation in Viet Nam calling for the outpouring of patriotism by the men who are serving and dying for the ideals symbolized by this banner;

"Now, therefore, I Monte G. Basbas, Mayor of the City of Newton, do hereby proclaim the week of June 11 through 17, 1967, as Newton Flag Week and urge every owner of a household or building within the City of Newton to proudly display the Flag during this week and especially on June 14, 1967, Flag Day."

House Bill 4596

A concerted campaign has been mounted against House Bill 4596, submitted by Gov. Volpe, which would repeal the Minimum Consumer Price Law on alcoholic beverages. The Massachusetts Package Store Association has distributed over a half-million pamphlets through package stores in an effort to defeat the measure.

The pamphlets deplore the Governor's recommendations and charge they are "anti-business and promonopoly." The Package Store Association also claims retailer profits are not exhorbitant—generally in the area of 20 per cent—lower practically than any other commodity on the market. If the Governor wants to do something about prices why has he chosen for the whipping boy the small citizen of the Commonwealth who ekes out a meager existence on low profits?"

The Package Store Association further claims "The Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) commission has the power to strike down excessive prices. As late as Feb. 9, 1967, they officially certified prices as not being excessive. Gov. Volpe says they are excessive. Either the Commission is wrong or the Governor is wrong: both can't be right."

Quintin J. Cristy, ABC Commissioner, has taken angry exception with the content of the pamphlets and, we feel, with good cause.

He points out that approximately 60 per cent of the volume of wholesale sales to retailers are done on a "Post-Off basis which he says "is nothing more than a discount in excess of the two per cent volume discount" allowed under the law. He said the ABC insisted that "Post-Off" be reflected in the minimum consumer price.

"Not one store lowered their price and we had no authority to tell them they must do this. We have no control in so far as making it mandatory that the price established is the minimum price consumer book is the actual price charged to the consumer. All we can say is 'if you sell below the minimum consumer price, you are in violation of the law!"

As far as the package store owners being "whipping boys" who "eke out a meager existence on low profits," Cristy said the ABC has allowed "mark ups of 30 per cent on the retailers cost, not including the additional percentage of profit received as a result of Post-Offs."

The Commissioner continues "for their licenses alone, package store owners are asking from $25,000 to $75,000—a license which under the law is not supposed to be sold!

"Now what kind of a whipping boy do you call this who is trying to eke out a meager existence on low profits?" Cristy queries.

It is a fact that retail prices for bottled liquors in Massachusetts are among the highest in the country, despite evidence that 13 other states have higher state and local taxes per fifth. During the last 12 months, adjoining states have increased their liquor sales as much as 19.7 per cent, while Massachusetts showed a decrease of four per cent.

It has been estimated that Massachusetts citizens would save over $30,000,000 annually—and the state would receive at least $3,000,000 in additional revenue by repeal of the Minimum Consumer Price Law.

We call for acceptance of House Bill 4596 and repeal of the price law. If the law is repealed, residents of Massachusetts would have approximately $30,000,000 to spend for other items. We fel that if the minimum consumer price level is eliminated, the retail price of liquor in the Commonwealth would seek its own level.

In addition, why should the citizens of Massachusetts have to pay $200,000 a year eo enforce a law which says they can't buy liquor at a lower price than that established by the distiller?

We heartily concur with Mr. Cristy who says:

"If the distiller is so interested in holding his prices, then let him fair-trade his prices, let him police his prices, let him engage his own attorneys to take legal action against anyone who sells in violation and let him handle the prosecution.

"Let us free the Commission of this tremendous burden upon its time. Its investigators could devote their time and energy to curbing sales to minors, an ever growing problem."

Yes! Let us do that!

All America Day Parade

Next Sunday, June 11, has been designated All America Day by Gov. John A. Volpe in conjunction with a Support Our Boys in Vietnam parade for that day.

Some weeks ago we advocated just such a demonstration "that would show Americans are proud of their country and of their flag." We are happy that it has come to pass.

A committee of 20 Greater Boston residents, many of them young adults, have organized the parade which is scheduled to assemble at Harvard Square at 12:30 p.m. It will proceed down Massachusetts ave., across the M.I.T. Bridge to Commonwealth ave., down Commonwealth ave., up Arlington st. to Boylston st. to Charles st., arriving at the Boston Common Parkman bandstand where a program of speeches, music and laying of a wreath will take place.

His Eminence Richard Cardinal Cushing endorses the parade and urges members of the Archdiocese to turn out en masse for the demonstration, stating: "We cannot do enough to support the morale of the boys in Vietnam."

Jerome Foley, of Allston, chairman of the parade committee, says: "It is the opinion of many that the American public has been indifferent for too long toward the morale of our fighting men. We must in some way show them that they have our unrelenting support."

We can't think of a better way than to salute the flags passing by and to cheer those who carry them. They symbolize the men who carry our banners in battles against Communist aggression.

Thanks Graphic

Editor of The Graphic:

This is a word of thanks from the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of The National Foundation — March of Dimes to you and your paper, March of Dimes volunteers in the community and, of course, to the general public.

Our past success and future hopes have depended and continue to depend upon understanding of the problem—birth defects — which we now combat and the resources at hand to carry on that combat — in short, an informed public.

You have been instrumental in bringing that understanding about by carrying information relative to the cause of The National Foundation and furthermore, by carrying an occasional reminder to contribute to The March of Dimes, you do more than a little to hasten the defeat of the greatest health threat to young children in the world today. For this, I certainly wish to thank you.

Of the volunteer, it is safe to note that a health organization such as ours, no matter how impressive its record, far-reaching its resources or good its administration, is no better than its cornerstone, the volunteer — that neighbor up the street or around the corner — who labors in its behalf. The zeal exhibited by March of Dimes volunteers is no less than exemplary.

To the public, our heartfelt thanks for your response to our 1967 campaign and we wish to assure one and all that while we are now committed to a fight that makes our struggle against polio seem small by comparison, the same spirit of endeavor remains. Birth defects, 7000 worth in the Commonwealth each year alone, will be beaten.

Sincerely yours,
Raymond G. Paten, Executive Director, The Massachusetts Bay Chapter, The National Foundation —March of Dimes, 2 Park Square, Boston, Massachusetts.

Trash Pick-Up

Editor of The Graphic:

An "open letter" to the Aldermen of Newton.

Sirs:

This past week has convinced me that the trash pick-up system in Newton is in a deplorable state.

Tuesdays is "pick-up trash day" here in Waban, but because of the holiday the rubbish was not collected. Consequently our barrels are filled to capacity, and we had to borrow barrels and obtain cartons for the overflow to "stash our trash."

There is no reason for not starting a system whereby trash can be picked up a day later following a holiday.

Our friends and neighbors agree with us.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Julius Cohen
1886 Beacon Street
Waban, Mass.

Likes Report

Editor of The Graphic:

As (School Committeeman) Edwin Hawkridge said, your endeavors to interpret Newton school policies and programs in recent issues are exemplary and deserve the highest praise.

Very Sincerely Yours,
(Mrs.) Helen A. Heyn

Whether any other major contenders, who had expected Collins would run and were surprised by his announcement, will step into the contest, is uncertain. It's quite possible, however, that the field will be enlarged as the dust settles in the wake of the Mayor's announcement.

Time alone will tell whether Collins is ending his public career in the closing months of his second term as Mayor. That, apparently, is his present intention. But it's completely possible that he will return again to the political wars either as a candidate for Mayor four years from now or for some other high office, after a respite from the demanding duties he has performed for the past seven and a half years.

His talents and abilities are too great to allow him to be forgotten when he leaves his present office.

Mayor Collins could have won a third term had he decided to seek it. That was shown in professional polls made for groups who used the results to try to persuade Collins to stand for reelection.

The survey returns indicated that Collins' popularity and prestige have never been higher than they are today.

Collins, however, decided that eight years in the arduous, taxing job of Mayor were enough.

He also felt that the time to make the transition from public to private life was at the end of 1967, not at the close of 1971, when he will be four years older.

An outstanding Mayor—one of the best Boston ever has had—now prepares to step from the public scene in a matter of months and the political warriors get ready to do battle for the post he will leave.

Defense of Welfare Lock-In Condones Flaunting of Law

Race relations in Boston for a long time have been better than in almost any other major metropolitan centre in the United States.

This has been due in a large measure to the fact that Boston has had a Mayor who kept things on an even keel, promoted better community relations, ordered that reasonable demands be met and that unreasonable ones be rejected and insisted on law and order.

Boston is fortunate in having a Mayor who displayed a combination of intelligence, patience and firmness in coping with the riots which erupted in predominantly Negro Roxbury.

Mayor Collins neither heeded the advice of those who urged that he should use tear gas and call out the National Guard nor the counsel of others who felt he should bow to unreasonable and unlawful demands in an effort to achieve an uneasy truce.

This makes all the more unfortunate the prediction by a civil rights leader that Boston is in "for a long, hot summer."

That forecast could prove an accurate one, particularly if certain groups feel they can disregard the law and the rights of others to press their own demands or if young hoodlums seize upon any opportunity which arises to riot and loot stores.

It should be clearly understood, however, that no issue of civil rights was in any way involved in the Roxbury riot—unless it was the rights of welfare employees who were locked in a building by the demonstrating Mothers for Adequate Welfare.

Responsible leaders of the Negro community who cooperated with police and municipal authorities in attempting to quell the rioting deserve praise for their efforts.

But public officials and civil rights spokesmen, who defend the right of the welfare mothers to do what they did not only are guilty of a disservice to the entire city but actually are encouraging flaunting of the law.

To condone the lock-in by the mothers, which necessitated the intervention of police and precipitated the rioting, is to support anarchy rather than law and order.

Senators Edward M. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooke pushed the picture out of focus when they said they understood the frustrations underlying the violence in Roxbury but that they could not condone it.

Brooke went on to say that the Mothers for Adequate Welfare are "demanding an adequate voice in the allocation of Welfare funds."

"I think the mothers are entitled to a voice," declared Brooke. Their requests are reasonable. They want decent treatment and respect. They want an income to provide for a decent standard of living."

Every thinking person will agree that the welfare mothers should be treated with decency and respect — more respect than they showed for the rights of the employees they locked in the Grove Hall welfare office—and that they should get enough aid to make possible a decent standard of living.

However, the fact is that some of the demands on which the welfare sit-in and lock-in were based could not be met under the existing law.

Mayor Collins tactfully complied with the demand that police officers be withdrawn from welfare offices. He substituted unobtrusive plain clothes officers not easily distinguished from other employees or visitors but on hand in case trouble occurred.

The Mayor also is having the strain and stress of the rioting.

One big mistake by the community was in not halting the sit-in at the Grove Hall welfare office soon after it began.

It will be interesting to see whether the judges sitting on the cases of the alleged rioters handle them in such a manner as to serve notice that the law must be obeyed.

The jurists can play a part in determining whether Boston has "a long, hot summer."

Saturday Is Day Carnage Begins

Unless something unexpected happens, Saturday is the day on which the carnage begins.

Beginning Saturday it will be legal for your children to buy "sparklers" in the store, return home and burn themselves, their clothing and anything else burnable.

This form of "harmless" fun is possible under a new law.

If you don't want your children playing with "sparklers," it's up to you to stop them.

The likelihood that any change will be made in the law before Saturday is now somewhat remote.

Even if the law is revised, the sale of sparklers up to 12 inches in length probably will be allowed as a result of an amendment tacked onto a repeal bill by Representative Janet Starr of Belmont.

Representative Starr is one of the defenders of the right of children to play with 12-inch "sparklers" which annually take a toll of life and limb in sections where their sale is sanctioned.

Will Our Dollars Be Used Against Us?

In the light of developments in the Middle East, somebody should take a long,hard look at our foreign aid program.

How many millions of dollars have we poured into Jordan which now sees fit to ally itself with Egypt in a war against Israel?

How much help could we depend on from Turkey whom we have given tremendous aid —if we should need it?

It would seem that we have poured millions upon millions of dollars down the drain and that we will be fortunate if some of the things made possible by our millions are not used against our own interests.

To cause these women to believe that all the things they demanded could properly or legally be done is to create the setting for disturbances and violations of the law.

Well-meaning civil rights leaders say there are some members of their community they just can't reach. That, of course, is true.

They obviously were referring to the hoodlums who hurled bricks at police, started fires and looted stores.

But how much of an effort was made to explain to the mothers that they were voicing demands which could not be met under the law? Such an effort might have ended the sit-in and prevented the rioting.

When riots occur such as those which erupted in Roxbury, the cry of police brutality invariably is sounded. In all fairness, it would seem that the police handled themselves with commendable restraint.

Representative Michael Haynes of Roxbury declared that an effort should be made to ascertain what mistakes were made by the community and the police.

Some mistakes may have been made by the police during

Mr. & Mrs. Charles F. Jacobs, co-presidents of the PTA, presented Mr. Devery with a United States flag that has flown over the Capitol in Washington, D. C. It was accompanied by a certificate signed by the architect of the Capitol.

Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, whose secretary Miss Betty Mulroy read a congratulatory letter from Washington, aided in obtaining the flag for Mrs. Jacobs.

The fourth grade pupils sang, "Consider Yourself One Of Us," and all joined in for "America the Beautiful."

Devery was graduated from Armidale Teachers College, New South Wales, Australia and received his BS degree from Boston State College. He was also a teacher of Jr. High in Australia and in England.

Diplomas -

Mayor Monte G. Basbas, School Committeeman Vincent P. Stanton, School Superintendent Charles E. Brown and ex-Mayor and present MDC Chairman Howard Whitmore were among the public figures in attendance at the Newton High School graduation.

School Committeeman Way Dong Woo presented the diplomas at the Newton South High graduation, assisted by the school's three housemasters.

Presentation of the diplomas at the Newton High School ceremonies was made by Assistant Principal Richard C. Howland, the six housemasters and Orrin M. Brawn, director of Newton Technical High School.

A large majority of the students who graduated last night from Newton High and Newton South will go on to complete their education at colleges stretching across the nation from Cambridge to California.

A small number have finished their formal education and will take jobs in private industry.

A few will be inducted into the armed services.

As they dispersed on a happy evening, yet one tinged with sadness at the knowledge their high school days were over, the paths of the graduating seniors of Newton South and Newton High led in many different directions.

Class gifts to the two high schools were presented by the student presidents of the two schools - - Mark S. Cohen, senior class president at Newton South, and James L. McEvoy, president of the Newton North graduating class.

Full lists of the newest graduates of both schools are printed in this issue of the Graphic.

The striking Newton High ceremonies in Dickinson Stadium began with the processional in which the graduating seniors marched into the stadium.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Donald J. Troy of the Corpus Christi Church in Auburndale.

Kennedy Speech On Middle East

Senator Edward M. Kennedy advanced a number of proposals for preventing future crises in the Middle East in his graduation address at Newton High School last night. Kennedy devoted a major part of his speech to the Middle East.

JAMES L. McEVOY
Newton High School

James L. McEvoy presented the class gift, and Dr. James B. Dealy of the class of 1938 announced the selection of Eliot H. Nierman as the Meserve Fund Scholar.

After choir selections, Senator Kennedy delivered the graduation address.

Ex-Mayor Whitmore presented the coveted Senior Cups.

Presentation of the diplomas climaxed the ceremonies.

There were misty eyes among the onlookers as the boys and girls - - now high school seniors - - marched out of the stadium.

Similar scenes were enacted a short time earlier on the grounds of Newton South High where the members of a slightly smaller graduating class received their diplomas as a large audience applauded.

Proud winners of the Senior Cups were Richard M. Ginsburg and Rochelle L. Dworet.

Mark S. Cohen, class president, won the Horace W. Orr Award, and Gail Betsy Promboin received the Phi Beta Kappa book.

Sears' Dedham Store Plans Three-Day "Sewing Clinic"

A sewing clinic will be conducted by Bernice McCormick, national sewing consultant to Sears, Roebuck and Company, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 13, 14 and 15, at the Dedham Mall Sears' Store, Route One, Dedham. Hours of the clinic will be from 10 a.m. to 12 noon each day.

Mrs. Bernice McCormick Sears National Sewing Consultant

Mrs. McCormick, whose assignment is to teach women how to create fashion in their lives through home-sewing, has the kind of job most women dream of having. She travels throughout the nation conducting Sears sewing clinics—showing women how to achieve a professional look in the garments they sew themselves. Mrs. McCormick has some very definite ideas about the things that women are doing and are not doing that can help them in their sewing.

Bernice McCormick literally was born into the world of sewing and fashion. Her mother was a designer and dressmaker for society leaders in Chicago. By the time Bernice was in grammar school, she already was an expert in sewing.

A college-trained home economist, Mrs. McCormick served for eight years as the chief consumer advisor to the nation's largest manufacturer of thread and sewing supplies before joining Sears.

Leslie Bernard Shea, 39 Elmroad, Newtonville, a History major, received a Bachelor's degree from St. Michael's College, Winooski, Vt.

Music Festival By School To Be Held On Saturday

The Ward School Family Music Festival, sponsored by the Ward School PTA, is being held outdoors, Monday evening, from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on the school lawn. In case of rain, the program will be postponed to Wednesday, June 14.

All parents and children are invited to attend. Dessert will be served at 7:00. The music festival, starting at 7:30, will include Mrs. Anita Amado's modern dance group, Miss Elizabeth Minster's ukelele group, and creative percussive instrumental demonstrations by some of the Ward School children, as well as participation by the audience. Seating will be on the grass.

The music program will also demonstrate some of the creativity and improvisation encouraged by the Carl Orff method of music instruction now being taught in many Newton schools by Mrs. Linda W. Aranis, Consultant in Music Education.

By using the carefully tuned drums and xylophone-like instruments designed by Mr. Orff, the children, who are naturally rhythmic, discover early that they can produce their own attractive original music. With the help of graded "Threshold Charts" (starting with symbols of simple nursery rhythms and later adding note intervals) the children are soon sight-reading actual notes.

The committee for the festival includes Mrs. Arnold Gorsky, Mrs. Albert Mezoff, Mrs. Morton Newman, Mrs. Allen Rudolph, Mrs. Herbert Schilder, Mrs. John Skillman, Mrs. Stanley Snider, Mrs. Robert Wolf, and Miss Madeline Bartell, Ward School Principal.

Cardinal Urges Support For Parade Next Sunday

Richard Cardinal Cushing this week urged Catholics in the Archdiocese of Boston to turn out enmasse next Sunday for the Support Our Boys in Vietnam parade.

The Cardinal said, "We cannot do enough to support the morale of the boys in Vietnam."

The support of the Cardinal for the parade followed the action of Gov. John A. Volpe Tuesday in declaring June 11, 1967, as All America Day in conjunction with the parade.

Greater Boston cities will send individual marching units to the parade. Among those participating is Mayor Vaitses, of Melrose, who hopes Melrose will have the largest city marching unit in the parade. He is aware that Somerville, under the guidance of Rep. Mario Howe, is striving for first place in size.

Mayor Plunckett, of Everett, Mayor George Colella, of Revere, and Mayor Jack Slator, of Chelsea, have indicated their willingness to join in this march and predict that their units will far exceed either Melrose or Somerville.

A committee of 20 Greater Boston residents, many of them young adults, organized the parade in order to allow the general public the opportunity to display their support for the American men and women in Vietnam. The committee is headed by Jerome (Jerry) Foley, 27, of 1200 Commonwealth Ave., Allston, Mass. 02134. Foley a native of Chicago, came to Boston three years ago making Boston his permanent residence, after serving in the Navy as a medical corpsman. Foley is employed by the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company. In February of last year Foley's older brother, Jim, at the age of 29, was killed in action in Vietnam while serving in the U. S. Army as a tunnel rat. It was his second hitch in the Army, having served three years during the Korean Conflict. Prior to his death he had written Jerry many letters expressing his disapproval of the Peacenik demonstations and burnings of the American flag and said that these gestures were harming the morale of his buddies and he could see the hurt on their faces when they read a Stateside newspaper.

Foley said, "The March is organized with the idea of transcending all political convictions. Anyone may participate in the March without feeling he has sacrificed or compromised his ideals, since participation in the March will only confirm his awareness that our fighting men are human beings and do not represent any particular political view. It is the opinion of many that the American public has been indifferent for too long toward the morale of our fighting men. We must in some way show them that they have our unrelenting support."

Among those on the committee are: Parade manager, John Harold, AMVETS Rice Post; coordinator, William J. Robinson, Carlson Raider Detachment, Marine Corps League; coordinator, James Esmond, Police Athletic League; coordinator, Alan MacKay, Young Americans for Freedom; coordinator Martin Hanrahan, AMVETS Solari-Train Post.

There are several marching contingents scheduled which include: American Legion, AMVETS, Disabled American Veterans, Jewish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars (contingent and band), Marine Corps League, Masons, Shriners, ANU, International Organization of Mastermates & Pilots, Lithuanian Community, etc.

The parade will assemble at Harvard Square at 12:30 p.m., on Sunday, June 11, proceed down Massachusetts Ave., across the M.I.T. Bridge to Commonwealth Ave., down Commonwealth Ave., up Arlington St. to Boylston St. to Charles St., arriving at the Boston Common Parkman's Bandstand where a program of speeches, music and laying of a wreath will take place.

Foley added, "I would like to call upon all organizations and individuals to support our cause in bolstering the morale and in giving the needed support to the men and women now serving in Vietnam. We hope that by means of this March soldiers in Vietnam will know that they have the support of others besides their families."

Anyone interested in marching in the parade may contact Jerome L. Foley at 731-0638.

Apog House In Upper Falls Is Found Secure

Public Buildings Commissioner Vincent D. Burns stated recently that the vacant house on the property of Krist Apog at 1185 Boylston street, Newton Upper Falls, was found to be well boarded up and secure against trespass.

It has been inspected at least twice weekly since the deadline set for making it secure that was set by the Board of Aldermen, Burns said.

The Board set the date after a stormy public hearing in which neighboring owners of property declared that the house was an eyesore and a safety hazard.

Fire Chief Back

Chief Frederick A. Perkins Jr., returned to duty on Monday, June 5 after an absence of 10 weeks during which he was on leave as a result of injuries sustained in the line of duty while fighting fires this past winter.

The chief entered Newton-Wellesley Hospital Mar. 24, and underwent an operation, after which he was hospitalized for two weeks.

Aldermen Vote On Varied List Of Civic Items

Debate on a Shell Oil Company petition was halted at Monday night's meeting of the Board of Aldermen when Alderman Melvin J. Dangel imposed a charter objection.

The petition sought a waiver of restrictions that had been set for the service station at 199 Needham street, Newton Highlands — conditions pertaining to the use of banners, posters, etc., — for a three-day period, June 8, 9 and 10, the date of a proposed "grand opening" for the station, which the company holds could serve as a model for filling station construction throughout the city.

Dangel objected to the waiver on the ground that the station had never obeyed the Board's landscaping conditions which were previously imposed.

The matter will be considered at the June 19 meeting, provided no further charter objection is raised. In any event, the station's official opening — it has been unofficially in operation for several weeks — will have to be delayed at least for a week.

Other matters acted on at the meeting included the following:

The Board voted to express the city's gratitude to Mt. Ida Junior College for its donation of $2500 to the city for services that benefited the college.

Approval was given a request of Police Chief Philip Purcell for $9000 to pay officers appearing in court from May 1 to the balance of the year.

Approval was also voted on the Newton School Committee's request that the Mayor and the Board establish a trust fund in accordance with the provisions of a bequest contained in the will of Clinton H. Scovell. The amount involved is the income from $125,000, which is to be used in giving prizes to pupils.

An appropriation of $200 requested by the director-curator of the Jackson Homestead in order that he may attend a week-long seminar at the New York State Historical Society, Cooperstown, N. Y., on Early American Culture, was also approved.

Approval for $5000 was voted on a request for $6500 sought by the Recreational Commission for payment of School Department bills for custodial service in school buildings that get after-school use.

Also approved was a request by the Director of Public Works for $1025 to cover the annual cost of employing the Massachusetts Safety Council to assist the city in the establishment of occupational and vehicular safety programs for municipal employes.

Another Public Works appropriation approved was for $32,000 for reconstruction of Nehoiden road, Waban, the entire amount to be covered by state grants.

Two requests by the Water Commissioner were approved. One was for $4544 to replace a 45-year-old water main in Sargent park, Newton, and the other for water main extension in Parker terrace and Brandeis circle, Newton Centre.

An appropriation of $15,000 was approved to cover cost of additional construction on the Auburndale Playground in connection with the field house to replace the one that was burned down.

Charles River Study Group Delegates At Meeting Here

Once again Newton was host to the Charles River Valley Study Group, a composite of sixteen Leagues of Women Voters within the Charles River watershed. With three dozen delegates seated around the conference table and several tadpoles swimming in a bowl in the middle of it, Mrs. Russell Haddleton opened the Group's annual meeting at Holiday Inn on Wednesday, May 31.

The past year's activities were reviewed — in addition to its regular member meetings, statements have been presented at the Corps of Engineers hearings on the Charles River in January, and representation at water hearings has been unusually large.

For the coming year, the Group plans to study some of the more critical tributaries of the Charles, among them the Saw Mill Brook in Newton. The inland wetlands issue will also claim the attention and effort of the organization.

The League of Women Voters has strong support positions on many aspects of water resources, and through the Charles River Valley Study Group can take unified action whenever the Charles and its watershed are of concern.

Indeed the permanency now anticipated for the organization has led to adoption of by-laws to guide its operations, and included in these by-laws is a change of name to Charles River Valley Group.

Before luncheon the delegates heard an address by Malcolm E. Graf, director and chief engineer of the Water Resources Division, Massachusetts Deparement of Natural Resources. According to Mr. Graf, low flow is one of the Charles River's major ills, and his division is anticipating among other cures a series of upstream impoundments of the river waters for release during the critical dry summer months, water having a degree of ability to cleanse itself with adequate flow if other pollutants are under control.

Interbasin transfer of water from a larger stream is also under consideration, since the Charles River Basin is too highly developed to allow construction of storage facilities of any merit. Mr. Graf's comments touched on various aspects of the river from thermal and salt pollution in the Basin to prospects for public swimming.

Following lunch, the delegates formed a caravan for a short tour of the Basin, making several stops en route to inspect evidences of industrial pollution, municipal neglect, and citizen abuse.

Oil slick, indiscriminate dumping, and soil erosion paint a gloomy picture of the river which flows past many of Newton's doors, though there are signs of hope in the Metropolitan Area Planning Council's green-belt proposal.

It was an informative tour with consistent overtones of shock, and it was noted that those tadpoles — which accompanied the caravan — showed no desire to enter the river at any point and was taken to Beth Israel Hospital where he died early Sunday morning.

He served as vice-president and treasurer of the super-market chain from 1921 until the time of his passing. He was the founder and first president of the Associated Synagogues of Massachusetts. It was largely through his efforts that the American Synagogues building in Boston became the central address of the Jewish religious community.

Hirsch Sharf, Associated Synagogues president, stated that "the father, the pioneer, the architect of Associated Synagogues was always a tower of strength in our midst. We shall miss him greatly."

Said Rabbi Samuel I. Korff, president of the Rabbinical Council of Massachusetts, "Jacob Rabinovitz represented the finest and noblest of personalities in the religious, cultural, philanthropic and communal areas of service in our community."

Mr. Rabinovitz was also past president and treasurer of the Hebrew Home for the Aged; past president of the Zionist of America movemovement; a trustee of Beth Israel Hospital since 1925, and an officer and director of Temple Kehillath Israel of Brookline.

He was also active in the Jewish Memorial Hospital, Brandeis University Association, Technion Institute and the Weitzman Institute. He was awarded the Weitzman Medallion last year.

In addition to his wife, Mrs. Ada (Kaplan) Rabinovitz, survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Melvin (Janice) Pollack of Waban, two brothers, Joseph of Boston and Isadore Rabinovitz of Portland, Me., and five grandchildren.

Burial was in Adath Jeshurun Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Mrs. Russell Faucett, 74 Charlesbank Rd., Newton, a Scripps College, Clarement, Calif., alumna, will visit alumnae in this area seeking subscriptions to the college's $6.93 million Capital Campaign program.

Taxpayers Back City Division Of Finance

The Newton Taxpayers' Association supports the establishment of a division of finance in Newton's city government, annouced Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., the association's executive director this week.

An ordinance setting up such a division has been submitted by Mayor Monte G. Basbas and is now before the board of aldermen. It provides that the Accounting, Treasury and Collection Departments comprise the new division and that the Comptroller of accounts shall be the director in charge.

"The proposed change can help pinpoint responsibility, cut down on duplication, improve departmental cost accounting and coordinate the city's financial operations better, particularly if Newton goes in for full data processing," Muther asserted.

"The present legal powers and method of appointments of the departments themselves would not be invalidated and we believe more coherence can be achieved," he said.

"The main argument against the proposal appears to be that it is unnecessary until Newton goes to a full data processing," Muther noted.

"But on the basis of the association's earlier advocacy of a similar plan and our present interest in value engineering through strengthened accounting-budgeting procedures on both the city and school sides of the local government, we hope the aldermen will approve this proposal," Muther concluded.

They became engaged at Christmas 1965 and planned a June wedding, but their class schedule didn't permit much of a honeymoon. They managed to get an extra three days attached to a weekend.

Barbara graduated from Newton high school, where she was a member of the National Honor Society, and Wellesley College in 1963 with the degree of Bachelor of Science.

She was a zoology major, and a member of the yearbook staff, a sorority officer and the Carrillon Society. "Wellesley is only about 6 miles from home, so we had four years of open house at home," recalls Barbara.

Ron was born on Pearl Harbor Day (Dec. 7, 1941) just about the time the newscasts on the east coast were reporting the nation's greatest tragedy.

Ron was vice president of the National Honor Society and co-captain of the basketball team at Montourville high school. At Pennsylvania State University, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Science, Ron was a member of Phi Mu Delta and took part in intramural sports. In his sophomore year at Hahnemann, Ron had a summer clinical clerkship at Valley Forge Military Hospital, Phoenixville, Pa.

The doctors McCall will intern at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Boston. They hope that Ron can meet his service obligation with a tour of duty with the U.S. Public Health Service. Barbara plans to join up too and they hope to be assigned to the Indian Health group, because the U.S.P.H.S. will probably assign them so that they can serve as a couple.

Speaker Tells Young GOP . . .

Vietnam, Violence And Relief '68 GOP Issues

At their annual meeting Thursday, May 25th, the Newton Young Republican Club elected the following officers for the coming year: president, Vincent J. Farina; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Melvin B. Clayton; 2nd vice-president, Stephen Bishop; recording secretary, Mrs. Walter C. Lee; corresponding secretary, Denise Myers; treasurer, Frank Magnarelli.

"1968" was the subject of an address given by Mr. William Loeb, president and publisher of the Manchester Union Leader. He stated that there are three issues confronting Republican candidates in 1968 - Vietnam, violence, and relief.

It is Mr. Loeb's belief that most of the American people support the war effort in Vietnam and any Republican candidate who wishes to be elected in 1968 should do the same. He further stated th the terms "doves" a "hawks" are not hones descriptive and he favo substituting "chickens" a "eagles" in their place.

As for the problem of v lence, Mr. Loeb feels th many people in this count are afraid and will not su port any candidate that do not take a firm stand on th issue. As for relief, people a beginning to realize that th money is not coming fro the wealthy but is actual being taken from their ow pockets.

Mr. Loeb believes tha these three issues plus th possible threat of form Governor George Wallace Alabama as a third part candidate make it necessar for the republican party nominate a Nixon - Reaga or a Reagan - Nixon ticke in 1968.

Thieves Targets Vary In Newton

A doctor's home, a service station and an office were broken into in Newton over the past weekend.

The loot comprised a typewriter, tires, cases of oil, batteries, rolls of postage stamps and, perhaps, narcotics.

The break at the home of Dr. William Gile, of 112 Bullough pk., occurred last Friday night and entry was gained through a cellar door. Police said that it could not be determined immediately whether narcotics were the target of the burglars.

After ransacking the house, the intruders took the family car from a garage. It was later recovered in Brookline.

Dick Partridge, owner of Dick's Gulf Station at 1354 Washington st., West Newton, reported his station broken into Sunday. The thieves forced the paneling of the station's overhead door

J. Ellis Lane, of 339 Auburn st., Newton, said the door to his office was forced sometime Sunday and a typewriter and postage stamps taken.

Father McCarty will offer his first solemn Mass on Sunday, June 18th at Corpus Christi Church, 45 Ash St., Auburndale, at 11:45 a.m.

Assisting Fr. McCarty at the Mass will be Fr. George Smith as Deacon. Formerly stationed at Corpus Christi. Father Smith is now pastor of St. Mary's Church in Wrentham. Rev. Robert Phalen, S.J., Superior of Campion Hall Retreat House, North Andover, will act as Sub-Deacon.

Rev. Richard G. Shea, S.J., student-counsellor at Boston College, will preach the sermon. Fr. McCarty will give his first priestly blessing at a reception in the church hall after Mass until 4:00 p.m.

Aftetr attending Newton High School, graduating in 1942, Fr. McCarty enrolled at Boston College, where he completed his freshman year and in June of 1943 entered the U. S. Army.

He served with the 104th Infantry Division in Europe and returned to this country in 1946 to resume studies at Boston College, where he obtained his A.B. degree in 1949.

He subsequently enrolled at Babson Institute, in Wellesley Hills, and was awarded a degree in Business Administration from that institution in 1951. He then entered the employment of Associated Seed Growers, Inc., as a warehouse manager in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, and later as field representative for Pennslyvania and Virginia.

After a year's service on contract to the U. S. government in the Mariana Islands of the Western Pacific, he returned to the U.S. and in August of 1957 entered the Jesuit novitiate at Wernersville, Pa.

Upon completing the two years of noviceship at Wernersville, Fr. McCarty continued his studies at Weston College in Weston, (a division of Boston College) where he obtained his Licentiate in Philosophy in 1961.

For the next three years he was a member of the faculty at Fairfield University Preparatory School in Fairfield, Connecticut, where he taught English, Latin, and Theology, and was moderator of the debating team and coach of the cross-country running team.

Returning to Weston, he has been studying Theology, assisting in the operation of the Newman Clubs at several colleges in the Boston area, and teaching underprivileged students in Roxbury during the summers in an anti-poverty program sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, D.C., and directed by several Jesuit seminarians at Weston College.

This summer he will be doing parish work in Jamaica, W. I., with several other newly-ordained Jesuits who will take the places of Jesuits permanently stationed in Jamaica, so that the latter may pursue graduate studies at university summer schools in the United States.

After a final year of Theology, Fr. McCarty will go into the work of giving retreats at one of the Jesuit-run retreat houses in the New England area.

Fr. McCarty has three sisters and three brothers: John F. McCarty of Marshfield, Mass., (Attorney-in-charge of the New England Regional Office of the Federal Trade Commission); Mrs. Robert F. Pollock of Charlestown, Mass.; Edward V. McCarty Jr., of Glen Cove, L. I.; Mrs. Joseph F. Nally, of Levittown, N. Y.; Dr. Gerald J. McCarty, Ph. D., of Seattle, and Mrs. William T. Chaisson, of Auburndale.

Jewett st. and south of the city line, could hear and question Authority members about the proposal. The two-weeks hiatus would also give residents a chance to study the Authority's plans.

Prior to Monday night's meeting, a woman gave out letters to spectators claiming that if the Board of Aldermen approve the application of the Housing Authority, residents would be evicted from their property within 18 months.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas and the Aldermen were quick to refute the unfounded accusation declaring it to be "untrue." They emphasized the Authority is merely seeking funds to initiate the "planning and study" of a renewal project.

In its request for the Board's permission and approval of the application for federal funds, the Authority cited numerous reasons for its selection of the specific area for renewal.

They include:

1.—To improve structural deficiencies that cannot be improved by normal maintenance.

2.—To rectify traffic problems in and around the Centre St. area.

3.—To coordinate renewal planning with adjacent air rights development. Air Rights proposals contemplate the construction of major office, commercial and motel uses. The impact of the air rights development necessitates a need for traffic and land use improvements in Newton Corner.

4.—To provide needed land for additional off-street parking facilities that are convenient and easily accessible.

5.—To eliminate the instances of substandard and obsolete structures.

6.—To initiate one of the major recommendations of the Community Renewal Program. (The program recommended that Newton Corner be given first priority for renewal treatment.)

7.—To stimulate residential rehabilitation by providing improved public facilities such as sidewalks, streets, tree planting and street lighting.

8.—To improve the commercial area through additional parking, new sites for commercial development, attractive landscaping and sign control.

9.—To eliminate heavy through-traffic on narrow residential streets.

10.—To redesign the surface trolley line, which presently impedes traffic circulation.

The Authority describes the project area in the following terms:

"The area is bounded generally on the north by Nonantum Rd. and the municipal boundary between Newton and Watertown, on the east by a standard residential area, on the south by the Massachusetts Turnpike right-of-way and on the west by standard residential areas along Hovey St., Waban St., and Jewett St."

In pointing to the necessity for public action, the Authority states that "a survey of building and environmental conditions conducted in February, 1967, reevaled that deficiencies exist in the urban renewal area to the extent that public action is necessary to eliminate and prevent the spread of blight," and goes on to declare that 317 buildings in the project area are classified as deficient.

Continuing, the Authority says that "of the 317 buildings, 199 are standard, 93 are deficient and 25 are substandard to a degree requiring clearance. It is anticipated that limited clearance of up to 50 structures may be necessary because of structural deterioration."

Relative to the availability of housing for displaced families, the Authority says that it has considered the availability of housing for minority occupants, and that it will develop a program to expand moderate-income housing.

In a land acquisition policy statement, the Authority says that:

1.—Every reasonable effort will be made to acquire each property by negotiated purchase before instituting eminent domain proceedings against the property.

2.—No owner will be required to surrender the right to possession of his property until the Authority pays, or causes to be paid, to the owner:

(a) the agreed purchase price arrived at by negotiations; or

(b) in any case where only the amount of payment to the owner is in dispute, not less than 75 per cent of the appraised fair market value as approved by the Newton Redevelopment Authority and concurred in by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

3 — No person lawfully occupying property will be required to surrender possession without at least 90 days prior written notice from the Newton Redevelopment Authority.

Again referring to availability of housing for minority families, the Authority states that "if new housing is constructed in the area, it will be available to all families, without regard to race, creed or national origin."

Another item discussed at the Board's executive session was a petition by the Newton Housing Authority for a curb cut at the Ash Street, Auburndale, property taken as a site of housing for the elderly, so that parking spaces could be provided as replacement for those the Authority had taken. The committee on Franchises and Licenses recommended that the item be held and the Board went along with the recommendation.

Newton Couple Enjoys Fruits Of Generosity

The generosity of a Newton couple, who had given a full-tuition scholarship to a student from Israel a few years ago, was rewarded when they were privileged to be present when he received his Bachelor of Music Degree this month.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kahn of Louise Rd., Newton, sponsored the scholarship won by Itamar Lubetsky of Israel in 1964, for full-tuition to the Berklee School of Music in Boston.

Itamar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Lubetsky, traveled all the way from Israel, and were present, with Mr. and Mrs. Kahn, to attend the commencement exercises at the Berklee School to see their son receive his music degree, with a major in composition.

The young Israeli student arrived in the United States in 1964, after the Kahns had extended him the full scholarship which was offered on a competitive basis to a deserving and talented student from Israel.

Itamar was able to complete his requirements for a degree within three years by attending summer sessions at Berklee and taking extra-credit courses wherever possible. His ambition and hard work, coupled with his native ability were rewarded when he graduated with high honors.

He has been offered a scholarship to Tangelwood, where he will have the opportunity to hear his original music performed by the Boston Symphony musicians.

Upper Falls In Meeting Sets Up Plans For Year

The Executive Board of the Newton Upper Falls Improvement Association met recently at the home of the new president, Mr. Philip Dobbyn of 24 Hickory Cliff road. Many proposed improvements were discussed and plans formulated for progressive action in the forthcoming year. Areas of concentration will be a membership drive to enroll all residents of the area regardless of whether they own or rent their homes; a concentrated effort to alleviate the traffic and parking problems within the Upper Falls and a follow-through of the proposed Code Enforcement Program. Future social events were discussed with special emphasis on plans for the fall meeting of the Association late in September.

An advance of funds has been made to the Lions Team of the Babe Ruth League to assist in paying their registration fee. Plans are being made to issue a NEWSLETTER to keep the members informed of the activities of the Association and progress made in resolving the many problems which face the area.

The next Executive Board meeting will be held on June 21. In the meantime, various committees are now being formed and help is solicited from any resident in the Upper Falls wishing to help in the activities of the Association. For further information, contact any of the following committee chairmen:

Robert Young, 48 River avenue, public works; George Eames, 949 Chestnut street, finance and membership; Mrs. Gertrude Carroll, 19 Rockland place, Social; Kenneth Vlass, 12 Spring street, recreation; and Mrs. Eileen Roberts, 942 Chestnut street, publicity.

Westdale Girl Scout Service Team Meets

The Westdale Neighborhood Service Team of Bay Path Colonial Girl Scout Council held its 1967-68 program planning session in the home of Mrs. Newton A. Teixira, 92 Webster Pk., West Newton.

Mrs. Michael "Pat" Norris of Needham, a new Council field director, explained the new concepts in leadership training pilot courses which begin Oct. 4.

Mrs. Frederick Casey of Auburndale, neighborhood secretary, was awarded the 10-year service pin.

Also attending were Mrs. David Kendall of West Newton, annual Girl Scout Breakfast chairmen, and Mrs. Charles Levy of Auburndale, Williams School organizer.

Workshops and buzz sessions were planned for the regular neighborhood meetings to be held in the Unitarian Church hall, West Newton, starting Sept. 21 with a court of honor demonstration.

"Peace Talkathon" Is Planned For This City

Mrs. Elizabeth Merrill

"Vietnam Summer" got off to an enthusiastic start in Newton last Thursday (June 1) when hotheads and moderates in the peace movement united to agree on an action-oriented program and a "peace talkathon" for this community, effective immediately.

The ad hoc groups, which met in the Eliot Church of Newton under the sponsorship of the Newton Community Peace Center, appointed Richard Sterne and Mrs. Elizabeth Merrill as co-chairmen.

"Vietnam Summer" (it was explained) is a mass, nationwide effort, initiated by the Rev. Martin Luther King and two Harvard professors, to bring the techniques of the civil right movement to bear on citizen efforts to end the war in Vietnam. According to Lee Webb, national director of the movement which had its headquarters in Cambridge, opposition to the Administration's policy in Vietnam is far more widespread than opinion polls indicate.

"Vietnam Summer," a true grassroots effort to identify and mobilize silent dissenters, will employ door-to-door canvassing, neighborhood meetings, and educational seminars in 500 communities across the country, of which Newton is one.

The Newton effort is being spearheaded by the Newton Community Peace Center, located at 474 Center street, Newton (the Eliot Church), telephone 332-9110. Staff director is Miss Patricia Deats, a research assistant at Harvard, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Deats of West Newton. Richard Silver a Newton student at University of Massachusetts will serve as field staff.

A major activity in Newton will be door-to-door canvassing by Newton citizens to find out their neighbors' attitudes and opinions on the Vietnam war, and to invite them to join in discussion and action. The first training session for these volunteers will be held Thursday, June 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the Peace Center. Chairman of the canvassing effort is John Oliver Perry, a Newton resident and professor at Tufts.

Another action taken by the 'Vietnam Summer' in Newton group was to officially open the Peace Center each Wednesday night to serve as an ever-available focal point for discussion, education, dissent and exchange of opinion on the war in Vietnam.

All citizens of Newton will be able to stop by at the evening sessions to trade views, to see movies or hear lectures, to get literature, and generally to air their sentiments regarding the hostilities in Southeast Asia. The originator and organizer of the Peace Talkathon is Fred King, of Newton Highlands, physics technician at Harvard.

At last Thursday's kick-off meeting, the younger element attempted to shake their more conservative elders into more dramatic action. It was pointed out that this is typical of both the peace and civil rights movements, where young blood and brainpower has supplied much of the drive and manpower. At the urging of the student contingent, who opposed "pussyfooting," the following Statement of Purpose was adopted:

The program of Vietnam Summer in Newton is based on the following assumptions:

1. That the Vietnam conflict daily brings us closer to the danger of a showdown with China, and ultimately a nuclear conflict;

2. That the Vietnam War is brutal and unjust;

3. That the present purposes and policies of the United States government in southeast Asia require fundamental change;

4. That many of our neighbors who are now silent are ready to have their concern publicly identified and to engage in study and action aimed at such a reorientation of policy;

We endorse no single solution, but are united in the conviction that peaceful alternatives to present policies and trends need immediate and widespread consideration. In this we invite our neighbors to joining. (End of Statement of Purpose.)

While the organizing of canvassing teams is still underway, Vietnam Summer in Newton is reported in full swing, with Miss Deats manning the 474 Centre street office every morning from 9-12 noon. All persons interested in helping with the movement or in learning more about it are urged to call (332-9110) or visit the office. Miss Deats reports, "Volunteers are needed on every front and all kinds of time and talent can be put to productive use."

Other Newton individuals and organizations involved in the Executive Committee of Vietnam Summer in Newton are: Treasurer: Mrs. Edmund Berkeley; Publicity Officer: Mrs. Marian Poverman; Newton PAX (Political Action for Peace): Irving Schwartz (co-chairman pro tem in Mr. Sterne's absence. VOW (Voice of Women): Kay Stein.

Committee of Religious Concern for Peace: Rev. Ronald Prinn WIL (Women's International League for Peace and Freedom): Mrs. Lawrence Cooke, Mrs. Bernard Jacobson, Mrs. Rohna Shoul Boston Area Faculty Group on Public Issues (BAFGOPI): John Oliver Perry, College Students: Steve Savitt, Brandeis, Mark Phillips, Harvard, High School Students: Anne Lown, Jeff Crosby.

Others present at the June 1 meeting were: Joanne Barres, Paul Deats, Jr., Fred King, Richard Silver, and Martin Sklar.

The second doubles team of Alan Starr and Bruce Cornblatt were the only losers. Winners were: First doubles team of Jon Bloom and Noah Bronson, third singles player Andy Cornblatt, second singles player Gary Mescon and first singles player Bucky Adams, over his rival and nemesis, Paul Lubin.

In the semi-finals, Saturday morning, Newton South advanced by beating Weston, 3-2, while Newton High defeated Brookline 4-1.

In the first round of the day, the Lions triumphed over Lawrence High School, 4-1. Gary Mescon absorbed the only Lions loss.

Earlier in the week, the Lions finished the season at 13-1, by trouncing Lexington, 5-0. The JV tennis team also defeated Lexington, 4-0, ad finished its season with a perfect 7-0 record. BRUCE LEWIS

Young Pianist From Here Solos At Boston 'Pops'

Bruce Lewis, age 17, performed as piano soloist with the Boston Pops under the direction of Arthur Fiedler at Symphony Hall on Saturday evening, May 20. His selection was the Finale from Beethoven's First Piano Concerto in C Major. He has also played under the direction of Harry Ellis Dickson as well as performing for many local groups.

Bruce has studied piano since the age of eight, and is the youngest pupil of Professor Leon Tumarkin of Boston University. He attends the Chamber Music Workshop at the New England Conservatory to which only a few young talented musicians are invited.

A junior at Newton South High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lewis of Newton Centre.

Solon Favors Boost In Pay For Chairman

Rep. Irving Fishman of Newton this week proposed a boost in the salary of the chairman of the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination from $9500 to $15,000.

The House Ways and Means Committee had proposed to make the position full-time but had recommended only a $500 raise. "It is patently unreasonable to make a position full-time and add $500 a year to its salary," Fishman said. His amendment to the bill on agency heads' salaries was adopted.

SPACE IS STILL among the first considerations by new home buyers, but Norwood builder Frank Portugal believes some less obvious signs of quality like maximum insulation, optional utility choices and extra bathrooms attract buyers to his Hawthorne Acres community in Medfield. He also emphasizes family rooms or dens finished with ranch oak plank flooring. In a two-story garrison style selling for $37,500, he created a living room 13½ feet by 22½ feet where a piano was easily accommodated. Exterior elevations usuallly adhere to a familiar tradition architectural style wth each house individually designed and sited. Shown is one of several large beautiful Colonials still available at Hawthorne Acres, Medfield. Frank Portugal has plans to build several custom homes shortly in choice location in Norwood.

Week Of "Almosts" . . .

Tennis, Golf, Track Teams Come This Close To Victory

By STEVE KENDALL

After handily defeating three opponents, the Newton High tennis team was halted in its bid to gain the Eastern Massachusetts championship by Newton South High 4 to 1, last Saturday at Newton South.

It was a week of "almosts" for NHS sports, as the golf team narrowly missed winning the Suburban League title and a state tourney berth, and the track team was knocked from a fourth place finish to seventh in the state meet's last event, the relay. A week earlier, the baseballers were edged out of a position in the state tourney.

Coach George Jessup's netmen swept by Sharon High in the first match of the 16-team EMass tourney, 5-0. Paul Lubin, Andy Rosenberg, Steve Cain, and the doubles teams of Steve Russell and Leon Geller, and Don Bertsch and Dave Hirschberg all won. Sharon carried a 13-1 record into the match.

The racketeers avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of Winchester High, by tipping that team in the quarterfinals, 3-2. It was Lubin, Cain, and Russell and Geller who picked up the Tiger points.

A 4-1 victory over Brookline High in the semis gave Newton the right to meet South in the finals. Only Steve Cain failed to win against the Wealthy-Towners.

Continuing their strong rivalry, the Tigers and Lions went at it with Newton South reaching the winner's circle. The first three matches of the afternoon were won by South to clinch the title. Only when Don Bertsch and Dave Hirschberg won did Newton avert a shutout.

Both Newton and Newton South will go to the state championship tourney next Saturday or to the University of Massachusetts. Newton will face the number one team in the west and South the number two team, with the winners playing for the state title.

The linksters romped over Newton South again, 9-0, and beat Weymouth High, 6-3, before Brookline tamed the Tiger, 5-4. The league championship was not decided on a won-lost basis, however, but a cumulative point basis.

Brookline ended up with 66 points and Newton had 57. Therefore, the Tigers entered the match needing 8½ points to tie for the top. Despite a 76 by Ralph Murphy and a 79 by Dudley Cotton, the team couldn't pull out the triumph.

The trackmen had seven different boys score points to reach a 14-point total. Entering the relay, the speed merchants were trailing only Weymouth, the eventual winner, B. C. High, and Lowell. However, Beverly, New Bedford, and Boston English scored in the relay to surpass the Newtonites.

Junior Chris Quinn led Ne wton with a second in the low hurdles, turning in his finest performance of the year. Adrian Walcott copped a third in the 880 and Joe Greenman a fifth.

Kevin Morrison finished fourth in the high hurdles, Bob Houghteling fifth in the 220, and Bob Tenant fifth in the two-mile. The only place-winner in the field events for Newton was Ron Howland, who was fourth in the broad jump.

R.R. Hearing On Newton Problem Set For June 15

Newton residents who are opposed to the curtailment of commuter service on the New York Central Railroad were urged today by Mayor Monte G. Basbas to attend the next hearing on the matter to be held at the State House at 10 a.m. next Thursday (June 15) by the State Public Utilities Commission.

At the same time the Mayor commended those who turned out for a hearing last Thursday but emphasized that everyone who is against a further reduction in train service should make his or her sentiment felt, pointing out that this is the only way the D.P.U. Commissioners can know how the pubic feel on the question.

Basbas pointed out that although passenger services are not being used to their full capacity at this time, federal surveys indicate that the suburbs are growing five times faster than the core cities, and the need for public transportation of this type consequently will become greater.

ISRAEL HUNTING THOUSANDS OF DYING EGYPTIANS

ISRAELI PLANES and ground forces were searching occupied Sinai today for thousands of Egyptian soldiers feared dying of wounds, thirst and hunger on burning desert sands. Aid programs were launched for Arab refugees of the Mideast war.

The plight of war victims in conquered areas of Egypt, Jordan and Syria overshadowed Soviet demands for an emergency meeting of the United Nations General Assembly to condemn Israel as the aggressor and force withdrawal of its troops to pre-war lines.

The meeting of the 122-nation assembly, where the big powers have no veto, appeared certain, and the Soviets were reported planning to use it as the forum for one of their fiercest propaganda campaigns in years.

KOREA STUDENTS THREATEN GOVERNMENT

TWENTY THOUSAND STUDENTS fought with club-wielding police in the streets of Seoul yesterday, and threatened a drive to overthrow the government of South Korea.

The students hurled rocks amid clouds of tear gas, in the third day of violent demonstrations against alleged "rigging" of last Thursday's parliamentary elections.

They also carried placards warning the government to remember similiar student riots in April, 1960, led to the overthrow of President Syhgman Rhee.

JAPAN BARES FEAR OF RED CHINA H-BOMB

COMMUNIST CHINA'S nuclear weapons will become operational after 1970 and will post a threat to Japan and other parts of the world, a top official of the Japanese Self Defense Agency said.

Yutaka Shimada, defense affairs bureau director of the agency, said that Japan is not fully prepared against Chinese nuclear attack or the hazzards of radioactive fallout. He said Japan depends for its security on the Japan-United States security treaty.

RUSK TELLS NATO SOVIETS AGREE ON NUCLEAR PACT

SECRETARY OF STATE Dean Rusk told NATO allies at Luxembourg that the United States and Russia had agreed on the main points of treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons, but had failed to agree on ways to enforce it.

U.S. officials said Rusk told NATO foreign ministers that a rough draft of the treaty may be submitted soon to the 17-nation disarmament conference at Geneva. But, the draft would contain a blank space in place of an article setting forth ways to inspect the ban and keep signatories from cheating.

Bellotti in his campaign for Attorney General last year, spent nearly twice as much money as he reported to the Secretary of State, the New Bedford Standard-Times said yesterday. The paper said thousands of dollars were spent for the candidate by the Democratic State Committee. This money, the paper added was not under Bellotti's name.

Using figures from the Secretary of State, the Standard-Times said Bellotti's expenditures for 1966 were $121,505. But to this the paper added the Democratic committee's expenditures attributed to Bellotti of $161,948. The total amount was $283,453.

LAWRENCE SCHOOL BOARD WARNS TEACHERS

THREE MEMBERS of the Lawrence School Committee said yesterday they will shut the door on future negotiations with the Lawrence Teachers Union unless the union revokes its threat not to report for classes today.

Mayor Daniel P. Kiley, attorney Thomas F. Caffrey and John A. Stundza voted Tuesday for a two-year pay package totaling $284,000. However, after learning of the union's threat, all three said they will refuse to discuss the matter with the teachers unless the union removes the threat.

Combat veteran John J. Leary, 32, of Medford, a truck driver who marched 107 miles last summer in support of U.S. policies in Vietnam, plans another long trek this month —80 miles from Somerville to Hyannis.

The ex-Marine says he is recruiting marchers to join him in the long walk June 22, 23 and 24. Last year, up to a dozen fellow Teamsters Union members accompanied him at times in his march to Franklin, N.H.

SENATE APPROVES 4-YEAR DRAFT EXTENSION

THE SENATE APPROVED yesterday a four-year extension of the draft. It would permit President Johnson to order 19-year-olds drafted first and guarantee deferments to college students regardless of their grades. The vote was 72 to 23.

The Senate approved the compromise measure and sent it to the House, which is expected to pass it Thursday and send it on to the White House for President Johnson's signature.

DODD FEELS HE HAS ENOUGH VOTES TO WIN

SEN. THOMAS J. DODD swore to God yesterday he was telling the truth about his financial affairs and challenged each of his Senate colleagues to call him a liar or a cheat.

The Connecticut Democrat took the floor to read a previously released speech in his defense against charges of misuse of political and government funds that led to a censure resolution against him. When he finished, Dodd told newsmen he had enough votes to win. "I told the truth and in my 60 years of experience you can't beat the truth," he told newsmen.

OFFICIAL DEATH TOLL OF USS LIBERTY SET AT 34

THE DEFENSE DEPT. yesterday set at 34 the official U.S. death toll in the Israeli air and torpedo boat attack on the communications ship Liberty in the Mediterranean last week.

The Pentagon transferred the status of 24 crewmen from missing to dead and added to the previous list of dead a 10th American killed in the attack. His death was overlooked in the confusion following the strike.

JACKIE AND CHILDREN FLY TO IRELAND

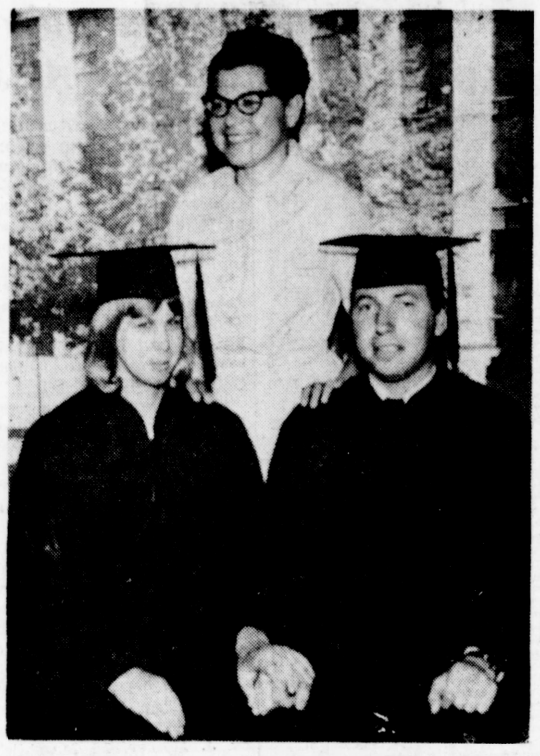

MRS. JOHN F. KENNEDY and her children were to arrive in Ireland today for an idyllic summer vacation that has the Emerald Isle in a tizzy of anticipation.

The Kennedys left New York on a regular Irish Airlines flight at 9:30 p.m., last night and were due at Shannon Airport at 8:30 a.m., local time today. Thousands of Irish set their alarm clocks early so they could welcome the family personally at Shannon Airport or one of the towns along their route.

MAINE HOUSE KILLS ABORTION BILL

THE MAINE HOUSE killed a bill yesterday to liberalize the state's abortion law.

After two hours of debate which sometimes was charged with emotion, the legislators voted 90 to 39 against the highly-controversial measure to allow therapeutic abortions. Last week, the Senate gave the proposal initial approval.

School Board Votes To Add More Metco Pupils

By JAMES G. COLBERT, JR.

An additional 25 Negro pupils from the Roxbury section of Boston will be admitted to Newton elementary schools under the METCO program in September if State funds are made available to pay their tuition fees, it was voted at Monday night's School Committee meeting.

Tuition charges for the 50 Roxbury children now attending Newton pupils will continue to be paid from federal funds under Title III of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Whether State funds will be provided to pay the tuition costs for another 25 Negro youngsters is not yet certain, but State officials indicated last night that they probably will be.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington has allowed METCO an additional $109,000 in Federal funds for the next school year but stipulated that this money be used to expand the program into communities other than the seven, including Newton, which are now participating in the program and already have Roxbury children in their schools.

However, the State Legislature and Governor Volpe may allot $100,000 to METCO which could be used to pay the tuition charges so that additional Negro boys and girls could attend schools in Newton and several towns willing to accept them.

Three of the Roxbury youngsters attending Newton schools will be promoted this month from the sixth grade to junior high school. The other 47 will continue in elementary grades during the next school year.

Tuition fees, which under Massachusetts law must correspond to the per pupil costs for the preceding year, were set this year by the School Committee at $554 per year for elementary school children and $739 for junior high school pupils.

Tuitions paid for METCO pupils are turned over to the city treasury.

Newton's school administration policy on METCO children has been to place them in classrooms where the total class size would not exceed 25 pupils.

During the school year now drawing to an end the Negro children have attended the Claflin, Hyde, Spaulding, Countryside, Mann, Williams and Oak Hill Schools.

Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Brown indicated that the Cabot School probably will join the group of METCO schools next Sep-

Less Parking At Air Rights Is Unopposed

A petition requesting a reduction in the number of parking spaces required at the proposed $15 million air rights development over the toll road in Newton Corner met with no opposition at a public hearing held at City Hall Monday night by the Aldermanic Claims and Rules Committee and the Planning Board.

Mark Waltch, president of Urban Development Corp., which is planning the development, declared that it could not be undertaken if parking requirements are prohibitive.

His two-point petition sought a change in the exist-

Candidate Scarcity In Newton Stressed

An appeal to Newton citizens to consider running for public office in next November's municipal election, was issued last night by the Newton Chapter of the League of Women Voters.

"For a city the size and character of Newton, too few people run for local office," declared Mrs. Harold Gorman, chairman of the League's Voter Service Committee.

She pointed out that in the last city election in 1965 nine offices — four seats on the Board of Aldermen and five on the School Committee — were won without contests.

"It is of major importance that citizens have a choice of candidates when they go to the polls on Nov. 7," observed Mrs. Gorman.

Newton voters next November will elect 33 officials — a Mayor, 24 Aldermen and eight School Committee members, she cited.

"If the Charter review question appears on the ballot, Newton citizens also will vote for nine Charter Commission members," Mrs. Gorman added.

She observed that there are about 48,000 registered voters legally qualified to fill these offices.

Mrs. Gorman stressed that it is relatively easy for a candidate to place his or her name on the election ballot.

A candidate for Mayor must obtain the valid signatures of 100 registered voters to qualify for a place on the ballot, she said, adding that a candidate for Alderman-at-Large or the School Committee must secure 50 signatures and a

Angier Parents Set Renovations Action

A plea for immediate renovations at the Angier School in Waban to relieve small and overcrowded classrooms, as well as the construction of an additional wing for the school at some future date, was made to the School Committee Monday night by a group of Angier parents.

Ward 5 School Committeeman Edwin Hawkridge, whose district encompasses the Angier School, introduced the school's PTA president Eugene Hirshberg, who in turn presented Norman W. White and Edward Ehrenberg. White and Ehrenberg outlined the conclusions of a 21-page report on conditions at the school and possible solutions for them.

White, who will be Angier PTA president next year, and Ehrenberg were accompanied by some 25 parents and Angier principal Dr. Rita Emlaw.

The School Committee voted to accept the report and to request Mayor Monte G. Basbas to initiate action on it in order to provide additional classroom space by next September. The Mayor must initiate all building programs and the Board of Aldermen can only reject or cut the program, not increase or start them.

Fate Of Tax Rate Is Set By Aldermen

Whether Newton's tax rate this year can be held below $78 apparently depends on how much money the Board of Aldermen appropriate next Monday night from the city's surplus fund.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas has recommended to the members of the Board of Assessors that they seek a $900,000 appropriation from the surplus fund which now totals about $1,200,000.

Basbas expressed the conviction that a $900,000 appropriation could be justified because the city within the next few weeks will receive $250,000 from the Turnpike Authority as payment for the Newton Corner firehouse taken by the Authority to make way for the toll road extension.

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Ted Blocks Move To Retain Present Congress Districts

Senator Edward M. Kennedy has flagged down a bill designed to eliminate the immediate need for revamping the congressional districts in Massachusetts and about 30 other states.

Whether he has been sucessful in preventing the passage of any measure is uncertain.

A strong possibility exists that the bill might die as a result of a dispute between the national House and the U.S. Senate.

A lesser likelihood is that some Senator will shift their positions under pressure or persuasion from Congressmen who want to maintain the status quo through next year's election.

At this point it seems entirely improbable that any new law will be enacted which would nullify the court order for the creation of new congressional districts in this state.

Safe Driving Campaign Is Urged By School Chairman

A campaign by the PTA Council to educate Newton residents to drive more safely was recommended by School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman after a meeting on school children's traffic safety problems with School Superintendent Charles F. Brown and Mayor Monte G. Basbas.

The conference came as the result of a request by School Committeeman Edwin Hawkridge that a study be made of school safety problems.

No specific solutions were reached although there was general agreement that better safety will stem from better education.

School Committeeman Vincent P. Stanton praised the work of Safety Officer Charles Feeley and voiced his surprise at the fact that Feeley had spent a Saturday morning showing a group of Stanton's neighbors' children bicycle safety practices.

Committeeman Way Dong Woo indicated that teen-age drivers and motorcylists have created a safety hazard on weekends in the vicinity of Newton South High School.

Dr. Brown commented: "This is a very gray area," but indicated that such acts are primarily a matter of police jurisdiction. "We have no authority to patrol Brandeis' road," Brown added.

"It is partly a matter of education," the Superintendent said, "but these youngsters presumably have parents someplace."

Chairman Berman said that as a parent he felt that the driver training course given at Newton High School was so good it could not be improved.

Airman Davis Is Promoted

Fred M. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton P. Davis Sr., 169 Washington St., Newton, has been promoted to airman first class in the U.S. Air Force.

Airman Davis is a preventive medicine specialist at Dow AFB, Maine. He is a member of the Strategic Air Command, which maintains America's constantly alert force of intercontinental missiles and jet bombers.

The airman is a graduate of Newton High School, and received an A.S. degree from Newton Junior College.

Newspaperman Charles Burton Dies Suddenly

Funeral services for Charles W. Burton, 74, a good newspaperman, were held Tuesday at 11 a.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church, Sharon. He died suddenly last Sunday.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., he had lived in Sharon for the past 13 years. He formerly resided in Newton, Melrose, Hanover and Manchester, N.H.

Folowing service in the Navy in World War I, he was night editor of the Boston Herald before opening radio station WEEI in 1924. He served as general manager of the station until 1939 when he left to free-lance as a radio comedy script writer.

From 1941 to 1943 he was manager of radio station WMUR in Manchester, N.H. He left the station in 1943 to serve with the Office of Civilian Defense and the War Finance Division, U.S. Treasury, until the end of World War II.

For a time he worked as an editor for the Boston Record American and for many years he served as a State House news reporter.

More recently he was employed by the Transcript Press Publications of Dedham, publishers of the Newton Graphic. In his capacity there he regularly "covered" Newton City Hall and the Board of Aldermen meetings.

Although he was 74 years old, his actions, his appearance, his merry sense of humor and capacity for work belied his years. His fellow workers will miss him.

In addition to his wife, Emily A. (Norwood), he is survived by a son, John R. Burton, of Cotuit, a daughter, Mrs. Roger Cote, of Manchester, N.H., two sisters and eight grandchildren.

A large delegation of fellow workers attended the simple funeral services in St. John's Church where the Rev. Dwight Fortune officiated.

Newton Takes Part In U.S. Anti-Crime Workshop

Ray Goodman of Newton was one of over 100 private citizens participating in a national workshop of citizens-against-crime held in Washington, D. C. this month.

As a member of the Massachusetts Council on Crime and Delinquency, Mr. Goodman is one of the State's active spokesmen for organizing--and utilizing—citizen action in the war on crime.

In addition, James A. Vorenberg — Executive Director of the President's Crime Commission, and a professor of criminal and corporation law at Harvard—participated in a special session of the workshop to discuss citizen action against crime in the state of Massachusetts. Also joining in this session was Congressman James A. Burke (D) of Milton.

The workshop was the first national citizen group reaction to the recommendations of the Crime Commission report—and was held in conjunction with the May meeting of the Board of Trustees of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

The Massachusetts Council on Crime and Delinquency is one of 19 state action programs now participating in the stepped-up national war on crime.

Senator Edward M. Kennedy and U S Attorney General Ramsey Clark, were present at the closing session of the meeting. Clark pointed out that the government cannot work alone, and commended NCCD for its initiative in mobilizing private citizens into organized programs that take active part in the war on crime.

A new anti-crime unit, to be composed of outstanding businessmen from all over the country, was announced at the closing session. The specific task of this National Emergency Committee on Crime and Delinquency is to bring Big Business into the war on crime through raising money, holding national workshops, and focusing wide public attention on problems ranging from rackets in business to steering the first offender away from a life of crime.

He said the $250,000 could be used for the same purpose as the surplus fund.

Newton's tax rate would jump about $5.50 over last year's figure of $72.20 if $900,000 is taken from the surplus fund. It would go proportionately higher if less than $900,000 is taken from the fund.

Mayor Basbas lost his fight to reduce the amount Newton must pay as its share of the cost of the county government.

The only remaining unknown factor which must be determined before the tax rate can be established is how much will be taken from the surplus fund to reduce the amount of money which must be raised by the tax levy.

Wolf has long been engaged in organizations dealing with the problems of teen-agers. He is an Associate Commissioner of the Youth Activities Commission of the City of Boston, an unpaid statutory Commission which administers the delinquency prevention program of the City of Boston.

He is chairman of the Board of Trustees of Youth Educational Assistance, Inc., which grants trade-school scholarships to high-school dropouts who cannot qualify for other assistance. Wolf was also chairman of the Detached Youth Worker Committee of the Jewish Community Center, which supervised a pioneer program dealing with behavior problems of teen-agers in the suburbs.

A practicing attorney for 18 years, Wolf is managing partner in the law firm of Minz, Levin, Cohn and Glovsky in Boston. He served as a first lieutenant with the Ninth Air Force in Europe during World War II and was awarded the Air Medal with four Oak Leaf clusters and a Presidential Unit citation.

Wolf graduated from Harvard College and Harvard Law School and lectured for three years on taxation in the Boston University Law School Graduate Tax Program. He is a member of the Boston Bar Association, the American Bar Association, the Harvard Law School Association, and the Harvard Club of Boston. He also serves on the boards of directors of a number of corporations in the Greater Boston area.

He is married to the former Marjorie Cohn, who grew up in Waban. Their children, Charles, Thomas and Elizabeth attend the Newton Public Schools.

"It is the Board of Aldermen, not the School Committee, which is charged by law with the responsibility for school construction and maintenance of buildings, and I am concerned over the state of many of our school buildings," Wolf said.

"As the parent of a son who has just completed junior high school at the Frank A. Day School and will enter Newton High School in the Fall, and of another son who will enter Day Junior High School in the fall, I assure the citizens of Newton that I will have a particular interest in the plans and progress of the new Day Junior High School and Newton High School which must be constructed in the next few years," Wolf continued.

"Traditionally, the people of Newton have wanted the best available services, whether for our schools or other municipal services. I detect a growing awareness among our citizens of the problems involved in providing the finances to pay for such services," he stated.

"It seems to me, therefore," Wolf concluded, "that until other sources of funds become available (whether federal or state), we will have to establish a system of priorities so that we may apply our existing resources more efficiently to the most pressing needs of our community."

Word War Just Beginning

The fighting in the Mideast is now over and the interminable war of words is just beginning. During the recent conflict the Israelis did not do too much talking - they acted, after first warning Egyptian President Gamel Abdel Nasser and the rest of the members of the United Arab Republic that Israel would defend its territorial sovereignty.

The Israelis smashed the Arab armies, opened the Gulf of Aqaba, took all the city of Jerusalem and its armies are stretched from the west bank of the Suez Canal to the east bank of the Jordan River. They hold a large slice of the upper Syrian plateau south of Mount Hermon and all of the Holy Land.

Once again last week Jews blew the ram's horn at the ancient Wailing Wall in the Old City of Jerusalem, and Israeli soldiers prayed where their forefathers prayed when David was King of Israel. The Israeli government says it will never give up Jerusalem again; never return to a partitioned city. They have taken the Old City from Jordan and will never relinquish it.

It became more and more apparent last week after the capture of the Old City and its historical and religious shrines, that the Arabs found a new "Wailing Wall" in the councils of the United Nations in New York City.

Members of the United Arab Republic, their other allies and the big friendly bear, spurned the UN when the Arabs mobilized their armies, closed the Strait of Tiran, entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba, and the jingoistic call for Holy War rang out through Islam. In the short space of a few days, however, things changed!

Suddenly, little Israel was the "imperialistic aggressor" accused of launching a Hitlerite blitzkreig on the poor, well-meaning members of the United Arab Republic. The criers stooped to the lowest kind of diplomatic invective seldom heard in UN councils. Diplomatic relations were broken with both the United States, by members of the Arab bloc, and with Israel, by Russia and members of the Communist bloc. They all bleated like little lambs being led to the slaughter.

And it has only just begun. Israel has said it will not return to the status quo and will "assure the victories won on the battlefield." The U.A.R. and the big friendly bear will try to win with words that which was lost through force of arms.

We predict only one thing: The members of the U.A.R. will be quick to resume diplomatic relations with the United States.

They'll do it for a good reason. They'll want our money. They were in enough economic trouble before the conflict; now they are in much worse shape. They lost about $1 billion worth of arms during the debacle which the friendly bear will not write off. So, they'll turn again to Uncle Sam and we'll probably respond - we usually do.

"Communications Gap"

Failure on the part of Newton citizens to pay enough attention - or in many cases any attention - their school officials and School Committee was recently criticized in a Graphic editorial.

It should be added that part of the difficulty in communications between schools and the rest of the world, is that educators frequently use their own language which is not immediately intelligible to outsiders.

For example, something about the problems facing Newton educators makes them use English words as if they were speaking German. One can almost hear the hyphens click into place between words losing their independence. Thus, when Newton teachers ask for "time-to-think" or "room-to-work", it is pretty clear that what they really want is "Denkenszeit and Werkenscraum".

Likewise, when the importance of "vertical and horizontal communication" is stressed, the non-initiates are likely to think that the school department favors taking the seats out of telephone booths and installing rows of chaise lounges in shady places on school campuses.

Thirdly, it might be worthwhile to propose a six-month moratorium on the use of the word "experience" after nouns. Because otherwise it would seem that Newton children go through the home-experience, the class-experience, the learning experience,but somehow are screened by the welter of experience from the home, the school learning and various and sundry other things.

If the six month moratorium doesn't give the ladies and gentlemen of the schools a chance to shake the habit of talking about experiences instead of things, an 18 month moratiorum could be added.

Lastly, we would suggest that in their explanation of school policy they stop wielding paragraphs from Harvey Cox, Marshall McLuhan, Arnold Toynbee and Alfred North Whitehead, and talk exclusively about children, books, rooms, teachers and money.

Political Highlights

Until Ted Kennedy scored a surprising victory on the floor of the Senate, a bill which would have allowed a population deviation of up to 30 per cent between the biggest and smallest congressional districts in a state appeared on its way to passage.

Then Ted kicked over the applecart as he succeeded in attaching an amendment to the measure limiting the population deviation to 10 per cent.

Since the biggest congressional district in Massachusetts has 27 per cent more residents than the smallest one, that pulled the rug out from under those seeking to prevent congressional redistricting in this state before next year's election.

Ted Kennedy's action in spearheading a successful fight to water down the congressional redistricting bill didn't arouse any cheers from the Bay State Congressmen who want to keep their districts as they are. But he felt the measure was unconstitutional under the Supreme Court's one-man one-vote ruling.

The bill, which at one stage appeared to have clear sailing on its way to President Johnson's desk, now has gone instead to a conference committee representing both the House and the Senate.

It is unlikely to come out of that committee in a form which would be any comfort to the Massachusetts Congressmen.

Redistricting Plan Reflects Juggling Act

Whether a plan worked out by a special legislative committee for carving the state into 12 new congressional districts will win approval of both the Legislature and Governor Volpe is a big question.

If the sole test is that each district must have approximately the same population, it should be acceptable to the federal court.

Initial scrutiny of the redistricting proposal leaves the impression that the committee members were reasonably fair and impartial in their approach to the difficult problem dropped into their laps.

Their task was to produce a plan for the creation of 12 new congressional districts, each with approximately the same number of residents based on the out-dated 1960 federal census.

They have done that, and in doing it they apparently did not play politics or try to Gerrymander any present Congressman out of office.

But they did quite a juggling act in their efforts to fit all the pieces together. This is what may cause some outcries of protest.

For example, Newton, next door to Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler's home town of Wellesley, would be shifted to the district of Congressman Harold D. Donohue of Worcester.

Natick, only a couple of communities away from Donohue's home city, would be moved into the Heckler district.

Mrs. Heckler's district would hop, skip and jump over a large area of the state, beginning at Fall River in southeastern Massachusetts, coming up to Westwood, Needham and Wellesley, in Greater Boston and curving out to Natick.

While the peppy and popular Congresswoman probably could still win reelections in it, she is not enthusiastic about the idea of losing Newton where she has established one of her offices and has a big following.

It's easy, of course, to sit back and blast the special legislative committee for not proposing the establishment of contiguous districts.

To do so, however, probably would legislate some Congressmen out of office.

The problem confronting the committee members was not a simple one.

They obviously tried to retain the present districts to as great a degree as possible and to balance them from a population standpoint by juggling cities and towns around without splitting up the towns or smaller cities.

Their job was made more difficult by the fact that the existing districts were based on a weird redistricting plan which the Congressmen themselves worked out in 1962 when it appeared they all might be forced to run in the state at large.

Passage of the new plan may depend on whether it is acceptable to the Congressmen who wield enough influence in the Legislature to kill it if they choose to do so.

They are not apt to make such a move because they would risk having the redistricting job done by a federal court which probably would come up with a much less desirable plan from their standpoint.

What Governor Volpe will do if the Legislature approves the redistricting plan is not certain. The guessing, however, is that he will sign it.

A careful analysis of the plan has not yet been possible. However, an examination of it indicates that all five Republican Congressmen could win reelection under it if it is enacted into law. That is Volpe's primary concern.

Congressmen Silvio O. Conte of Pittsfield, F. Bradford Morse of Lowell and William H. Bates of Salem all appear to be immune to any real threat in their new districts.

Congresswoman Heckler of Wellesley and Congressman Hastings Keith of West Bridgewater would face stiffer fights but should be able to survive.

An ironical aspect to the entire situation is that when the new districts are created they probably will be just as much out of line population-wise as the existing ones—if up-to-date figures were considered.

Under the Constitution the congressional redistricting must be made on the basis of the population figures compiled in the 1960 federal census.

Substantial population shifts have occurred in the years since that census was made. Many communities have more residents than the 1960 figures indicate, some have less.

The federal census also counts students, servicemen and visitors who may actually reside in other states, giving communities such as Ayer, where Fort Devens is located, and Bourne, which has the Otis Air Force Base, swollen population totals.

Another revamping of the congressional districts will be necessary after the 1970 census.

If the job is done properly at that time, with contiguous cities and towns placed together in districts, some Congressmen might inevitably wind up in the same district.

That was one of the things the members of the special legislative committee sought to avoid. They tried to comply with the federal court order and at the same time stir as few political waters as possible.

Vote To Cut House Not A Realistic One

Whether a reduction in the size of the Massachusetts House of Representatives would make it a more efficient body is a question on which there is a sharp difference of opinion.

The rank and file of voters, who like legislators individually but not collectively, undoubtedly would favor such a step.

They want to retain their own Representative but to throw out "the other guy."

There also may be some basis for the claim that a smaller House would be more susceptible to the pressures of lobbyists.

However, there never was any real chance that a majority of the members of the Legislature would vote for a proposed constitutional amendment to cut the size of the House from 240 to 160 members.

The most surprising thing about the 167-87 vote against the measure was that 87 legislators—13 were State Senators —recorded themselves for the proposal.

Of the 74 House members who voted for a reduction in the size of the body in which they serve, most were Republicans and only a handful Democrats.

How many of the 74 would have recorded themselves in the same manner if their votes were to mean the difference between passage and defeat of th measure in an intriguing question.

They knew in advance that the proposal was doomed to defeat and that they could safely vote for it in the name of the reform.

Some of them were the same law-makers who talked most loudly against a pay raise for themselves and then were first in line at the window in the State Treasurer's office to collect it after it was approved over their supposed objections.

GAIL PROMBOIN

Gail Promboin Wins Cash And Medal In Test

Gail Promboin of 4 Placid Rd., Newton has received a silver medal and a fifty dollar cash prize from the Massachusetts Association of Mathematics Leagues and the Actuaries Club of Boston, co-sponsors of the Third Annual Mathematics Olympiad competition.

To win this prize Gail had to take two exams. Over 7,000 students from across the state took the Level One exam on November 10, 1966. Forty-eight students from Newton South participated. 102 finalists took the Level Two examination on April 15, 1967.

Finalists from Newton South were Ellen Gesmer, 111 Danehill Rd., Joseph Maleson, 26 Greenwood St., Steven Marks, 8 Manitoba Rd., Geoffrey Modest, 122 Andrews St., Glenda Starr, 28 Brandeis Rd., and Gail Promboin. Of the twenty-two papers selected as superior, Gail's ranked eighth.

In other mathematics competition, Gail and classmates Ellen Gesmer, Jeff Modest, and Glenda Starr, brought honor to Newton South. In the Greater Boston Mathematics League, the Newton South Team finished tenth among fifty-one teams and rose to eighth place in the play-offs. Gail was awarded a pin for being high scorer from the school.

On the Annual Mathematics Examination, March 9, this year, sponsored by the Mathematics Association of America, The Society of Actuaries, and Mu Alpha Theta, Jeff Modest Marla Shapiro, 6 Grace Rd., and Gail Promboin accumulated a team score of 171.50, which gave Newton South 15th place among the 252 competing schools from Region One (Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island).

To Attend Sim'ons 10h Class Reunion

Mrs. Jay I. Moskow, Mrs. Lional Perlo, Mrs. Harry Shin, Mrs. Norman Goldstein, and Mrs. Charles R. Lorant of Newton, will attend their Simmons College tenth reunion banquet on Saturday, June 17th. The dinner dance will be held at the Chestnut Hill Country Club with music by Marshard.

"Scare Letters" Sent To Corner Residents Denied

Chairman Mario DiCarlo of the Newton Redevelopment Authority yesterday contradicted statements contained in an unsigned "scare" letter sent to Newton Corner residents, informing them their homes would be taken in 18 months to make way for an urban renewal development.

DiCarlo characterized the letter as untrue and charged that it was intended to arouse the Newton Corner community.

He emphasized that the Newton Redevelopment Authority is simply seeking authorization from the Board of Aldermen to file an application with the federal government for survey and planning funds to make a study in the Newton Corner area.

In his message to Newton Corner residents, DiCarlo said:

"You may have received in recent days an unsigned letter containing some excerpts from a forthcoming study application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development. In the letter, it was stated that Newton Corner residents had "only 18 months more" before their houses would be taken for urban renewal.

"There is no truth whatsoever to that statement, nor is there any truthful indication anywhere in the letter of the purpose of this particular application. The letter was apparently intended to arouse the community, and it succeeded well enough to cause some concern among several residents who had no way of knowing that the statements simply were not truthful.

"The facts are simple. The Federal Government makes available to cities like Newton funds to be spent to study areas which have either spotty or concentrated instances of congestion, or faulty structures, or other "blighting" influences, to see what can or should be done about them, and to propose plans which the city can then accept (or reject) to bring about improvement. It seems clear that the Newton Corner area merits careful study and planning.

"This costs money—a substantial amount. The Federal Government makes this money for study and planning available, and it certainly seems as though we Newton taxpayers can afford to use it. That's what the application is for—and that's all it's for. No plans exist now. No studies have been completed. This application will let the city begin the study and planning.

"The Board of Aldermen at its meeting June 5th voted to hold an open hearing on this application, and we join with them in urging you to attend if you have any questions about the intent of this application. Again, let me point out that we will not be discussing any plans for Newton Corner, because none exist. But if you want to learn about the mechanism of the urban renewal process, the various steps and check-points involved and the ways in which you as a citizen can participate in the process, I'm sure you will find the meeting worthwhile."

both to accept the report and to recommend action on it to the Mayor, had come under heavy fire at an Angier PTA meeting May 31, along with Ward 5 Aldermen Franklin N. Flaschner and Edward C. Uehlein and School Business Director John Gilleland.

At that time, Hawkridge, Flaschner, Uehlein and Gilleland attempted to file questions from some 200 Angier parents, who seemed to feel that their school had been neglected too long in the course of building programs in the rest of the City.

The report envisages a number of alternative crash solutions to give the school more classrooms. They include division of the existing auditorium into four classrooms; putting in a second floor over the present two-story auditorium area; and using the space now occupied by the principal's office.

A simpler solution was advanced by Dr. Emlaw at the School Committee meeting. The auditorium might be sound-proofed and properly furnished and used without subdivision as a large classroom where a four-teacher team would give first grade instruction, she said.

Two new teachers will join Angier's staff next year, according to Dr. Emlaw, one of whom will be added to the present three first-grade teachers. The other will work as a "floating teacher" in the upper grades to bolster specialized instruction.

Dr. Emlaw also hopes to obtain a full-time teacher aide next year.

The Angier principal, who seems to be the moving spirit in the drive to get more classroom space, told parents at the May 31 meeting: "I don't think we've ever even had a hint of what the ceiling is for what we could do with the kids at Angier. And we owe it to them to find out."

She also declared that the other Newton principals consider Angier "the crisis school."

At present, three converted rooms are being employed in the basement, and a large closet has been remodeled so that a teacher aide can work with small groups of children.

Aldermen Flaschner and Nehlein promised to support the measure when it came before the Aldermen. Uehlein is a past president of the Angier PTA. School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman reported that Flaschner had sent the Committee a letter strongly backing the Angier renovations.

Long-range plans for the Angier School call for a so-called primary school to be constructed as an addition to the existing building, which was erected in 1919. (A four room addition was built in 1936).

The primary school would contain six classrooms for the lower grades, a kindergarten, a playroom, a nurses' room and space for administration, teachers, and consultants.

The parents' report also concluded that existing facilities at Angier for the teachers' lounge are inadequate.

School officials indicated that no major construction can be done at Angier until the new buildings for Newton High and Day Junior High and the addition at Newton South High are completed.

The mid east situation is certainly a much better picture now than at this time last week. My hat is off to valiant Israel for its fantastic mobilization and execution of its defense to stabilize what seemed to be an impossible situation. And what is more important, all was done without embroiling the big powers. Let us hope that the same astuteness will prevail at the conference table and that a lasting modus vivendi can be achieved without further deterioration of international peace. If I could only be half as efficient in stemming the enslaught of my air conditioning pressures I too might be able to relax and enjoy the arrival of summer and the fruits of my labors. At any rate, our flag is still flying high.

tember, but that no final decision has yet been made.

School Committeeman Way Dong Woo asked about the possibility of accepting pupils without tuition, if no state funds were available for them, as long as no out-of-pocket costs to the city were involved.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas, an ex-officio School Board member, replied that Newton's law department does not consider such a waiver legal.

Superintendent Brown and METCO director Joseph Killory declared that no court test had ever been made of accepting out-of-town pupils without tuition. Killory added that he will not start interviewing parents of the additional children for the communities already participating in METCO, unless and until he is sure State funds will be available to cover tuition costs.

Ward 7 School Committeeman Vincent P. Stanton suggested that if state aid does not materialize this summer the School Board should try to obtain private and institutional funds.

School Committeewoman Norma W. Mintz indicated that she felt that an attempt should be made at obtaining state assistance as a matter of principle since "many of us are concerned that the state should pick up a larger share of the cost of education."

However, School Committeeman Francis P. Frazier sounded a word of warning: "As the program is now run, I have some reservations. I would like to look ahead. Are we going into another concept of education?" he asked.

Frizier declared that local autonomy had been the strength of American education but that some educators now advocate a Metropolitan or State-wide system.

"I wonder if we go to that concept whether we will have an educational system like that of Newton," Frazier remarked.

Frazier also pointed out that the federal government might deny funds for programs such as METCO. "They turned down one part of our request. They might also turn down the main part. It is one thing if we have 50 pupils. What if we go up to 75 or 100 or more?" Frazier queried.

In answer to a question by School Committeewoman Grace C. Whitmore, METCO director Killory said that one of the lines along which METCO might be improved would be in expanding the briefings given teachers who will have METCO pupils in their classrooms.

Killory added that as some METCO pupils draw to a close in their high school education, the organization will have to develop a vocational and college orientation program.

He also commented that the main difficulty in METCO's Newton program has been in transportation, where the schedules of a chartered bus and a rented station wagon have been combined. With the added pupils next year, Killory hopes simply to send out two busses from Roxbury.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Edward Landy introduced representatives of different phases of the METCO effort, who included Mrs. Thomas Morris, executive secretary of the Newton PTA Council; Mrs. Hubert E. Jones, Newton METCO head; Mrs. Edward Aronson, whose family has been host to a Roxbury child this year; and Miss Anne B. Fahy, principal of the Countryside School, where some METCO pupils have studied.

Dr. Landy gave a brief summary of findings on friendship patterns in classrooms where METCO pupils studied. He said that they had been normal, that the METCO children were accepted as a "hetrerogeneous group; some were liked and some were not. They in turn like some of their classmates."

Landy also said that the METCO children had responded to the challenge of adapting to their teachers, a point echoed by Killory who disclosed that only one child out of the 220 participants in seven communities had dropped out.

Mrs. Aronson reported that the little boy who had come to her home for lunch and to play on free Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, had overcome the vehemet initial opposition of some of her neighbors as well as his own shyness. She said that her own three boys have benefited by the experience and that she is sure that stereotypes will never affect them, since they will know that each person is an individual and must be judged as such.

After the School Committee adopted Dr. Brown's recommendation to expand METCO, School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman commended: "I hope this vote will be seen in its proper perspective. It should not be supposed that the City of Newton is making some noble sacrifice to solve the acute problems of the Boston Schools."

Berman remarked that the program does not cost Newton "a penny" and that Newton has avoided classroom overcrowding. "Really our children rather than the Roxbury children benefit most," he declared.

He added that Newton should share the responsibility for the plight of the Negro. "Obviously, the Newton school system cannot accept the role of educating thousands of Boston children," he remarked, "but we do not escape from the problems of America by moving to the suburbs. We are not an island but part of the mainland. We have done a modest thing," he affirmed.

Newton Girl Is Author Of Poems Just Published

This is a year of achievement for the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kalman Kobrin of Newton Centre. Last week Karen Kobrin received her diploma from Newton High School and at the same time, an advance copy of her book of verse from the publishers.

Earlier she had been accepted by the University of Miami in Coral Gables, Florida.

Kalman Kobrin says that his daughter has been writing poetry ever since she was eleven years old.

Her collected verses, published by the Naylor Company of San Antonio, Texas, is entitled "Marshmallow Seeds and Other Poems." It is dedicated to her grandfather, Mark Weiss, of Cambridge.

Literature, however, will not be Karen's major in college. She plans to specialize in biology with a view to becoming a marine biologist oceanographer.

In the meantime she enjoys swimming and beachcombing, dancing and guitar playing.

Women Discover "Wonderful World Of Sewing" As Noted Expert Holds Sears' Clinic

"Women who sew are prettier!" exclaimed charming Sears National Sewing Consultant Mrs. Bernice McCormick to a fascinated gathering of local women at the start of her three-day "Sewing Clinic" being held this week at the Sears Roebuck Company Store, Route One, Dedham Mall.

"They are prettier because they are happier," she went on to say. "It's a a matter of fulfillment — they know they look nice in their own creations, which makes for a feeling of well being and pride in a job well done. The sewing enthusiast has an entirely different disposition from that of the woman who doesn't engage in this endeavor!" Mrs. McCormick exclaimed.

Clinic Graduation

Graduations are being held at the conclusion of Thursday's final clinic session, according to Mrs. McCormick, whose delightful job takes her throughout the country conducting sewing clinics for Sears. An enthusiastic group of women from Dedham, West Roxbury, Roslindale, Norwood, Needham, Westwood, Newton and surrounding communities has been attending the Dedham clinic, which was preceded by a preliminary session on Monday afternoon.

Preparation Vital

With the myriad of new materials of today, sewing has become a greatly changed art, Mrs. McCormick continued, but the most important word in the sewing world is still "preparation," which, along with "accuracy," holds the key to the final attainment of that professional, custom made look.

Ladies attending the sessions have learned that there are two parts to the mechanics of sewing — preparation and construction, which, together, equal sewing. Before they start to sew, women must first "know themselves" and the construction of their body. They must know which of the nine pattern types most applies to them, continued Mrs. McCormick. Many women hesitate to even look at a pattern size marked junior, miss, teen or sub-teen, figuring that they have passed that age—but age has nothing to do with it, she stressed. The pattern denotes the type of figure — not the woman's age.

A Matter of Desire

"Sewing," Mrs. McCormick told her interested audience, "is a matter of desire, and anyone with the basic ability can learn to become an expert sewer with proper application of the right principles of the art and the right approach."

"It is one hobby you can carry around with you, proudly displaying its delightful results!" enthused the talented, pretty visitor to Dedham. This does not apply to hobbies like painting and music, for instance — although they too are creative ways of releasing one's inner tensions.

Mrs. McCormick continued by saying that since accuracy is a prime requisite of good sewing the taking of proper measurements is a "must." They must be taken by someone else though, because one cannot measure oneself properly. "And be sure to get on that scale!" emphasized Mrs. McCormick, "for a five pound change of weight — one way or the other — can make a definite difference in one's basic pattern type."

Analyze Pattern

The next step, said Mrs. McCormick, is to analyze the pattern to make sure that it is correct for the material. The fabric and pattern must go together — soft fashions require a soft material, and crisp firm styles, a matching material. In preparing for the project ahead, don't think immediately about the finished product, Mrs. McCormick stressed — sewing is a step by step process which requires planning and accuracy for that "custom made look."

The Right Tools

Every trade has its tools, and sewing is no exception. Without the proper implements one cannot do the right job, and there are all kinds of helpful, necessary gadgets on the market to aid the sewing enthusiast.

Mrs. McCormick spoke of the "little crimes" of sewing—such as cutting the fabric without a cutting board, which encourages distortion of materials — especially the newer fabrics. Another 'crime," she said, is the use of pinking shears to cut material. They promote distortion and should be replaced by dressmaker shears with a bent handle or electric scissors, which are becoming a "must" item now — they are sharp and cut the new, stronger fabrics in much less time without raveling, stated the noted consultant.

Discard Old Needles

"A good sewer should have three needles," Mrs. McCormick continued, to accommodate the various types of materials — and they should be sharp! Since the newer materials tend to dull the points of needles, pins and the like, one should have a good supply of these items on hand at all times. "Don't be sentimental about throwing away needles, pins, or frayed, stretched, inaccurate tape measures when they have served their purpose.

Even pressing has a "new look" in the sewing world. Remnants of an old bed sheet are no longer suitable as press cloths, she continued. Modern day fabrics require for first pressing a "see through" cloth; then for final pressing there are heavier cloths, including a duo-cloth of two materials, would should be moistened with a sponge.

Among the many other sewing accessories which Mrs. McCormick demonstrated are a seam ripper, a sewing gage, a point turner, and a delightful little wrist pin cushion with pins marked by brightly colored heads so that they won't be sewn over by mistake.

Sewing — A man's Art?

Although they are reluctant to admit it, men are becoming more and more interested in sewing, according to Mrs. McCormick. Ask 100 men if they sew, and you'll probably get 100 denials because sewing is considered a strictly feminine art . . . but, she asked the gathering . . . .

"Does sewing offer a more important outlet for the keyed-up executive than for his stay-at-home wife? Is it true that men are better dressmakers than women?

A definite "Yes!" to all these questions is given by Mrs. McCormick. Men like to follow a blueprint, she said, which is what sewing really is. They like to do the preliminary work which is so important a part of successful sewing. After all, who are the tailors? asked Mrs. McCormick in a final statement to prove her interesting point.

Born To Sew

Mrs. McCormick was literally born into the world of sewing and fashion. Her mother was a designer and dressmaker for society leaders in Chicago. By the time Bernice was in grammar school, she already was an expert in sewing.

A college-trained home-economist, she served for eight years as the chief consumer advisor to the nation's largest manufacturer of thread and sewing supplies before joining Sears.

The Beacon - Washington Street Association also was recorded in favor of Miller's petition while three residents appeared against it.

Under the proposal outlined by Miller, the houses would be either two or three stories in height, with no more than eight in an unbroken row and one family per unit.

well as small armrs ammunition, on April 15 of this year.

Without regard for personal safety, Major Barry ordered the immediate rerouting of the remainder of the convoy.

Despite the imminent threat of further explosions from munitions within the tank, he lead the fire truck to the vehicle and personally emptied its entire water resources on the ammunition stored within the blazing vehicle to avoid the possibility of further explosions which could have resulted in serious injury and damage.

Major Barry was also awarded the bronze star medal (first oak leaf cluster) for his work as Assistant Division Provost Marshall from September 15, 1966, to May 9 of this year.

He joined the 9th Infantry Division two months prior to deployment of his military police company to Vietnam. He supervised the company's final training and directed the shipping of its equipment as well as the material of the Division Provost Marshall's Office.

Once in the combat theater, Major Barry prepared for the reception of the main body of the 9th Division forces and led an advance party of military police to prepare for the 9th Division's movement from Vung Tau to Camp Bearcat.

The Bronze Star medal (first oak leaf cluster) citation read in part: "During the period the division has been in Vietnam, Maj Barry tirelessly planned for the optimum employment of the 9th Military Police Company.

"His energetic and skillful implementation of these plans and forceful supervision of the 9th Military Police Company in the execution of these plans have contributed immeasurably to the outstanding accomplishment of the 9th Military Police Company's assigned mission.

"Major Barry's dedicated service, devotion to duty, and high standards of leadership reflect great credit upon himself, the 9th Infantry Division and the United States Army," the citation concluded.

Barry attended Warren Junior High School and Newton High School. He is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire and received Master of Science in Police Administration from Michigan State University.

He was commissioned after completing his ROTC training at the University of New Hampshire and subsequently was transferred to the Regular Army.

He is married to the former Linnea Bulford of Yantic, Conn. They have two sons, Mark, 8; Douglas, 7, and a daughter, Kirsten, 3.

New Police Give Advice . . .

How Vacationers Should Protect Homes Is Shown

Chief Philip Purcell and Captain William F. Quinn in a statement to all officers at every roll call issued the following statement:

Past experience throughout suburban areas in the United States and Canada has shown that the burglar has a field day with careless or thoughtless householders who leave for extended vacations and indicate their absence by drawn shades, accumulated mail or overgrown lawns. They went on to state that if any officer had the opportunity to advise citizens about their vacations, they should suggest the following:

1. Notify the Police Department of departure and arrival time—in order that extra attention may be shown.
2. Arrange with a neighbor to keep an eye on the property.
3. Arrange to have lawn cut by a reputable gardener or neighbor.
4. Notify postoffice to hold mail, and other delivery services to avoid accumulation of any items that would indicate the house is closed.
5. Do NOT draw shades.
6. Remove to a safe place any and all valuables.
7. Check windows and doors as to being secure.
8. The installation of light timers to switch on and off lights. These are inexpensive.)

Captain Quinn accented the fact that a partnership between the householder and the police could minimize the number of burglaries if the foregoing rules were followed. Quinn also commended the team work between the uniform branch and the burglary squad that has resulted in a lessening of housebreaks, but went on to state that a continued effort of all, to work with our citizens, must be maintained, if we are to enjoy our reduced number of housebreaks.

Chief Purcell added a commendation to everyone for their vigilance and action in the reduction of burglaries in the three months just past. He went on to say that it ts easier to work with our citizens in the area of prevention and increase public awareness than it is to investigate past burglaries, and pointed out that we don't know how many burglaries we have prevented with good police efforts, but we do know we have to assume fault whenever one is committed, and only continued good police work and the cooperation of our citizens is going to reduce this or any type of crime.

Any citizen planning a trip is invited to call Newton Police Department and speak with the officer-in-charge as to the best means of providing security in his or her absence.

New Library Constuction Delay Costly

Daniel Ahern, speaking at an open meeting of the Friends of the Free Library executive board last week, declared that "if a new library for Newton is to be built, delay will be costly.

"Not only is there a constant rise of five percent in construction costs," he pointed out, "but federal grants for library construction would have been larger if applied for two years ago."

The capital improvement plan for the city lists the building of a new main library for 1968. However, unless the Aldermen act now on library proposals now before them, there is little likelihood that the '68 schedule will be realized. At the present time the building would cost $1,800,000. In 1966 the cost would have been $1,675,000.

Present at the executive board meeting were Aldermen Alan S. Barkin of Ward 8, and H. James Shea Jr., Ward 7; Mrs. George Brewer, chairman of the trustees of the library; A. William Kunkel, City librarian, and Philip McNiff, director of the Boston Public Library.

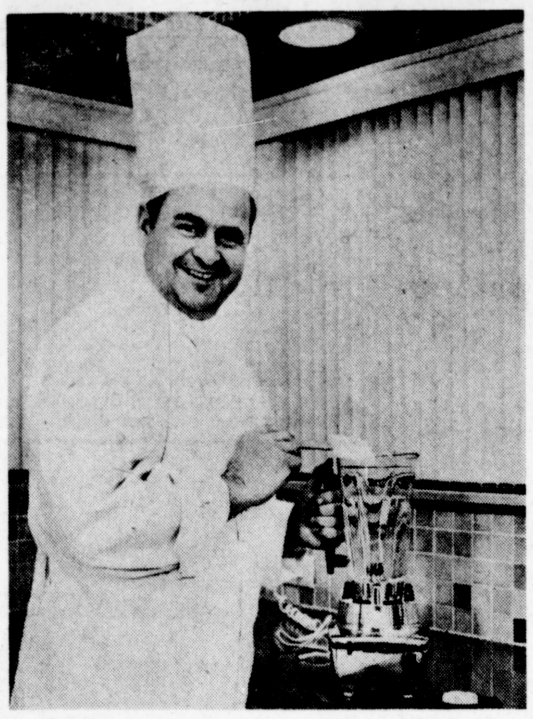

Reports were made by Mr. Kunkel, Mr. Ahern and Mrs. Brewer. The meeting was held in the branch library at Newtonville, and was presided over by Walter Rosenfeld Jr., president.

PTA Council Airs Many Items At Final Meeting

Final meeting of the 1966-67 delegates to the Newton Council of PTAs, held at the Division of Instruction, brought to the floor several subjects for discussion and approval.

Foremost was discussion of Newton's involvement in the Metco program which brought to the floor a resolution by Daniel Ahern of Newton Centre following recent appraisals made to council by Mrs. Hubert E. Jones of West Newton, chairman of the Newton-METCO Committee and Mrs. David Campbell of Auburndale, member of a Newton host home.

Mrs. Jones thanked the Council for its continuing support throughout this first year of METCO in Newton. Wholehearted participation and assistance from the parent community and school administration has been the significant moving force for a successful year, he said.

Several of the council delegates, she noted, were intimately involved in this program, which gives evidence of the true involvement of the Council itself. No complete evaluation yet is available as to scholastic enrichment for Boston Children.

However, the impact of this new relationship with the inner city has been most significant for the school community. In particular, Newton children are co-existing and learning with children of many different backgrounds, thereby enriching their learning experience, she reported. Further, the Social Studies curriculums are being re-evaluated insofar as they concern the multi-racial, multi ethnic society in which America's children live. Integrated text-books are an active concern of our school administrators. The nearby community of Wellesley, she noted, which had originally experienced severe opposition to the program, is not only continuing their involvement, but had requested twice as many students from Boston for next year's program.

Mrs. Jones reported in behalf of a Roxbury parent. Mrs. Joseph Hall, who was unable to be present due to illness. Another vital consideration is the commitment made by these Boston parents. They are highly motivated and committed to painstaking sacrifices such as early morning bus schedules, monitoring of busses and bus-meeting details.

Mrs. Campbell of the Williams School team, and mother of four children now there made a moving report of her feelings and her family's with regard to this involvement. She emphasized that their role was not that of social workers, but rather, as she said, "I like to think of us as neighbors." Mrs. Campbell feels the benefits have been manifold, but mostly intangible.

The only problem from the very beginning was, not what can the children find to talk about, but will they ever stop talking. It is surprising how much urbanites and suburbanites have in common—(coincidentally) religious backgrounds, YMCA, Little League, Red Sox and Celtics devotees, Bat Man, etc. much more.

She concluded with the observation that "the 'disadvantaged child of suburbia'" as portrayed in a recent news article in N. Y. was given a rare opportunity in Newton's Metco program and, she added, "for purely selfish reasons, we are eager to participate."

Mr. Ahern pointed out that if this is a valuable enough program for our children, it was therefore his feeling that it was worth "some personal investment."

Discussion by delegates produced reservations b ysome as to feasibility of financing future of the program and if the city should be in the position of solving inner city problems. Mr. Ahern re-emphasized the philosophy behind which program was brought to Newton in that it had valuable dividends for both Newton's children and Roxbury's.

Subsequent resolution, which received overwhelming vote by delegates present, called for the expansion of the program "to serve as many additional children as the availability of classroom spaces and other necessary resources will provide.

It further recommended "that the School Committee make every effort to obtain sufficient federal and state funds to meet the entire cost of the METCO program in Newton."

A fourth recommendation was "that the School Committee explore the possibility of obtaining private and institutional funds to help finance an expanding METCO in the event that federal and state funds are not adequate for the program in 1967-68 or in future years."

Also speaking before the Council were the three elementary school principals who will be involved in next year's pilot school lunch program. All were emphatic in their belief that the programs in their schools should begin with what was best educationally for the children. None would make concessions to changes in the Tuesday and Thursday half-day scheduling and its accruing enrichments to both teachers and children. Principal Arthur Laughland of Hyde School viewing his own personal convictions on this said, "One of the great strengths, I believe, of the Newton school system is the Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. If we lose these, you will see a decline in the quality of our schools." Ironically he pointed out, many systems throughout the country are consistently seeking advice on ways to emulate just such a program.

Principal Mary Everett of Cabot added to this that the Knowles Study Committee report produced no data with regard to the emotional and physical impact of this kind of a schedule on the children. Also the effect on teachers, and the parents and their needs were also unanswered. This hopefully can be enlarged upon as a result of this pilot study. (In response to question from the Council, Mrs. Everett remarked that the Study Committee did find that it was among a working mothers group that the least desire for change was found.) In echoing Mr. Laughland's safeguarding of the two half-days, she noted that the Knowles Study Committee was unanimous in its decision that nothing in their investigations indicated that a re-shuffling of these afternoons could serve to improve the educational atmosphere. This significant unanimous concensus, she said, included Study Commission members who were among the original group that initiated demands for school rescheduling.

Principal Herbert Callahan of Peirce presented the rationale behind his program as, "I youngsters were to stay in school so long, it was absolutely necessary to provide a program under optional conditions." "Animation" was the key answer and therefore expansion of art, physical education and music programs was crucial. Safeguards for teachers were built in — one hour lunches, no direct responsibility under the program, expanded inter-faculty consultations and review. Amusingly, he added, the three principals involved were, last Fall, the most fervently opposed to any in-school lunch program. Today, not only are the Principals greatly impressed with this approach, but the teachers are looking forward to testing this new schedule with growing enthusiasm.

Final important new business was introduced by Dr. Gilbert Friedell of W. Newton who was allowed to present a proposal for urgent consideration by Council during the summer. President of the Council, Bernard I. Kaplan, was directed by unanimous vote to appoint a special Study Committee to undertake appraisal of the school building program, with special attention to the status of the new Newton High School.

Over fifty delegates were present at this final meeting, which included several newly-elected presidents, representing twenty school PTAs.

Health Costs Bill Held Up

A bill sponsored by Sen. Beryl W. Cohen, whose district includes three Newton wards, which would change the method of reimbursing health costs under medical assistance programs, was held up this week until the Joint Committee on State Administration could receive more information on it in executive session.

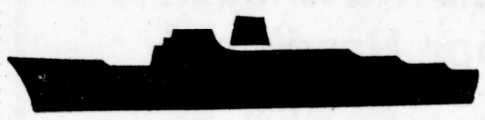

Sen. Cohen said that the bill creates a new formula for medical reimbursement that meets the standards of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He emphasized that the bill must be passed by July 1, or Massachusetts stands to lose $80,000,000 in federal funds for medical reimbursements.

Gets Doctor Of Law Degree As Family Looks On

At a special graduation for law students held in the Courtroom of the College of Law, University of Kentucky, Raymond Lewis Roberts received his Juris Doctor degree on May 8.

Attending the graduation exercises were his wife, the former Dorothy Parsons of Waban, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Roberts of 573 Quinobequin road, Waban, and Mr. and Mrs. William V. Parsons of 1564 Beacon street, Waban.

Other guests attending the ceremony were the Rev. William E. Parsons, brother of Mrs. Roberts, with son Bill Jr., and daughter Nancy Rebekah, from Ohio; David Parsons from Hinsdale, Ill., and Mrs. W. Lewis Roberts of Lexington, Ky.

Dr. Roberts is the grandson of the late Dr. W. Lewis Roberts, professor of law and acting dean of the College of Law, University of Kentucky.

Dr. Roberts has been accepted in the advanced degree program of the School of Law, Washington University, Missouri, where he will be a candidate for a degree of LLM in Taxation.

Phi Beta Kappa Honors Given Newton Student

A Newton student at the University of Vermont was initiated into the Phi Beta K[illegible] national honor society recently.

[illegible]ard B. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Lewis of 360 Brookline St., Newton, was among 16 students elected to membership in the society at the last meeting of the University chapter.

The formal initiation ceremony was conducted by Dr. Rolf N. B. Haugen, president of the University chapter.

Dangers Of Fireworks Set In Warning By Fire Chief

Fire Chief Frederick A. Perkins, Jr., yesterday warned Newton residents about the dangers and hazards of fireworks, including sparklers.

"Fireworks accidents could ruin vacation-time pleasure and perhaps even alter the course of life for some children about to embark on a carefree summer", Perkins declared.

"This grim warning isn't just preaching", Perkins continued. "Every year communities throughout the nation—even those with legislation outlawing fireworks — report Fourth of July accidents which have burned seriously and permanently injured, and occassionally killed grade schoolers.

"The following notes from case histories collected in 1966 by the National Fire Protection Association are not meant to be 'scare' items. However, they do demonstrate that there is real need to teach children that fireworks, including sparklers, plastic caps and other so-called 'harmless' items, are extremely dangerous," he stated.

"In Lebanon, Missouri, six year old David suffered more than 200 puncture wounds—30 of which had to be stitched —when he dropped a lighted cigarette into a box of firecrackers on the porch," Perkins said.

"In Swisher, Iowa, seven-year old James shoved a lighted sparkler into a can of gasoline 'because the sparkler wasn't burning fast enough'. When the gasoline ignited, James dropped the can, causing the flaming liquid to splash onto his shoulders and arm, which were badly burned.

"In St. Joseph, Missouri, three-year old Jeannette was burned when her dress was ignited by a sparkler as she was playing outside her home. 'I turned for just a minute,' her mother said, 'and when I looked back her dress was in flames.'

"In the 400 fireworks accidents reported to the National Fire Prevention Association in 1966, five persons were killed and 486 injured. This represents but a small percentage of the estimated 5000 fireworks injuries that occur in the United States each year," Perkins commented.

"Another recent National Fire Prevention Association study shows that 7.5 per cent of those injured by fireworks are children under five years of age and another 15 per cent of the victims of fireworks accidents are six to 10 years old," he added.

"Case histories serve as vivid reminders to teachers, fire department officers, and others who work with children to stress the hazards of fireworks in their safety lessons as the school year ends," Chief Perkins concluded.

Easy Does It For Thieves In City Last Wk.

Newton police were given an "almost vacation" last week when only three robberies occurred throughout the Garden City. Of course, police said, the trio of thefts was three too many but showed a distinct improvement.

A break in Hunnewell's Variety Store at 831 Washington st., Newtonville, netted a thief only $30 last Tuesday while a television set was reported taken the same day from a home at 79 Lowell ave., Newtonv[illegible].

Saturday night between 8:30 and 11:45 p.m., the home of Charles Artesani, of 175 Commonwealth ave., was ransacked and a portable television set, a gold and ruby ring and a clock were taken.

Son-Father Team Elected Top Officials Hub Typos

A father-and-son team who served a total of 44 years at The Transcript Press, Inc., in Dedham, will supply the one-two leadership punch for the next two years for the Boston Typographical Union, No. 13.

The son, Malcolm Y. MacKinnon of 37 Dover road, Millis, is the president-elect of the 2,400-member ITU-local union, and the father, Archibald C. MacKinnon of 72 Sanderson avenue, Dedham, was elected vice-president last week.

This is a reversal of the balloting four years ago when the father was elected president and the son was elected vice-president. In itself this was a historical "first" for the union, which has contracts with the Boston daily newspapers and the weekly and commercial printing plants within a 35 mile radius of Boston.

Malcolm MacKinnon, a former resident of Dedham and Westwood, was elected to succeed Eugene J. Samulski as president of the union. MacKinnon will take a two years leave of absence from his Transcript Press job to fill the two-year post. His office will be in the Exchange Building at 53 State street, Boston.

Malcolm has been employed at the Transcript Press for 20 years. He has been vice-president of the BTU for the past four years, and a member of the BTU Executive Committee for the past eight years.

He is a graduate of Harvard University Trade Union Program in 1964 and was chosen Class Valedictorian. He was awarded the Harvard Alumni Fellowship by the Mass. State Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

Malcolm is married to the former Patricia A. Fallon of Dedham and they have five children: Michael, a math scholarship winner at Xaverian High; Dianne, Edward, Patricia, and Robert in the Millis schools.

The father, Archibald MacKinnon, is a veteran of over 35 years in the union and has been with the Transcript Press for 24 years. He served the BTU as president for two years and has served on all its committees. He was elected to the post held by his son as vice president, Book and Job.

The MacKinnons will join the other vice-president elect, Frederick J. MacMillan, and secretary-treasurer Harold A. taking office on June 25th.

Parking--

ing ordinance so that the Board of Aldermen could reduce the parking requirements and also requested that the number of spaces required at the air rights development be cut from 888 to 600.

Waltch later indicated he would revise his request and seek to have one-third less parking spaces than would be required under the existing ordinance.

Charts and statistics were submitted to show that the development containing an office building, 300-room hotel, two restaurants and specialty shops would not need more than 600 parking spaces.

The figures indicated that the peak need for parking for the hotel would be at 8 o'clock at night when the office building would be closed. They showed that the hotel's parking needs would decline after dawn, would reach a low peak at noon and then rise until 8 p.m.

There would be ample parking spaces during the day for employees and customers of the office building and patrons of the restaurants, it was stated.

Waltch asserted that additional parking spaces could be provided after the air rights developments is completed if it were found they were needed.

But he said the added cost for parking spaces which may not be needed at this stage would jeopardize the entire development. Waltch pointed out that adequate parking spaces would be an economic necessity in order to attract prospective lessees.

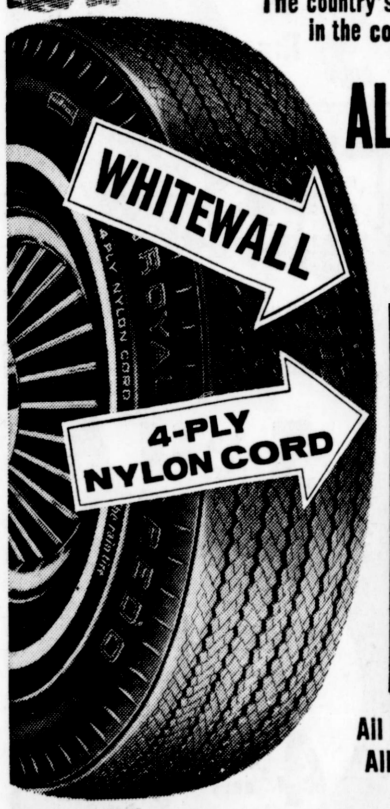

The members of the Aldermanic Claims and Rules Committee took the matter under advisement and will meet again on Thursday of next week to deliberate on it. It is expected that the committee will make its recommendations to the full board for action at the July 3 meeting.

HAROLD L. BERMAN

Berman To Run For Re-election To School Board

School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman last night announced his candidacy for reelection to the School Committee from Ward 6 next November.

Berman, a Harvard Law School professor, was elected to the School Committee in 1965 to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of former School Committee Chairman Haskell C. Freedman.

Prof. Berman succeeded Hugh Tomb as Chairman of the School Board when the latter resigned from that post in April, 1966.

A nationally recognized authority on comparative law and the law of international trade, Professor Berman has served on important university and inter-university educational committees and his books are used in law schools and colleges throughout the country.

He has resided with his wife and four children at 64 Homer Street, Newton Centre, since 1951. Two of his children have graduated from Newton High School, and two are now students there.

Professor and Mrs. Berman have served on PTA Councils at the Mason-Rice School and the Weeks Junior High School and have participated in various Newton civic organizations, including the World Affairs Council of Newton, the Friends of the Newton Free Library, and the Newton Fair Housing Practices Committee.

Born in 1918 in Hartford, Conn., where his father, a well known lawyer and civic leader, was president of the Hartford Board of Education for many years. Prof. Berman attended the Hartford public schools and graduated from Dartmouth College in 1938, summa cum laude. He later studied at London University and Yale Graduate School, and received his law degree from Yale Law School in 1947.

During World War II he served three years overseas in the Signal Corps and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

In announcing his candidacy for reelection, Berman stated: "The November elections will provide an opportunity for serious public discussion of the many important issues that will confront the School Committee in the next two years. Everybody knows that we have a very good school system, but everybody also knows that it suffers from certain weaknesses that ought to be corrected.

"The teaching of reading is still inadequate in some elementary schools, and special problems exist with respect to dyslectic children," Berman declared.

"A considerable number of classes in the city are still overcrowded, and there are far too few guidance counselors. The teaching of social studies is better in Newton than in most other school systems, but it still suffers from many inadequacies," the School Committee chairman added.

"Apart from these and other perennial difficulties, for whose solution the School Committee will be asked to invest money in the next years, there are certain special questions which also need public discussion. The pilot program of school lunches, to be undertaken at three elementary schools starting next fall, is a matter that should be considered both from an educational and a financial point of view," Berman asserted.

"The program of bringing a small number of Roxbury children to the Newton schools, not only to help them but also to bring our own suburban children closer to the realities of the urban world in which we all live, deserves to be discussed and evaluated," he continued.

"The future of the Newton Junior College is also a subject which all candidates for the School Committee should be prepared to discuss candidly with the electorate.

"Underlying all questions of educational policy in Newton," Berman maintained, "is, of course, the matter of taxes. The people of Newton cannot be asked to pay excessive sums of money to improve what is already a good educational system.

"On the other hand, money wisely invested in education is returned ten-fold in the contributions which well-educated graduates of our schools make to the social, economic, and political life of our country. In attempting to resolve this dilemma, I believe that the School Committee can be greatly aided by intelligent discussion between the candidates and the electorate during the fall electoral campaign," Berman concluded.

Volunteer Canvassers Are Sought By Vietnam Sum.

The organizing committee for the Newton Vietnam Summer Project has issued a call for volunteer canvassers to launch a door-to-door campaign for peace. Vietnam Summer, a national drive initiated last month by the Rev. Martin Luther King, Dr. Benjamin Spock, and two Harvard professors, intends to bring together and mobilize individuals and groups concerned with ending the war in Vietnam, a spokesman said.

It was stated that Newton is one of more than five hundred communities working independently to rouse citizens already worried about the current direction of American foreign policy, but uncertain how to convert their feelings into action. The announced aims of the Vietnam Summer project are to stimulate discussion and debate and to educate on the neighborhood level. The project offers no pat solutions to the war dilemma but believes it possible to build a movement to release the voices of now silent Americans, the spokesman stated.

JOHN PERRY

John Oliver Perry, professor of English at Tufts University and chairman of the training program for Vietnam Summer in Newton, has called for volunteers to meet in a training session for canvessers, 7:30 p.m., Thursday, June 15, at 474 Centre Street (Eliot Church) in Newton. The meeting will be one of a series designed to teach interviewing techniques, discussion methods, and facts about Vietnam to volunteers.

"We know it will be difficult," Professor Perry said, "to overcome reluctance to ring doorbells, but it is essential to reach those people in our own communities who are worried but won't come forward without face-to-face encouragement. "We know too, that many people are now so anxious to work for peace that they will be willing to contact their neighbors if we can offer them training, educational materials, and the support of an organized movement."

The agenda of the June 15 meeting will include 1) discussion of the aims of the Vietnam Summer project by Richard Sterne, professor at Simmons and chairman of the steering committee for the Newton Vietnam Summer 2) description by Leslie Fairfield of the Cambridge canvassing methods used successfully in the Cambridge campaign, and 3) demonstration followed by practice sessions for volunteers. Professor Perry plans to divide the general meeting into smaller work groups, each led by an experienced canvasser, and then to reassemble volunteers at the close of the evening for an exchange of ideas and questions.

Throughout the Vietnam Summer, the Newton Committee will hold open meetings each Wednesday night with films, dramatic presentations, protest music, speakers, and discussions.

In addition to the war in Vietnam, the range of topics is expected to extend to problems in the Middle East, the question of the draft, and discussions of fundamental changes in American social and economic structure necessary for peace.

All interested individuals, whether or not they wish to canvass, have been asked to contact Miss Patricia Deats, Newton Vietnam Summer Headquarters, 332-9110 for further information, or to attend the June 15 meeting.

Creative Arts Committee Of PTA Concludes Season

The citywide Creative Arts Committee of the PTA Council has held its final meeting of the year at which outgoing and incoming chairmen in all of Boston's schools adopted the annual report of the Committee chairmen, Mrs. Peggy Charren and Mrs. Viney Tomb.

The Committee is dedicated to bringing children in the Newton schools in direct contact with excellence in music, dance, drama, and the visual arts. To this end they seek out and sponsor in-school programs which present a challenge to our schoolchildren.

During the year 1966-67 a total of 48 different programs was presented, of which 28 were new to the Newton schools, resulting in over 130 in-school performances.

With the help of James Remley, music supervisor of the city schools, auditions were set up and evaluated in the music field and resulted in performances of opera (Emmanuel College Opera workshop), folksongs (Tony Saletan, Joan Minkoff, the Tambourines), instrumental solos (Liza Goode on the harpsichord, the Kanwischers on piano four hands), chamber music (Lyric Arts Quartet, Brass Quintet, Percussion Trio, Cambridge Consort.

Also student musical groups (Radcliffe Freshman Choir and nine different musical groups from the Newton schools who visited other schools in performance), dance groups (Ina Hahn, Judi Jacobs), and theatre groups (Theatre Co. of Boston, Judi Ross troupe, Ruth Brand puppets, Mimsy puppets).

Working closely with Al Hurwitz, Newton Art Supervisor, the committee also arranged classroom demonstrations by artists in various media — such as pottery by Marge Beshares, silk-screen printing by Susan Smith, portrait painting by Ron Tomlinson, glassblowing by G. Finkenbeiner, sculpture by Polly Egelson, book illustration by David Omar White, Walter Lorraine, and Betsy Hagland.

Also presented were many outstanding programs by authors and poets, with the enthusiastic cooperation of Miss Kay Torrant, reading supervisor. Among them were Mary Stetson Clark, David McCord, William Jay Smith and Richard Lewis.

Since all of these programs are paid for by PTA funds, and since the Creative Arts budget for each school ranges from nothing at all in some schools to $550 in others, the committee members have decided unanimously that their most important problem for next year is the inequality of opportunity for student contact with the arts.

Continuing its close functions of past years, the Committee was active in selling tickets and arranging transportation for over 400 Junior and Senior High School students for the Shakespeare Festival sponsored by the Boston Herald Traveler, and for another 400 fifth through ninth grade pupils for the Boston Symphony Youth Concerts.

They have continued to help circulate loan materials from the Museum of Fine Arts and the Children's Museum to interested teachers. To promote the use of community resources, an evening reception at Station WGBH was arranged for chairmen, principals and teachers of all the schools. A tour of the facilities was followed by a showing of "Meet the Arts", an in-school TV program on the arts originating at Channel 2 and conducted by Sonia Hamlin.

After re-evaluating its goals this year the Committee feels it has a responsibility to operate as a pressure group in areas relating to the, arts and has thus joined other interested groups in working for better children's television and films, as well as public television.

New co-chairmen of the Creative Arts Committee for 1967-1969 are Mrs. Carol Greenlead and Mrs. Elyse Segal.

A fashion show, under the sponsorship of the Classes of 1957 and 1966 was held following Saturday's luncheon. Classes met separately for dinner parties Saturday evening. Mrs. Charles Higgins of Weston, formerly of Auburndale, entertained the Class of 1937 in her home. She is Class secretary as well as Alumnae Fund Chairman. Metropolitan Club Races Go To Visitors

The fifth of a series of seven junior cross-country races was held last Saturday morning, June 10, in Newton Centre Playground. The races, sponsored by the Metropolitan Athletic Club, begin at 10:00 and are for the girls and boys of all ages. In addition to this series, which ends June 24, the club is planning summer athletic events and more races in the fall. Those interested in the program should call Mr. or Mrs. Charles B. Lory at 527-7205.

Last Saturday the Newton runners played host to the Cambridge chapter of the club. The Cambridge runners, many of whom have run in similar races for several years, easily won each race. But the less experienced Newtonites came in strong in the second, third, and fourth places. Many of these children show the potential for being really good runners.

The race for children seven year old and younger is about one quarter mile long. Of the Newton boys, Steven Rand, Jim Ashford and Billy Lane all finished within three seconds of each ohter to take second, third and fourth places in a field of 18. Stacy Clarke ran her best course time to give Newton a second place for the girls.

Eight and nine year olds ran a half mile race. Tommy Bingham of Cambridge, set the pace for 15 boys. Newton Centre lads had a hot race for the next four places, with Robert Clarke coming out on top. Last week's winner of this race, Joey DeLorenzo, still finished third in spite of losing a shoe. He was closely followed by Allan Gold and Richard Kalish. Ann Ashford turned in the best time for Newton girls of this age to take second place.

Of the older girls, Patty Fitzpatrick ran a good half mile, and Barbara Leacu ran in her first mile race.

Few older Newton boys were able to turn out on Saturday, so that the mile race was completely dominated by the visitors. Excellent times at this distance have been run in recent weeks by such Newton boys as Scott Stylos, Carl Chow, Stanley MacNeil and Greg McSweeney.

Jewish Twins At B.C. Find Life Can Be Fun

Celebrating the Jewish holidays on the campus of a Catholic university has not been unusual for two graduates who describe themselves as "the only pair of Jewish twins at Boston College."

Following four years at the Jesuit university, Barry and Michael Zide, 70 Clyde St., Newtonville, both received bachelor of science degrees from Boston College this year.

The brothers regard the combination as both close and complimentary. "The greatest tribute the students ever paid us at BC was just before Christmas this year when we were all celebrating with the guys who had just been accepted at medical schools," Barry said. "Everyone was singing Irish songs and Christmas carols, and right in the middle they sang 'Hava Nagela' for us."

Mike recalls the first time he went to tell a priest-professor that he would be absent from class during the Jewish holidays. "I really didn't know how he would react, and he said 'pray for us.' That really impressed me."

Although both have pursued the same course of study — Barry will continue his work in dentistry at Tufts University and Mike will attend Temple University in Philadelphia — they maintain that being a twin tends to breed individualism.

"People who don't know us tend to pair us," Mike said. "But we have different friends and dress differently."

Barry noted that "people always say 'both of us." They seem to think they'll offend us if they invite one and not the other.

Talking with the Zide twins is a bit like watching a tennis match — their thoughts seem to bounce off each other. Their closeness extends to their family and their relationships at BC.

Barry said, "we're close to our parents. We've always been able to talk to them about everything. I think that puts us two steps ahead of the next guy."

Both speak warmly of their ties with BC and of future plans to open a medical center with BC classmates who are entering medical school. We've had a close class at BC and have always had teachers here who cared about us and gave us individual attention," they said.

Their interest in the same field began because "we had soft teeth and went to the dentist a lot when we were kids," according to Barry. "Every time we went we asked our dentist a million quesctions and we really got interested in it."

He also noted dentistry provides a situation where "we can have our own practice. We want to be our own boss.

Perhaps this is part of ourstriving for individualism," Mike interjected.

Despite their striking similarity and pursuing the same course of study, they only tried to attend class for each other once. "Our senior year in high school I went to Mike's physics class and Mike went to my math class," Barry recalled. "The physics teacher pulled a surprise test that day and I flunked it for Mike. He didn't talk to me for two weeks."

Harvard Will Promote Prof. From Newton

Professor Raoul Bott of 77 Kirkstall Rd., Newtonville, considered one of the outstanding topologists of his generation, will become a Higgins Professor of Mathematics at Harvard on July 1.

Prof. Bott's work in topology concerns the study of the properties of geometrical forms which remain constant no matter how the forms are distorted.

This has been his primary interest since he joined the Harvard faculty in 1959 as Professor of Mathematics. Earlier, he taught at the University of Michigan, and for two years (1955-57) was a member of the Institute for Advanced Study.

In 1965 Prof. Bott received the first Veblen Prize of the American Mathematical Society.

He is editor of "Topology" and associate editor of "American Journal of Mathematics," and a member of the National Academy of Sciences and of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Born in Budapest, he received the B.Eng. (1945) and M.Eng. (1946) from McGill University and the S.D. (1949) from the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Newton High Junior Wins 2nd Prize In UN Contest

Marvin Olasky, a Newton High School junior, is a winner in the National High School Contest on the United Nations sponsored by the United Nations Association of the United States of America.

Robert S. Benjamin, president of UNA-USA, announced that Olasky tied for second place in the contest in which more than 40,000 students in almost 2,500 schools participated. The annual contest is a two-part, three-hour examination on all aspects of the United Nations, its activities, problems and aims, based on study material furnished by the UNA-USA.

Olasky received a $400 scholarship. He was also the guest of UNA-USA at a dinner last Tuesday honoring Charles G. Mortimer, chairman of the General Foods Corporation executive committee and President Johnson's appointee as 1967 UN Day Committee chairman.

More than 1,500 top industrialists, businessmen and labor leaders attended the dinner at the New York Hilton where U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Arthur J. Goldberg was the featured guest. Ambassador Goldberg will present contest winners with their prizes.

Senator Edward W. Brooke sent congratulations to Olasky on the award. Dr. John Fordon, president of the Greater Boston Chapter of UNA-USA (120 Boylston St., Boston) announced that the student will receive a $25 award from the organization.

Edwin E. Fraktman, Newton High social studies coordinator, accompanied Olasky to the dinner and a reception at United Nations headquarters offered by Secretary-General U Thant. At the dinner, Mr. Fraktman was presented with a UN flag and an American flag obtained through the office of Senator Brooke.

Marvin Olasky, 17, is editor-in-chief of the Newton High yearbook, a student council and chess team member. Last year, he was Massachusetts winner in the UNA-USA contest. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Olasky at 42 Northgate Park, West Newton. Mr. Olasky is principal of Temple Beth Sholom School in Needham.

The United Nations Association of the United States of America is a voluntary national organization which seeks to increase public understanding of the UN and its goals. UNA-USA headquarters are located at 345 46th St., New York, N. Y. 10017.

$77.80 Tax Rate Set By Surplus Funds Transfer

Newton's tax rate for this year has been set at $77.80 by the Board of Assessors following the action of the Board of Aldermen Monday night in transferring $800,000 from the city's surplus fund to hold down the amount which must be raised in the tax levy.

This represents a $5.60 increase over last year's figure of $72.20.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas and the Assessors will visit the State Department of Taxation and Corporation today (Thursday) to seek official State approval of the $77.80 rate.

Mayor Basbas, who had recommended that $900,000 be taken from the surplus fund, expressed gratification yesterday that the Aldermanic Board transferred only $100,000 less than he requested.

"I am pleased that the Board of Aldermen transferred $800,000 from the city's surplus fund," the Mayor declared. "This makes it possible for us to keep the tax rate under $78 which is one of the lowest of any city in Massachusetts."

At the same time Mayor Basbas issued a warning that Newton must either receive greater financial help from the State or face the prospect of a steadily climbing tax rate if school costs continue to rise at the rate of $1 million to $1.5 million per year.

Basbas also observed that the $5.60 jump in the tax rate demonstrates the need for permitting new construction "in certain areas of Newton not inconsistent with the general character of the community which will broaden the city's tax base and provide needed revenue."

The Mayor said that an erroneous belief has existed in some quarters that Newton would receive $2.2 million more from the State this year than it did last year.

That was responsible for the mistaken impression that the city's tax rate would go up only $1, he added.

Basbas asserted that Newton actually is receiving a net increase of $1.3 million more from the State this year than it did in 1966.

Members of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night voted to transfer the $800,000 from the surplus fund after

Young Marine Sets Up Viet Help Fund

The warmness of a young Newton Marine's heart, concerned for the suffering of a destitute Vietnamese family, struck a spark to ignite a humanitarian project in a war-ravaged land and found mutual warmth and generosity right here in his own home town.

Marine Corporal Steven V. Purcell of Newton, stationed in the Hoa Vang district was touched by the plight of a young Vietnamese girl, Miss Do Thi Dong, 17, of Ly Tin village, who lost a leg in an artillery barrage.

She lived with her mother and a sister. Her father had been killed four years ago.

The little family was without hope, but not so, Corporal Purcell. He organized the "Dottie Fund" to help them.

Recently a substantial chunk of assistance in the form of a fat check was sent to the young Marine's project from the members of Newton Council, No. 167, Knights of Columbus.

The young Marine's day, James Purcell, is a past Grand Knight of Newton Council. He and his wife,

Bloodmobile In Season Closing

The last bloodmobile in Newton, until September, will be held at Newton City Hall, Wednesday, June 28th, from 12:45 until 6:30 p.m.

Blood can be kept for 21 days. By giving on the 28th of June, a good supply should be available over the long 4th of July holidays.

Also, many industries close down for vacation periods early in the month, thus eliminating one of the sources of supply.

All persons who donate through the Red Cross will get protection for wife or husband, children under 18, parents and grandparents parents-in-law, for one year, without any charge for the blood itself.

Henry Wilson, chairman of the Blood Program, asks those donors willing to give at this critical time to call the Chapter House, 527-6000 for an appointment.

Block NRA Application To Finance "Corner" Survey

An application by the Newton Redevelopment Authority for $297,189 in federal funds to finance an 18-month detailed survey of the Newton Corner area, was stalled by the Board of Aldermen Monday night when H. James Shea, Jr., of Ward 7, raised a charter objection to the proposal.

The charter objection has the effect of tabling the measure until the next meeting of the Aldermen, which is scheduled for July 10.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas, who could convene a special session of the Aldermen, indicated yesterday that he would not do so, but would hold an informal conference with Newton Corner Aldermen, civic leaders of that area and Redevelopment Authority officials at City Hall next Tuesday night (June 27).

In other action, a measure backed by the Newton Council of Churches which would enable the Newton Housing Authority to construct homes not restricted to the elderly was sent to an ad hoc Study Committee Relative to Low Cost Housing headed by Alderman Edward C. Uehlein.

The area to be studied for redevelopment is a roughly triangular sliver of Newton corner. It is bounded largely by the Massachusetts Turnpike and the Watertown line. The third boundary is provided by Jewett, Waban and Hovey Streets between Watertown and the Turnpike. . . .

Under the funding system to be followed, two-thirds of the money spent would be provided by the federal government and one third by Newton, which would in turn be reimbursed for half its expenditures by the State.

The estimated cost of restoring and rebuilding Newton Corner is about $4.4 million.

The Aldermanic meeting was preceded by a two-and-one-half hour hearing at which Redevelopment Authority Chairman Mario DiCarlo outlined the Authority's request, and Newton Corner residents, worried about loosing their homes, voiced strong opposition.

President Wendell R. Bauckman of the Board of

SEN. DODD CENSURE VOTE EXPECTED TODAY

THE SENATE REJECTED overwhelmingly a move yesterday merely to "admonish" Sen. Thomas J. Dodd and prepared to vote — probably today — whether to make the Connecticut Democrat the sixth Senator in history to be censured.

The 92-2 roll call vote against softening charges of financial misconduct against Dodd was, in part, a vote of displeasure with Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.), his chief defender, whose longwinded, emotional floor tactics irked many of his colleagues. But the vote also indicated there was strong sentiment among Senators to censure Dodd at least for diversion of political funds to his personal use.

LUCI'S BABY NAMED PATRICK LYNDON NUGENT

ALTHOUGH HE WON'T be another LBJ, the "very beautiful" 8 pounds, 10 ounce son of Pat and Luci Nugent will bear the name "Lyndon". The young Nugents announced nine hours after the baby was born at Austin, Tex., yesterday, that he will be named Patrick Lyndon Nugent.

"Grandpa" Johnson is tied up in Washington with the messy Mideast squabble at the United Nations and a possible meeting with Soviet Premier Kosygin. But with Kosygin planning to go home in a day or two, it's safe to assume that the President will be winging to Texas post haste on the weekend to greet the youngest Lyndon of them all.

U. S. 'EMERGENCY' FUNDS SOUGHT FOR NEW HAVEN RR

CONNECTICUT APPEALED to the federal government yesterday for "emergency" funds to help keep the New Haven Railroad alive until it is taken over by the pending Penn-Central merger.

In a letter to Alan S. Boyd, secretary of transportation, Gov. John N. Dempsey said that without federal help the ailing line might be forced to liquidate, which would mean "economic disaster for Connecticut, southern New England and the nation." Dempsey asked Boyd to "immediately present to the United States Congress legislation to provide federal cash support on a matching fund basis with cash support provided by the states."

HOUSE VOTES $365 BILLION DEBT LIMIT

PRESIDENT JOHNSON salvaged a second-round legislative victory yesterday when the House voted to hike the national debt limit from $336 billion to $365 billion over a two-year period.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate, reversed a previous House rejection of increasing the debt ceiling. Passage came on a roll call vote of 217 to 196 after a Republican move to defeat the proposal was beaten.

'THIRD FORCE' NATIONS SEEK MIDEAST AGREEMENTS

WHILE "THIRD FORCE" neutral nations tried unsuccessfully yesterday to bridge the gap between Soviet and U. S. Mideast proposals in the General Assembly session in the United Nations, British Foreign Secretary George Brown and Italian Premier Aldo Moro pleaded to delegates to approve the creation of a "first meeting ground" in the UN for a possible peace settlement and a UN "police" force to sustain the peace.

Brown urged Israel to return conquered Arab territories, especially the old city of Jerusalem. This brought a heated response from Israel's foreign minister, Abba Eban, who repeated Israeli's intention never to give up Jerusalem, In Rome, former Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion said his country would be willing to give up all occupied territory except Jerusalem and Gaza, if the Arab countries agree to a peace treaty.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Rusk was entertaining Soviet Premier Kosygin at a dinner last night, and many observers felt that agreement for a meeting of Kosygin and President Johnson would result.

In Jerusalem the Israeli parliament ignored Communist objections and shelved any discussions of peace terms with the Arab world for one month. Premier Levi Eshkol said the next few weeks must be devoted to "quiet diplomacy." The move was seen as an indication of hardening Israeli intentions to keep most and perhaps all the Arab territory occupied in the Mideast war.

STRATEGIC NORTH VIETNAM BRIDGE SMASHED

U.S. NAVY PILOTS dived through Communist antiaircraft fire and smashed a key bridge on the only rail line linking Hanoi with the North Vietnamese port city of Haiphong, a military spokesman reported yesterday. The line used to transport a major part of the war supplies shipped to Haiphong from Russia and other Communist countries.

The strike against transportation facilities came as fighting flared in a number of small but stiff clashes in the strategic Central Highlands where the Communists are believed to be preparing for a new offensive as monsoon rains move in.

NEW STADIUM PLAN DUE IN TWO WEEKS

WARNINGS DELIVERED by Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey that his team would not be in Boston in five years if a new stadium isn't built drew quick response from leading Bay State citizens. There was practically unanimous agreement that the stadium project would have to be speeded.

Governor Volpe said at a news conference that a private group would be ready in two weeks to submit detailed plans for a new stadium. But the governor said he was also working on an alternate plan in case the private group's proposals proved unworkable. Earlier in the year, Volpe proposed building a $55 million stadium in Weston, financed in part by unclaimed gasoline tax rebates from the Turnpike. So far, nothing has resulted from the proposal.

WEATHERMEN KEEP SUMMER IN THE WINGS

WEATHER FORECASTERS have delayed for at least one more day the singing of "In the Good Old Summertime" with a prediction for today of more rain from Maine to Connecticut and temperatures continuing on the cool side.

Last evening, when the Summer season made its official entrance it felt more like the coming of Autumn. Grim, grey clouds were still hanging over Greater Boston, promising more of the rain which plastered the area from the northeast the last couple of days. Portland, Me., was the hardest hit; with 5.37 inches of rain, and in Orleans on the Cape the rain total was 4.25 inches.

VOLPE ASKS CAB TO OKAY HUB-BAHAMAS AIR LINE

GOVERNOR VOLPE called on the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday to authorize two-carrier service between Boston and the Bahamas. In a letter to Alan S. Boyd, secretary of transportation, the governor said "all information at my disposal indicates that the potential passenger market for such service is already available in Boston."

Seven airlines have filed applications with the CAB for permission to fly the lucrative Boston-Bahams route. A CAB permission to fly the lucrative Boston-Bahamas route. A CAB lines be authorized to provide such service.

Logue To Cause Excitement In Boston's Mayoralty Race

When Boston Mayor John F. Collins ran for the U. S. Senate last year, he was hurt badly by the fact Jthat he made one tough decision after another over a period of nearly seven years and that he had disregarded political expediency in making them.

Many people in Collins' home city disregarded the big things he had accomplished during his administration as Mayor and voted against him because of little things he had done which they didn't like.

As a result Collins was defeated in Boston by ex-Governor Endicott Peabody in the Democratic primary, and it cost him the nomination and an opportunity to stand against Edward W. Brooke in the final election.

Some people who vented their displeasure against Collins are having second thoughts now

Regular academic subjects will be compressed into three mornings a week in order to permit the students to work, to collaborate with teachers in the development of new programs and to travel.

Students will be able to participate in athletics and other extra-curricular activities at Newton High School, after school, although physical education will be given at the Murray road extension.

The Murray Road School, which will be used to relieve the shortage of space at the High School until the new buildings are ready for use, will also permit the school department to study the educational effects of a much smaller high school community than that which exists at either of the two existing high schools.

The Murray Road children will attend the new Burr School next fall. One of Newton's smallest elementary schools, the Murray Road School had only kindergarten through grade four.

Aldermen Stand Against Rise In Swimming Costs

The Board of Aldermen rebuked the Recreation Commission Monday night, recording itself against the increase in cost for use of Newton's public swimming facilities this year. The Aldermen also recommended that last year's rates — $1 for children and $3 for adults — be restored.

The motion to request the old rates and protest the increase was made by Alderman Paul J. Burke, who charged that the Recreation Commission had been remiss. He observed that as a member of the Swimming Pool Committee he was alarmed by the late date at which the pool was opened and said the Alderman had allocated extra money to pay for the added cost of heating which had not been used.

Alderman Ernest F. Dietz, who seconded Burke's proposal, remarked that the increase hit the people least able to pay.

Alan S. Barkin, Ward 8 Alderman, said the Board was facing "another situation in which it was embarrassed" by increased rates for public services, of which the Board had not been informed.

Barkin recommended that the Board meet with the Recreation Commission at some future date.

The measure was passed over the dissenting vote of Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner.

The 8 pound, 11 ounce baby girl beat the degree in a close race. Mrs. Dertouzos had completed her Ph.D thesis just a few weeks before the arrival of the baby.

The girl, named Alexandra, is the first child for the Dertouzos couple who reside at 96 Montvale Rd., in Newton.

Mrs. Dertouzos came to the United States as a Fulbright student at Wellesley College. She had previously received her B.S. dgree in 1959 at the University of Tubingen in her native Germany.

She is a research assistant in the M.I.T. Department of Chemistry.

Her husband, Dr. Michael L. Dertouzos, is an assistant professor of electrical engineering at M.I.T.

OPERATOR OF MONTH—Corinne L. Kluwer of 147 Crafts st., Newtonville, has been named "Operator of the Month" by the New England Telephone Company. She is the first employee to win this honor.

Marine-

proud parents of the understanding young American, reside at 96 Nonantum street, in Newton.

Today, Miss Do Thi Dong is at the National Rehabilitation Institute in Saigon being fitted with an artificial leg. She manages to smile now; she, her mother and sister feel that humanity has rediscovered them. Life is no longer a continuing pattern of dark todays and hopeless tomorrows.

Their essence of faith and salvation is young Corporal Purcell.

Even an artificial limb can be counted a blessing by a teen-age girl such as 17-year-old Miss Do Thi Dong.

But the young Newton Marine is not resting on his oars. His complete goal is not yet achieved and he is still in there pitching with all the decision and stick-to-itvness of the famous Corps whose uniform he wears.

In writing to his family about the project, Corporal Purcell said, "In addition to purchasing the artificial leg, I hope to collect enough money from the troops here to move this family to Da Nang, buy them a house and some land and get the mother a job here at the Base.

"I'd like to give them the opportunity to start a new and more productive life. We are also hoping to send this girl to school so she can become a teacher and thereby be able to help others as we are trying to help her."

Incidentially, the major portion of the money raised to help unfortunate Vietnamese civilians, such as this little family group, is raised by contributions from the pockets of U. S. Marines, soldiers, and other military personnel in Vietnam.

Corporal Purcell's "Dottie Fund" was his own special and original idea.

The members of Newton Council, Knights of Columbus were unanimous in supporting the effort of the young Marine. The donation was made in the name of James Purcell, the corporal's father.

Corporal Purcell is a graduate of Newton High School and Newton Junior College. A member of the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing's Contingency Reaction Force, he recently received a letter of appreciation from the Commanding General for "superior performance of duty" following a plane crash.

Major General L. B. Robertshaw referred personally to Corporal Purcell's "professionalism, devotion to duty, courage and 'can-do' spirit" as being highly commendable.

Local Girl Is First To Win Phone Honors

Corinne L. Kluwer of 147 Crafts st., Newtonville, a New England Telephone operator, was recently named "Operator of the Month."

Corinne, who has only nine months service with the company, is the first employee to receive the honor. The program began in the Newton office last month (May).

"It's nice to be recognized but I was so surprised to win," said Corinne, who joined the company in September, 1966. The program encourages initiative and gives everyone a chance to win, and its a wonderful idea."

"The winner is chosen on the basis of customer service and courtesy," said chief operator Olive Downing of 15 Bacon st., Waltham.

Corinne was presented an graved "operator of the month" charm in recognition of the honor.

Newton with 300 operators is the largest long distance operating unit in the Bell System.

Guest Preacher Sunday At Local Lutheran Church

On Sunday, June 25, the Rev. David Mahn will preach the sermon and lead the congregation in worship. Pastor Mahn received the rite of ordination at St. John's Lutheran Church, South Weymouth, last Sunday and is a graduate of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri.

He has accepted the call of Christ the King Lutheran Church, Greenwood, Mississippi, and will assume the duties of pastor of this church later in the summer. He is a son of St. John Lutheran Church, South Weymouth. The Rev. Robert L. Griesse, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Newtons, will be in Kearney, Nebraska, during the coming week attending the 60th wedding anniversary of his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Griesse.

Lee Loumos Says:

The General Assembly of the United (?) Nations is convened and important heads of state are present or quickly available. What a wonderful opportunity this is right now for the major powers to realize the complete futility of all wars, big or small, and make a sincere and honest effort to compromise their opposing positions. If there is any integrity in their public disavowals of aggrandizement, now is the moment of opportunity to put aside past bitterness and build a better world understanding with a new clean and honest start. Never in the history of civilized (?) man can I think of a more auspicious or crucial moment. If this could happen, then 1967 would be the date of all dates that history would record and the names of the men involved would be emblazoned in honor for the ages.

Use Of Street Cross-walks Urged By Police In Newton

Captain Richard F. Donahue of the Newton Police announced today that all of the city's crosswalks have been repainted and calls attention to all citizens to make greater use of these crosswalks.

The Captain went on to state that the City of Newton has accepted provisions of the Pedestrian Control laws, and the laws are designed to protect the pedestrian from the flow of traffic.

A survey of recent child pedestrian accidents indicate many might have been avoided had parents insisted that their children cross only where there are crosswalks.

Some of these accidents were where the child had crossed from behind a car, within less than fifty feet from a signal light and crosswalks.

Adult pedestrians have been crossing streets at will throughout their lives and many have been accident victims and some have become part of the growing list of fatal accidents.

The Captain pointed out that a recent school committee meeting indicated that the schools teach safety at all levels and that the department through its safety officers, Sergeant Thomas Dargan and Officers Charles E. Feeley, assist in these programs and if they are to be effective parents must work at directing their children in the matters of traffic safety.

He went on to state that the Massachusetts Safety Council announced as early as 1961 that it is not unreasonable to request a child to walk up to an eighth of a mile to cross at a safer crossing than one that offers only convenience and perhaps danger.

Records of recent accidents indicate in many accidents that the pedestrian stated he or she did not see the car until after the collision and many of these reports indicate that the pedestrian was not looking either way when entering the street.

This was indicated by the increase in the number of accidents where the pedestrian came in contact with a slowing vehicle at a point either at the driver or to the rear of the driver who was applying brakes and trying to avoid collision.

In many of these accidents only the skill of the driver avoided a more serious accident.

The Captain stated that the best safety program in the country, and Newton has one of the finest, cannot by itself be enough unless parents implement such programs by insisting and checking the pedestrian habits and practices of their children.

While parents cannot always be with them, a little observation can reveal the practice everywhere.

Parents should notice how children cross the street they live on — DO THEY LOOK BOTH WAYS? DO THEY LOOK LEFT AND RIGHT WHILE WALKING THRU PARKING LOTS OR WHILE SHOPPING?

A parent might observe any street crossing and if there is any degree of carelessness even on so-called quiet streets there will be the same degree in other and perhaps more dangerous areas.

The Captain stated that pedestrian violation books will soon be issued to police officers and hopes the public will not insist on their use by poor habits, or dangerous and thoughtless crossings.

He also pointed out that every citizen with vacation plans should review all pedestrian habits, adults and children because of the variations in traffic patterns from community to community.

Request Public Hearing Held On Billboard Site

A public hearing by the the State Outdoor Advertising Authority on a permit for the erection and maintenance of a 20 by 60 foot lighted billboard on the roof of a building at 349 Auburn st. in Auburndale, was requested Monday night by the Board of Aldermen.

The permit, which expires June 30, was opposed by the Aldermen in 1965 and 1966 as a blight on a residential section of the City. The Aldermen also resolved that City Solicitor Matt B. Jones be sent to register the City's opposition to the billboard at any public hearing and that interested citizens and groups be notified of such a hearing.

The resolution asking for the hearing was submitted by Alderman Louis L. Egelson of Ward 4.

mate much of the hospital's data processing. As a first step, discharged accounts receivable of the hospital are being programmed.

"The hospital's board of governors was quick to recognize the efficiencies and economies inherent in a shared computer. The step reflects our deep interest in coordinated approaches, whereby hospitals join to promote maximum effectiveness in their business and service operations," Mr. Brines said.

While inpatient billing and accounting are the first to go on the computer, outpatient accounting soon will follow, he noted.

Eventually, the hospital hopes to transfer its payroll accounting, general ledger accounting and even the vital and complex medical records function to the shared computer, he indicated.

"Counting every visit people make to this hospital for some form of service, we estimate we serve more than 40,000 people annually. Keeping track of units, time, dollars and information requires an immense fact-gathering operation," Mr. Brines said.

"We believe the computer will be a big help in our principal job of patient care, since it will provide the back-up facts we need to do our job. The computer will permit us to store, retrieve and evaluate data readily, accurately and with greater speed," he said.

Quarters for the data processing operation have been arranged and are being readied in Braintree. In the meantime, the Massachusetts Hospital Association and the group of hospitals are renting computer time from Boston University Medical Center

All new information will be transmitted by a hospital to the computer during the day. The same evening data will be entered into the computer. Results will be conveyed to the hospital the following morning.

The seven hospitals will focus upon patient accounting. Applications pertaining to patient care will follow. They are expected to range from laboratory test reporting to central recording of medical information.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital is the second of the seven to begin programming operations.

The regional program closely parallels one in New York State, where nine hospitals are linked to a computer by telephone lines, the farthest being 161 miles distant.

colleagues were awarded a bronze replica, encased in plexiglass, of their original diploma inscribed with an honorary citation on the reverse side.

The citation lists Mr. Raymond as a native of New Bedford where he was educated in the city's public schools.

The inscription also cites him as a member of the Founding Class of Bentley College in 1917 who has demonstrated the highest tradition and loyal dedication as an accounting specialist and later treasurer of the nationally known textile buying enterprise, Cotton Merchants. In addition, the citation states that he has been an active member in the Masonic fraternity.

Making the presentation was Rae D. Anderson, senior vice-president and dean, who himself was honored with a special medallion.

WINDSOR ROAD in WABAN SQUARE

We reserve the right to limit quantities

Editorial . . .

Puzzling Contradiction

A curious contradiction popped up last week which has us puzzled and which, we are sure, will stir controversy and spirited comment throughout the Commonwealth. It was the recommendation by Chairman John T. Driscoll, of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, for a $65 million 28-mile north-south toll road through Worcester County.

The four-lane, divided, limited access highway would run from Rte. 2 near Fitchburg to the Massachusetts Turnpike near Oxford. And, according to Driscoll, it wouldn't pay its own way but would require a state subsidy to defray the deficit.

Now the curious contradiction, which we would like to have clarified, is this. The Authority chairman said that the recommendation for the road was based on a $100,000 feasibility study which was paid for by the Commonwealth and which was completed in 1965.

But an earlier study, done by the consultant firm of Edwards and Kelsey for the State Department of Public Works at the whopping cost of $700,000 concluded there were neither enough funds available nor sufficient traffic volume to warrant an early priority for a double-barreled highway.

The survey by the highly respected consulting firm recommended a single road from Ashburnham to the Massachusetts Turnpike near Sturbridge. It would cost an estimated $31.5 million and would not be completed or needed until 1985, or 18 years from now.

Driscoll said the recommendation for the road was based on consideration of "the safety and convenience of the motoring public as well as for the economic development of Worcester County." He also said it would be used and "appreciated" by out-of-state motorists and truckers ,who would thereby contribute their share of the costs of construction and maintenance.

We do not feel those are prime reasons for the construction of so costly a toll road, especially in the light of a very expensive survey that concluded there was not enough traffic volume to warrant it. We know there was a time-lapse between the Edwards and Kelsey survey and the 1965 DPW study and that during the time-lapse vehicular traffic has increased on the highways of Massachusetts. However, it would have to be proved to us that it has increased to such an extent that a new toll highway is urgently required.

Simple Rules Save Lives

We don't know what happened to spring, but apparently the summer season is upon us, as witness the past weekend. And with the advent of heat and summer weather came the drowning toll. A toll we believe could have and should have been avoided.

School will soon be over and thousands of young children will be free to play and enjoy the sunshine for the next couple of months Unifortunately, some will never return to school. They will drown.

They will drown because they will not be aware of a few simple rules that might have saved their lives. The first rule is simple: it is to use common sense while swimming or diving. If you're not a good swimmer, do not venture into treacherous water. If you are a good swimmer, don't over-estimate your ability or strength.

Don't go into the water too soon after eating. It could lead to paralyzing cramps. If diving, be sure of what lies under the surface of the water. If swimming in a river, be careful of the current; at a beach, be wary of the undertow. If surfing, watch the loose board, it can kill.

For the parents of toddlers and devil-may-care four and five-year-olders—watch them carefully. It only takes a second for them to be knocked down and swept out by a wave, or to be upset and smothered in foam.

The last rule is the same as the first: use-common sense.

Cum Laude Grad From Hood Coll.

Meredith Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gates Howard, of Newton Lower Falls, graduated cum laude from Hood College in Frederick, Md. She graduated with departmental honors for "completing with distinction" her independent study paper in her major field, music.

She was recently awarded the John D. and Louise Hunt Hendrickson Prize, given to a student on the basis of either general proficiency in music or for the demonstration of special achievement in the musical field.

Miss Howard was a member of Mortar Board, was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and was president of the college choir. She was also the all-college song leader and conducted the Hood College singers.

Rep. Mann Makes Statement In Air Guard Land Case

Rep. Theodore D. Mann of Newton, a member of a special committee investigating the extent of Air National Guard land at Logan Airport, this week declared that if the Air National Guard did at one time have control over 45 acres of land as has been stated, then the rent which the Massachusetts Port Authority has received from Eastern Airlines, Hertz and Avis Companies for some 30 acres of land, "would justify the claim of an unjust enrichment on the part of the Port Authority."

Idea For Schools

Editor of The Graphic:

Our school system does everything it thinks is possible for the well being of the child.

I believe that is the reason given for the hours of the school day, the child eating lunch at home, etc.

You have overlcoked a very simple way of giving them joy and fond memories when they look back. My child has gone from grammar school to junior high, and now from junior high to high school.

Why not give them a graduation exercise at one of these landmarks in their lives.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sumner (Cynthia) Vistor

Train Service

Editor of The Graphic:

City officials, including the Mayor, are giving much publicity these days to their efforts to retain train service to Boston for the City of Newton.

From my personal observations it would seem that no more than five hundred residents of Newton use this means of travel to work. I have yet failed to see anyone in so-called work clothes board a train to go to Boston in the morning. Most of the men are carrying brief cases and are probably State Street bankers or lawyers.

One of the arguments for retention of the service favors subsidization by MBTA. How can these bankers and lawyers have the nerve to suggest that the taxpayers pick up the tab for their transportation? What has happened to free enterprise and rugged individualism and the denunciation of the Welfare State that was once the style?

The Board of Aldermen have a petition pending which would provide for public housing in Newton for those who in addition to the elderly may be in need of it, but as yet I have heard no voices raised in support of this admirable program. Do these people who favor subsidization of travel for the rich approve of subsidization of housing for the less fortunate?

Lutheran Church Of Newtons Sets Summer Activity

Instead of reducing activities, the Lutheran Church of the Newtons will increase its schedule of events during the summer.

Beginning next Sunday, June 25, worshippers will gather at 9:30 instead of 10:30 a.m. in both instances. The Sunday School, usually closed down for the summer, will begin a half-hour of teaching immediately following the service.

Classes will be available for adults and children, and materials will be graded to four different levels. During July, beginning July 12, a midweek service has been arranged for those persons who wish to worship during the week, but find it impossible to be in town over the weekend.

Wednesday, July 12, and subsequent Wednesday will be an identical service to the previous Sunday morning worship program. During the week of July 24-28, a Vacation Bible School will be conducted for the children of Newton Centre and their friends in other communities. All children from age 3 to 14 will be welcome.

For this week of activities, a Bible school staff of teachers and assistants, music and recreational personnel, and a kitchen staff for snacks will be available. Expenses for the Vacation Bible School will be met by a free-will offering of those students in attendance each day.

Although many people leave town for the summer, the Lutheran Church of the Newtons feels a concern for the worship life of those who do remain in town and wish to express their faith in a service with fellow Christians. The Lutheran Church of the Newtons is located at the corner of Centre and Cypress streets in Newton Centre. Its pastor is the Rev. Robert L. Griesse.

On Crime Study

Tells Newton Audience

Richardson Sees Gains In Bay State's War On Crime

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson told a Newton audience last week that, "we're not yet winning our war on crime, but we're not losing as badly as we were."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Newton at Valle's Steak House, the Attorney General said, "The public has realized the seriousness of the crime problem and has begun to express its serious concern with it, and this is a first step toward the solution."

Richardson reported that the newly-formed Organized Crime Section of his office's Criminal Division "has begun the enormous task of developing the intelligence necessary to a complete understanding of the scope and nature of organized crime in Massachusetts."

"We must," he said, "learn who is involved in organized crime and how. We must learn how the various criminal organizations function. Fi the evidence which will ennally, we must accumulate able us to prosecute successfully those who make their livings by crime."

The Attorney General emphasized that the state's war on crime was being fought with "limited means for unlimited objectives."

"We haven't asked for sweeping police powers on unlimited funds," he said, "We have asked for funds to expand our investigative capabilities and for the legal weapons to get the information we need."

"We are confident that the Legislature will grant our request for funds to hire qualified investigators and attorneys for our organized crime section," Richardson said, "and we are confident of continued legislative support in our campaign to develop an arsenal of legal weapons."

He said that several items of the legislative program recommended by the Governor's Public Safety Committee, of which he is chairman, already have been enacted into law. These include bills clarifying the rights of police to arrest bookies and conduct fresh pursuit.

In addition, Richardson said, "a witness immunity bill for use in organized crime cases has been passed by the House and I am confident of its approval by the Senate."

With the proper funds and legal tools, the state can make a start toward the elimination of organized crime, said the Attorney General, adding that if success is to be guaranteed, "we will also need the full cooperation of every law-abiding member of the public."

"While law enforcement agencies can, and must spearhead this campaign, they cannot do the job alone," Richardson stated. "Like frontline troops, they must have the help of supporting branches of the service and of those on the home front."

"If we in the law enforcement business get this help from you on the home front, I am sure that we will eventually realize our aim of eliminating the cancer of crime from our society," Richardson concluded.

Political Highlights

that he had decided to retire from public life at the end of the year.

Another man who has faced up to hard questions, made tough decisions and been the storm center of numerous controversies has now set his sights on the place Collins will vacate as Mayor of the State's capital city.

Development Administrator Edward J. Logue, whose hat is now in the mayoralty ring, has the ability to do the job as Mayor of Boston. Whether he'll get the opportunity to demonstrate it is another question.

Logue faces a hard fight to qualify in Boston's September preliminary election. If he succeeds in doing so, he'll then be involved in a bruising two-candidate battle in the final November election. The going will be rugged and uphill for him all the way.

Collins' experience indicates that hard questions and tough decisions take a heavy political toll. Whether that will be true in the case of Logue is something only time will determine.

One sure thing, however, is that Logue will add color and excitement to Boston's mayoralty contest. It's not likely to be either a dull or drab campaign with him in the field.

Philbin Disturbed By Redistricting Plan

Veteran Congressman Philip J. Philbin of Clinton appears to be the only Massachusetts member of Congress with any real reason for concern over the proposed plan for creating 12 new congessional districts in the State.

And Philbin has no cause to push the panic button. He might find himself in a fight for Democratic renomination next year, but the voters have a tendency to renominate and reelect incumbent Congressmen.

Philbin is displeased with the redistricting plan because Newton, Waltham, Watertown and several other communities have been added to his district, and he is not especially well known in any of them.

A prominent Democrat such as Representative Joseph G. Bradley of Newton could be a strong challenger against Philbin in a Democratic primary. Bradley, however, is likely to delay any bid for a seat in Congress.

The congressional sectors must be revamped again after the 1970 census. Some of the congressional districts then will be changed drastically because of the great population shifts which have occurred in the 1960's. That's when public figures with their eyes on Capitol Hill probably will make their big bids.

Philbin, who began his public career as secretary to the late Senator David I. Walsh, is now serving his 12th term in Congress and is the second ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee.

He is highly respected in Washington, has a reputation for giving his district excellent service and is likely to entrench himself quickly in his new district.

The 12-member legislative redistricting committee, headed by State Senator George Kenneally of Dorchester and Representative John Toomey of Cambridge has been criticized in some quarters for maintaining the status quo in working out its plan for carving the State into 12 new congressional districts of approximately equal size in population.

In fairness, the committee undoubtedly would have been accused of Gerrymandering if it hadn't maintained the status quo.

A bitter fight would have erupted if a plan had been produced under which two or three Congressmen would be legislated out of office.

Governor Volpe would have been certain to veto the measure if the indications were that one or two Republicans would lose their seats.

That would have thrown the problem into the lap of the federal court which probably would have come up with a redistricting plan which would arouse screams of anguish from the Congressmen.

This is really stop-gap redistricting to comply with the law until after the 1970 census.

In order to make the 12 congressional districts approximately equal in population, the committee first enlarged the district of Congressman Silvio O. Conte in western Massachusetts, then moved eastward, shuffling around cities and towns to meet its objective.

The committee obviously went to some lengths to avoid placing two Congressmen together in the same district and tried to keep all the districts basically the same so that no Congressman was grievously hurt.

With sprawling and winding districts, the job will not win any medals from an artistic standpoint, but politically it was done in a fair and impartial manner.

Bristol County District Attorney Edmund Dinis, whose court suit forced the reapportionment, had urged the committee to place Fall River, New Bedford and Taunton together in the same district. This would have created a district in which Dinis would have been a strong candidate.

The committee rejected the idea. Fall River was left in the district of Republican Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler and New Bedford in the district of GOP Congressman Hastings Keith.

When the Democratic-controlled committee began its deliberations, many politicos assumed it would wield the axe either on Keith or Mrs. Heckler. But it didn't do so, and the plan would have met a veto from Volpe if it had.

While some changes were made in both the Heckler and Keith districts, notably the shift of Newton from Mrs. Heckler's district to that of Philbin, both should be sufficiently strong in the remaining sections of their present districts to gain reelection next year.

Political analysts are studying the makeup of the new Philbin district to ascertain whether former Congressman Lawrence Curtis, who was Gerrymandered out of office in 1962, would have a chance of winning in it. Curtis, a Newton resident, is a proven and powerful vote-getter.

Sale of Sparklers Is Now Prohibited

For a few fleeting days Massachusetts children had the pleasure and privilege of burning themselves, setting their clothes afire and generally endangering their lives with sparklers.

Then last Saturday Governor Volpe signed a bill repealing the law allowing the sale of sparklers in the Bay State.

Not only did Volpe affix his signature to the measure with a sweep and a flourish, but he also added an emergency preamble so that the repeal became effective immediately.

This lowered Volpe's popularity substantially with the "sparkler set" who will be voting in another 10 to 15 years.

But it also averted burns and injuries and quite possibly deaths and stark tragedy over the Fourth of July. Why the law permitting the sale of sparklers was placed on the statute books last year is still a mystery.

Democrats Now Seek To End Conventions

The Democratic - controlled State Legislature finally enacted a bill to abolish the pre-primary convention system of endorsing candidates for statewide offices, but it's highly improbable that it can pass the measure over Governor Volpe's veto.

For a period of years the convention has worked to the advantage of the Republicans and to the disadvantage of the Democrats.

Ex-Governor Furcolo wanted to scrap the convention back in 1958 but was talked out of the idea by legislators who viewed the conclave as a means by which they might achieve state-wide office.

The late John F. Kennedy, while President, had a bill filed to junk the convention after he had seen the image of the Democratic party hurt by unruly brawls on the convention floor.

A repeal measure filed by former Democratic State Committee Chairman John M. Lynch was scuttled in the House of Representatives even though it was known that it had JFK's backing and blessing.

Now the Democrats in the Legislature have finally pushed through a bill to wipe out the convention, but they did it at a time when a Republican is sitting in the Governor's chair.

The Republicans obviously are not going to end a system which has been helping them and hurting the Democrats.

The convention method of picking candidates for State tickets was revived by GOP leaders after the 1950 election when Republican fortunes in the State were just about at their lowest ebb.

Republican conventions for the most part have been cut and dried affairs. Only in 1962 did the GOP conclave witness rip-roaring battles. But the Republicans did make the convention work.

The Democrats, on the other hand, had a political bloodletting at their conventions and then battled all over again in the primaries.

What may conceivably happen in the future is that the Republicans may continue to hold pre-primary conventions and the Democrats will not.

While the Democrats don't have the muscle right now to wipe out the convention system, neither can the Republicans force the Democrats to hold the damaging coitalves if they don't wish to do so.

Rate-

conferring in private session with the Assessors.

Alderman John P. Nixon, chairman of the Aldermanic Finance Committee, in speaking on the transfer and the rise in the tax rate, declared that the tax rate hike resulted from a $3 million increase in this year's budget, about half of which was due to higher school costs and the balance to pay raises granted to police, firefighters and other municipal employees under the new Collective Bargaining Law.

Nixon concurred with a warning issued by Alderman H. James Shea, Jr., that Newton may become a city where only the young and the old could afford to live, asserting that city officials and the School Committee should take a hard look next year at soaring costs of government.

He observed that Newton's tax rate has almost doubled in the past 10 years. While agreeing that inflation has had much to do with boosting the rate, Nixon said the climbing tax rate has begun to affect the city's population in the manner suggested by Shea since the 1965 State census showed an increase of less than 2000 residents over the 1955 figures.

(The 1965 State census showed a drop of about 8000 from the peak reached in the 1960 federal census. However, the two sets of figures are not comparable since the federal census counted all persons in Newton on a specified day, including students from other cities and states, regardless of whether they were actually legal residents of the Garden City. The State Census counts only legal residents.)

Robert Morgan Paintings To Be Exhibited In City

The unusual and beautiful Dada-school paintings of Robert Morgan, young painter-poet presently living in Newton, will be on exhibit starting late in June at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street.

Mr. Morgan, who says of himself that he once tried and failed to become a professional beatnik in New York City, is a graduate of the University of Redlands (California) and will receive his Master's degree this summer from Northeastern University. He has been practice-teaching in Newton during the past year.

Robert Morgan attended Long Beach City College and sang in the local coffee shop which introduced him to everything . . . beautiful in life. During his undergraduate years at the University of Redlands he wrote poetry, established a reputation as an outcast, won a literary award and learned to like beer.

After a brief stay in New York he traveled extensively in Europe and decided to dedicate his life to a uniqueness of expression, overwhelmed by the paintings of Rubens and Piero della Francesca. He returned to America broke, penniless, underweight and undernourished. In Boston he entered the Museum School while working at a full time job.

In 1966 he got married, entered Northeastern University Graduate School of Education, continued his painting, and had his first poem published in the Tufts Literary Magazine.

During this same successful year he had several more poems published and exhibited his paintings and drawings at the Arlington Street Church in Boston.

Robert Morgan is presently studying calligraphy and Zen Buddhism with Kongo Abe, a foremost Japanese artist and calligrapher who lives in Cambridge. Morgan says that Kongo Abe has had a tremendous effect upon the orientation of his art thinking. More and more calligraphy is coming into his painting, and viewers of the exhibit will be fascinated to see how he works the symbols into his colorful, explosive paintings.

Mr. Morgan plans to work for a second graduate degree in Art History while he continues his painting and writing.

The Library staff has assembled from its extensive art collection a group of books dealing with modern art, history of art and new media and techniques. The exhibit will remain on view till mid-July.

Accuracy's Need Stressed In Sealer Bowen's Report

In a report submitted to Mayor Monte G. Basbas by J. Ellis Bowen, sealer of weights and measures, it was pointed out that in 1966 more than $53,000,000 was expended in this city for three items-food, automobile fuel and heating fuel.

The report points out that a 2 percent error in quantities delivered would have resulted in a loss of more than $1,000,000 on those items alone - a statement that puts stress on the importance on one of the functions of Bowen's department.

Today's high prices, avers the report, with a 1939 dollar having declined to a worth of about 45c, and with the National Consumer Index continually climbing, make it more important than ever that quantity determinations be accurate. A multiplicity of small errors is very expensive, either to the consumer, or to the merchant, depending upon whether long or short measure is involved.

The Sealer and Deputy Sealer Robert E. Silver, supervise the testing of meters, scales and the tiny and delicate prescription balances used in drug stores — instruments that could spell the difference between life and death if inaccurate.

Bowen's report notes that only one instance during the year made court action necessary. The defendant was found guilty and a fine was imposed.

Newman House Reports Successful First Year

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Donovan of 19 Exeter street, West Newton, were elected president-couple of Newman House, Newton's unique parent-directed Catholic religious education center, at the first annual meeting of the House.

Other officer-couples selected were Mr. and Mrs. C. Joseph Pasquarosa of 34 Park street, Newton, vice-president; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bresnahan of 42 Grant avenue, West Newton, treasurer; and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart B. Martin of 10 Doris circle, Newton, secretary.

Named to two-year terms on the Newman House Board of Directors were Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Carleo of 242 Adams avenue, West Newton; Mr. and Mrs. John T. O'Brien of 66 Prescott street, Newtonville; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice A. Reidy Jr. of 479 Walnut street, Newtonville; and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Sabetti of 301 Lake avenue, Newton Highlands.

Commenting on the first year of the fledgling religious education project, outgoing president Stuart B. Martin stated that it was one "of consolidation and selective experimentation. Much remains to be done, primarily in raising funds and in enlisting broader parent support for this important student project."

He continued, "We can all take heart from the results of our hard work of the past 12 months. Newman House itself has been organized and chartered. Sizeable funds have been collected and a suitable building obtained. The center has been approved by the Archdiocese and granted both state and federal tax-exempt status. With the forthcoming announcement of a professional youth program manager, Newman House will be ready to go into full-time operation by the fall."

Mr. Martin expressed appreciation for the many persons who helped to bring Newman House to its current status. He singled out for special thanks the pastors of Newton, especially Bishop Eric F. MacKenzie, and the curates who contributed their off-duty hours to Newman House; also, the invaluable work of the retiring officers and board members: Mr. and Mrs. Gary P. Brazier of 136 Hunnewell avenue, Newton, treasurer couple, Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Harrington of 157 Lowell avenue, Newtonville, secretary; and Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Mazzola of 65 Bellevue street, Newton, board members.

Looking ahead to summer activities, Mr. Martin announced that a "student service group" was being formed to assist families in need. Moreover, he stated, a number of parents have expressed interest in continuing and expanding highly-successful religious enrichment programs conducted last summer on an experimental basis for students at Bigelow and Day Junior High Schools.

Beginning about July 6, these programs will be conducted one evening a week on three scholastic levels: incoming seventh and eighth graders; ninth graders; and high school sophomores.

"These programs," Mr. Martin declared, "are made possible only by parent support. Anyone who can help us to plan for or to transport one of these groups should call 527-1821 or drop a card to Newman House, 442 Walnut street, Newtonville.

Newman House has its goal making religion significant and relevant to the lives of young people. It is believed to be unique in this country in that it is owned and directed by parents of Catholic students in Newton public schools, organized as a non-profit corporation.

While aimed primarily at Catholic students in Newton's public high schools, Newman House hopes to operate many ecumenical programs through interfaith dialogues, meetings with youth groups from local churches and synagogues, and programs emphasizing Christian brotherhood.

He'll "Give VISTA A Try" If He Stays In One Piece

Pedaling his racing bike in Williamstown April 30, Lipof skidded in a pile of sand. Thrown from the bike, he landed on his right forearm. The force of the fall shattered the cast and inflicted bruises and cuts on his upper forearm.

Oddly enough, Lipof played every game in three years as offensive tackle for Coach Frank Navarro's football team that amassed a 19-5 record. He also wrestled in every one of the Ephs' seven matches last winter. Participating in these bruising sports, Lipof suffered no injuries serious enough to keep him out of action.

Lipof acquired a stripped-down bicycle after returning from Nassau. He was on the road every morning before 8 o'clock, covering 10 miles before his first class. He estimates he covered the distance each day in "a half hour or so."

"I rode the bike for two reasons," he says, "for physical conditioning and to enjoy the countryside. I started as soon as the snow disappeared."

Lipof now carries his right arm in a sling, but the cast has not been replaced. He is determined to get back on the road soon, but the bike will need repairs. Among other things, he will need to replace the front wheel.

An economics major, Lipof has applied for a job in the VISTA program after graduation. VISTA is a part of the Anti-Poverty Program.

"It's a one year assignment," says Lipof. "I'd like to give it a try."

Announce Final Stages Of Community Center Project

The Newton Community Center Annual Sustaining Membership Drive is in its final stages for this year.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Earle W. Wilkins, Jr., of 110 Highland Street in West Newton, the Community Center drive has attempted to stimulate wider community participation in this undertaking by pointing to the rapid expansion of program and facility needs.

Mrs. Wilkens in commenting on the Center needs, pointed to the decentralized operation in the agency. During the past year she noted, to meet the demands of program, the Center operated activities within the facilities of the Second Church in West Newton, the Armory in West Newton, Warren Jr. High School, and Newton South High.

In addition, the Center Nursery School is operating at the First Unitarian Society in West Newton. Also housed in the spacious Society facility is "Newton's Headstart" program of which the Community Center is the Delegate or Administering Agency. An extensive progam is being operated by the Center out of the 1st Methodist Church in Newton Upper Falls.

An interesting statistic which has developed with the growth of the Center, has been the population served. This has increased markedly over the years but of even greater significance is the fact the residents from the total city and surrounding communities are availing themselves to the service. Population serviced is consistent proportionately to the size of Newton's various villages.

Residents of the Community who have not received a mailing with regard to the drive and are interested in participation are urged to contact the Community Center for additional information or one of the following individuals who are assisting Mrs. Wilkins with the Sustaining Membership Drive:

Mrs. Ernest G. Angevine, Mrs. Kurt Hertzfeld, Mrs. Edward Landy, Mrs. Frank Wheelock, Jr., Mrs. Gus Harrer, Miss Ruth N. Eddy, Mrs. William Glovsky, Mr. David Cooper, Mrs. David Cooper, Miss Mary Louise Eddy, Rev. William Foley, Mr. Jerome Grossman, Mrs. Robert Hull, Mr. Emil Keiler, Mrs. Elbert P. Little, Mr. John McLeod, Mr. Richard Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Uehlein and Mrs. Earle W. Wilkins, Jr.

Four Key Positions Have Been Filled By Committee

Four key positions have been filled by the school committee recently. Ernest V. Seasholes was appointed to succeed retiring principal Ralph H. Morse of the F. A. Day Junior High School. Asst. Meadowbrook Principal Maurice H. Blum was named to the post vacated by Miss King. Sullivan will become assistant principal of Bigelow Junior High School.

Jonathan M. Daube was named assistant to Superintendent Charles E. Brown, replacing Stanley Russell, who has been given a leave of absence to obtain his doctorate.

Daube's appointment is effective July 1, while Blum, Seasholes and Sullivan will start their new jobs in September.

Blum joined the Newton School System in 1957, as an English and social studies teacher at Meadowbrook Junior High School. He became administrative assistant to the principal of Meadowbrook in 1960 and has been assistant principal since 1961.

After serving in the Army Signal Corps during World War II, Blum graduated from Wilmington College in Ohio in 1949. He received his Master's degree in education from Tufts University in 1957.

He also did graduate work at Indiana University, the Hartford Seminary Foundation and the University of Mexico. Before coming to Newton he taught for a year in the Clarksville, Ohio, high school, and for five years in Guadalajara, Mexico. His publications include a book on phonetics entitled "English Exercises in Phonetics" written in collaboration with Chester Heyer. Blum is married and has three children.

Seasholes, who recently compiled a report on the educational specifications of the future F. A. Day building graduated from Amherst College in 1955 and received his Master's degree in teaching from Harvard in 1959.

The new F. A. Day principal served in the U. S. Navy from 1955 to 1957, and acted as a Harvard Graduate School of Education Research Assistant in a Concord Junior High School from 1959 to 1961. From 1961 on he has been associated with the Newton Public Schools, except during 1965-66 when he took part in Harvard University's administrative career program.

In Newton, he has taught social studies at Newton High School, worked on the Harvard Nigerian project and acted as assistant to the principal of the Day Junior High School.

Sullivan graduated from Boston College in 1955 and received his Master's degree in education from Boston State College in 1959. He has done other graduate work at Boston University, Boston College and Harvard.

He taught and acted as a guidance counselor in Somerville Junior High and High Schools from 1955 to 1963. Since 1963 he has been a guidance counselor at Weeks Junior High School. He served in the U. S. Army from 1956 to 1958.

In the summer of 1962, Sullivan was one of 12 persons chosen from applicants all over the country to participate in a specialized program in counselor training conducted by the Harvard-Newton Guidance Institute.

He has been Newton coordinator of arts and social studies team teaching and also data processing coordinator for Weeks Junior High School.

Sullivan is married, has three children and is active in the Lexington P.T.A.

Faube received his Master's degree with honors from the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1957, and a postgraduate certificate in education, with distinction, from the University of London in 1958.

Before coming to Newton in 1963 he taught English and mathematics in English schools. He taught English at Newton High School until 1965. Since then he has been on leave of absence to pursue his doctor's degree in educational administration at Harvard, where he is a teaching fellow in education.

He has done research and been an educational consultant for Arthur D. Little, Inc., and has been a consultant for the State University of New York. He is author of a number of articles.

Roy Elected To Board For Harvard Student Agencies

Stephen Roy, of Newton, has been elected to the board of directors of the Harvard Student Agencies, Inc. As one of five student board members, he will be evaluating the operations of twenty-five student-managed businesses.

The businesses range from publishing a lively, internationally distributed student travel guide, called "Let's Go," throughout the Boston area, and providing souvenirs and to catering at private parties refreshments at Harvard football games.

The Harvard Student Agencies was created nine years ago to help Harvard students finance their education through working in a student-run enterprise. At present about 350 Harvard and Radcliffe students annually earn $50 or more.

STEPHEN ROY

Roy, a junior and a honors candidate in Economics, is a graduate of The Noble and Greenough School in Dedham. There he graduated Cum Laude and was a National Merit Finalist.

At Harvard, in addition to his work for the Harvard Student Agencies, Roy was president of the Association of Business and Economics Students. He plans to continue with business upon graduation from Harvard

Roy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Roy of 36 Fairmont Ave., Newton.

Exhibition Of Drawings Set For Library

Drawings by C. Ray Bryan are now being shown at the Newton-Highlands Branch of the Newton Free Library, 20 Hartford Street. The drawings will be on display for several weeks.

Mr. Bryan is a defense engineer with Avco Corporation engaged in highly classified work on ICBM's. He makes his home with his wife and seven talented childen in Bedford.

In the arts, the name C. Ray Bryan is more closely associated with music than with graphics. He is a busy soloist who has appeared professionally with most of the major choral aggregations in the Boston area, including New England Opera Theatre; the Handel and Haydn, Lexington ProMusica and Framingham choruses, and as featured soloist with the Boston Civic Symphoeny.

However, he is also an architect (he designed the Bedford First Baptist Church, built in 1962), a photographer (he is a regular prize winner in local color slide exhibitions), and, as this portfolio indicated, a painter of some merit.

He has exhibited his pen and brush drawings regularly in Bedford, Wilmington, Wellesley, and Boston where they hove been consistent prize winners. His brush and ink drawings of Rockport-Outer Harbor was first prize winner, Graphics in three separate shows.

Mr. Bryan's drawings were, until recently, offered at "The Gallery" in Wellesley and at the "Pluribue Gallery" in Boston. Portfolios of his watercolors and drawings are presently on display in the "Doctoroff Collection" in Framingham and at the "Berman-Medalie Gallery" in Newton.

Newtonville Crash Victim Very Critical

An eight-year-old Newtonville boy remained in "very critical" condition at Newton Wellesley Hospital today with "massive" head injuries suffered Monday when his bicycle and a car collided on Linwood ave.

Paul Lambert, of 238 Nevada st., was taken to the hospital by police and a neighbor, Mrs. Ann Madden RN, who gave the boy mouth to mouth resuscitation. Patrolman Richard Murphy applied heart massage enroute to the hospital.

The driver of the car, identified by police as Kenneth Carr, of Bedford, said he had to pull out into the middle of the road to pass an illegally parked truck. As he did, the boy came around the truck from the other direction.

Only an hour earlier Monday, a 15-year-old boy received slight hip and leg injuries when his bicycle collided with a car opposite the City Hall parking lot.

The operator of the car, David Latta, of Brookline, told police that Edmund G. Dyett III, of 59 Prince st., West Newton, came out of the City Hall parking lot and struck the side of his car.

The boy was taken to Newton - Wellesley Hospital but was later treated by his own doctor.

Annual Meeting Of Health Assoc. Picks New Officers

The 21st Annual Meeting, of the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association, was held recently at the Pillar House, in Newton Lower Falls.

John N. Sullivan, president, and chairman of the Annual Meeting Arrangement Committee, was assisted by Miss Margaret Ball, Mrs. John Fox, Miss Phyllis Sears, Miss Mary G. Sheridan, and Mr. William E. Halliday, Jr., Miss Hilda G. Hope, executive director, served as hostess.

The slate of officers were presented by Miss Phyllis Sears, in the absence of Mr. Richard Lincoln, chairman of the nominating committee.

Officers were elected as follows: honorary president, Henry D. Chadwick; honorary vice-president Alton S. Pope, M.D., and honorary treasurer, Roland F. Gammons.

President, William E. Halliday, Jr., president-elect, Henry Van Unen; vice-president, Arthur A. Marr, Jr., treasurer, Paul L. Shakespeare; assistant treasurer, Francis C. Chase.

Clerk, Miss Mary G. Sheridan; past-president, John N. Sullivan.

Elected to the executive committee were the officers and Mayor Monte G. Basbas, Miss Helene Breivogel, Mr. Vyvan Mackay, Miss Phyllis Sears, Marjorie Ellicott, M.D. Elected to the board of directors with a one year term ending March 31, 1968, Mr. John L. Matthews, Dr. Richard Scherman, Dr. David Zacks, Mr. Charles Blackington, Mr. Eugene Foucher, Mr. E. W. Long, and Rev. Russell Gundlach.

Board Members re-elected for term ending 1970, William E. Halliday, Jr., Richard Lincoln, Dr. David Skinner, Mrs. Chester Wilson, Paul L. Shakespeare, Howard P. Strum, Henry Van Unen, Charles Fitzgerald, and Mrs. Arthur Wood.

Special thanks was offered to the annual meeting and nominating committee for their splendid cooperation.

John N. Sullivan was presented a double barred-cross pin by William E. Halliday, Jr., in recognition of his outstanding work as president.

Following the business meeting, William E. Halliday, introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Alice Broadhurst, supt., of the Middlesex County Sanatorium. In Dr. Broadhurst's message she pointed out that the problems that confronted Dr. Robert Koch, the discoverer of the cause of tuberculosis 85 years ago, are still very apparent, though much progress has been made, tuberculosis has not been eliminated.

Dr. Broadhurst stated that during the month of May, 42 patients were admitted to the Sanatorium, all from Middlesex County, except three patients who were from Boston. This is an extremely high percentage, and it shows that much work has to be done in reaching the public.

In conferring with other sanatorium directors, Dr. Broadhurst learned that they, too, are being faced with the same problem, an increase in bi-lateral tuberculosis.

Other board members and guests who were in attendance were Miss Adelaide Ball, Alderman; Miss Margaret Ball, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ellis Bowen, Mrs. Raymond Capobianco, Seal Campaign chairman, for the Federation of Club Women; Mrs. Casper Ferguson, state supervisor of tuberculosis nurses; Mrs. Frank Herman, Miss Eleanor Madden, Newton Health Department; Mrs. Victoria Parker, Dan Robison, executive director, Newton Community Chest and Council; Will Solimene, public relations program consultant, Massachusetts Tuberculosis and Health League; Mrs. Edith Stone, Mrs. Cecilia E. Downing, acting director, Newton Visiting Nurse Association, William Matthews, Mrs. Henry Van Unen, and Mrs. Marjorie Vancelette, Executive Director of the American Red Cross, Newton Chapter.

Rev. Chandler Dies Suddenly; Service Later

The Rev. Robert E. Chandler of 138 Hancock Street, Auburndale, died Sunday afternoon, June 18, at the Wellesley Manor Nursing Home in Wellesley.

A missionary under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions (now the United Church Board for World Ministries) from 1911 to 1950, Mr. Chandler spent 30 of these years in educational and church work in Tientain, North China, and surrounding villages.

He developed schools for Chinese Christian lay workers and sent them out to be local Christian leaders. For five years he held the important post of General Secretary of the North China Kung Li Hui (the Chinese Congregational Churches) and was a member of the National Christian Council of China for four years.

Two years were spent as an adviser to the Chinese churches and to new American missionaries in Fukien Province, South China. For seven and one-half years Mr. Chandler served as Acting Secretary for China and later as Candidate Secretary in the American Board's Boston office.

After leaving the Board in 1950, Mr. Chandler taught Latin and Greek at Thomas School in Rowayton, Connecticut until 1953. Retiring then to One Sunset Road, Wellesley, Massachusetts, he filled the years until 1960 tutoring at Dana Hall School in Wellesley and Walnut Hill School in Natick. Since 1960 the Chandlers have been living at Barton House in Auburndale.

Born in Batlagundu India, on November 17, 1881, of missionary parents, Robert Chandler graduated from Newton High School as salutatorian in 1900. Elected to Phi Beta Kappa in 1903, he graduated from Yale in 1904, and continued his education at Yale Divinity School after three years of teaching.

In June of 1910 he was granted both his Bachelor of Divinity and a Master of Arts (in Biblical literature). He later did graduate work at the Imperial University in Berlin, and at Union Theological Seminary and Teachers College, Columbia University, in New York City.

Robert Chandler and his relatives have given a total of more than 117 years of missionary service to the work of the American Board.

In 1910 Mr. Chandler married the former Helen Davis, the daughter of pioneer American Board missionaries who helped to found the first Christian University in Japan.

Mr. Chandler is survived by his wife, Helen Davis Chandler.

A memorial service will be held later in the summer at the First Congregational Church in Cambridge.

Raymond J. Langelier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Langelier of 58 Falmouth Rd., West Newton, was one of 508 persons who received their degrees from Bentley College this year.

45 New Teachers Appointed, Begin Duties In September

Appointments of 45 new teachers were approved by the School Committee at its last meeting as the personnel department attempted to complete its recommendations before the School Board's summer recess.

Eleven were named to teach in the city's elementary schools, while 34 will join the staffs of the secondary schools. All 45 will assume their duties in September.

The 11 who will teach in elementary schools are:

Miss S. Laurie Abrams who graduated this year from Lesley College. Miss Abrams will teach grade three at the Underwood School.

Phyllis A. Cotti will be assigned to the intermediate unit at the Horace Mann School. Miss Cotti received her Bachelor's degree in 1959 and her Master's degree in 1964, both from Salem State College. She has taught in schools in Hamilton, Beverly and Mannheim, Germany.

Partnership Teaching Is Being Tried In This Area

Partnership Teachers met recently at the Women's Educational and Industrial Union for their final evaluation session. Partnership teaching is a new concept in teacher recruitment in which two teachers, each working half a day assume a regular teaching assignment. Generally, they are women who, because of family responsibilities, prefer to work part-time.

Julia Gowing, Assistant Director of the Partnership Teaching Program, is pairing women for the urban program. She believes that "this new method of teacher recruitment will be widely applied to other urban areas in the future."

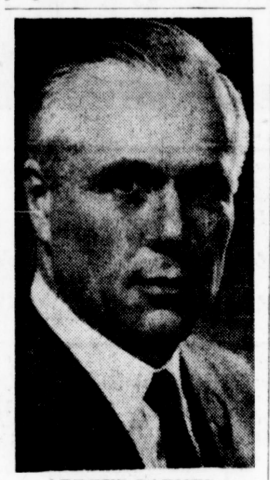

Nona Porter, former teacher and now Director of the Partnership Teaching Program, announced that the program had spread through Massachusetts and across the country.

Newton residents and schools participating in the program are as follows:

Plan To Select Names For Area Mental Health Board

The Selection Committee for the Newton, Wellesley, Weston Area, Region V, met on Monday, June 12. The committee has the responsibility of recommending to the Commissioner of Mental Health fifty names for the twenty-one member Area Board.

The following letter has been sent:

Because your organization was active in the 1966 meetings of the Newton, Wellesley, Weston Mental Health and Mental Retardation Planning Committee, we thought you would like to make suggestions for possible membership on the 21 member area board in the Newton, Wellesley, Weston area.

Three names should be submitted by June 23. A brief resume of each nominee would be helpful. This should include: name, address, phone number, age, position or profession, relevant affiliations and experience, and any other information that seems pertinent.

The reason for the shortness of time is that the Selection Committee, according to the Community Mental Health Act of 1966, must make its recommendations by July 6.

Selection Committee: Mrs. Leonard S. Sheingold, chairman, Mrs. Irene K. Thresher, Robert Bragg, M.D., Robert Arnot, M.D., Mrs. Margaret Floyd, David R. Porter, Mrs. John F. Reichard.

Reply to: Mrs. Leonard S. Sheingold, 156 Highland avenue, Newtonville, Mass. 02160.

Sophomores Important To South's Sports Scene

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Sophomores played a big part in Newton South sports this year, as many earned starting berths on varsity squads and many more on the JVs.

The varsity football team found themselves in need of the services of many sophs this season in compiling a 5-3 record. Guard Ed Geraci, End Lou Shuman, End Ted Todis, and backs Dan Mendelson, Gary Lenox, Nick Parnell and Tommy Rezzuti played important roles in the winning season. Rezzuti especially was essential to the success of the team as he excelled both offensively and defensively.

There were no sophomores on the varsity cross-country team, but the JVs featured almost exclusively a sophomore line-up. Fred Kaye is the one most likely to move into varsity competition next Fall.

Three sophomores were found on the varsity soccer team: Frank Hurvitz, Danny Krasa and David Newhaus. Hurvitz was a starter. The JV soccer team was composed mainly of sophos and many started. Included were both goalies, Steve Finer and Ricky Black.

No sophomores made the varsity basketball squad, but five made the junior varsity: Cliff Greene, Stu Silverman, Lew Freedman, Irving Houston and Kenny Stuart, and two of those, Greene and Silverman, saw some varsity action. Both will undoubtedly move up next season, and Greene may start. His 228 JV and 16 varsity points made a strong impression on Coach Warren Bechtold.

Tommy Rezzuti was the only soph who managed to win a spot on the best (7-5-2) hockey team in South's history. He started, and was one of the team's top scorers.

Few sophs were varsity wrestlers this season, as this team also recorded its finest mark in school history (10-2). However, Dan Mendelson, Frank Vespa and Neil Appelbaum still grappled their way into this exclusive group.

The indoor and outdoor track teams this season had a large group of talented sophomores. Nick Parnell excelled in both seasons and earned two varsity letters. Robin Hirsch and Howie Cohen each earned one, while a host of others received one or two JV letters.

The varsity baseball roster featured three sophomore starters, a starting pitcher, and a catcher. The starters were centerfielder Dan Mendelson, shortstop Tommy Rezzuti and pitcher- second baseman Frank Hurvitz. Jimmy Gamble was the pitcher and Kenny Stuart the catcher. Harvitz led the team in batting with a .344 average, while Rezzuti was fourth with .263.

Nearly half of the JV baseball team consisted of sophomores. Slick fielding infielders John Lopez and Leo Costa, and power-hitter Bob Eisenberg are the best bets to move up next season.

The racqueteers won the state championship this year and were helped considerably by three sophomores alternating on the second doubles team. Paul Cohen and Alan and Billy Starr all posted winning records.

To those boys who excelled in their sophomore year, here's hoping you'll have continued success for the next two years in leading Newton South sport teams to victory. Good luck!

Aldermen repeatedly called the meeting to order as Newton Corner residents applauded critics of the Redevelopment Authority.

The only concession made by Bauckman to disorder applause in which most of the Aldermen joined, when Mrs. Mary P. Cunningham, president of the Charles River Civic Association, which has opposed the Redevelopment Authority, rose to thank Alderman Shea, who was married last weekend, for interrupting his honeymoon to attend the meeting.

Many of the questions raised by Aldermen and by Newton Corner residents centered around the fact that the Redevelopment Authority has made specific estimates as to the number of homes with deficiencies, the number of buildings to be torn down and the number of families to be displaced, but refused to identify them.

The Redevelopment Authority's application for funds specifies that 462 families live in the area under study and estimates that 71 would be displaced. It goes on to break down the 71 into 65 white and six non-white.

Redevelopment Authority consultants explained that federal regulations prevent the identification of specific houses to be taken before the definitive study is made and said they had made their initial census simply on the basis of the exterior of the houses. They also said that some houses may be taken for new roads to alleviate Newton Corner's traffic congestion but refused to specify which homes.

One woman declared she had a fire in her home a short time ago that caused $4000 worth of damage and that she was uncertain whether she should do any more than temporary repairs to the dwelling in the face of urban renewal.

A Channing St. resident also demanded that the substandard units be identified.

He declared that he would be relunctant to make repairs on his home during the period of several years while the federal government considers the Newton application, is filed to carryout the study's findings. He also maintained that the market value of the homes would suffer during this time when the area is "under a cloud."

An Emerson St. man said the Redevelopment Authority's plan spoke of taking six houses on his street and that he would not rest until he knew whether his home was one of them.

A Washington St. businessman said the Turnpike air rights development might increase the value of the land in the area so that a re-zoning of some of the land as commercial would achieve a gradual upgrading without redevelopment.

Alderman Ernest F. Dietz of Ward 6, concurred, saying he would hate to think that everyone would do nothing to his property pending the final decision on redevelopment.

Alderman Paul J. Burke declared that no one had given specific answers to residents who want to know whether they should make repairs on their homes.

Alderman Jack M. Roberts suggested that the Redevelopment Authority should help home-owners make an educated guess as to whether their dwellings will be affected.

Redevelopment Authority Chairman Mario DiCarlo agreed that "a cloud is over the heads" of Newton Corner residents but maintained that the doubt was created by the report of the 1962 Community Renewal Program.

In a prepared statement DiCarlo said, "The Newton Corner area has long been considered the area with the greatest complex of problems — the turnpike split the community in half, the trolley cars block traffic, and the number of homes and businesses with code violations is higher than most of the rest of the city.

"No simple solution seems possible. What seems to be required is a solution which takes into account all the problems of the area and is based on a close analysis of the area. This is what survey and planning funding will provide," he said.

"It is doubtful that this application for survey and planning would be funded much before the middle of 1968. After funding, there is an 18-month planning process. Then there are the requirements of the public hearing and approval of the Board which could take anywhere from one month to six months or more," DiCarlo explained.

"With the backlog that is now awaiting approval in Washington for loan and grant funds, the wait may be one, two, or even three years, which brings us into 1974. The execution of a project can run as long as five years to completion," the Redevelopment Authority remarked.

In debate on the measure after the hearing Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner urged prompt approvals of the application by the Aldermen, since the deadline set by the federal government for applications on which action can be taken in fiscal 1967 is June 30. "Even if one is critical of the Urban Renewal Authority's sense of communication," Flaschner maintained, "all we are going to do by delaying is increase the cloud."

Alderman Harry L. Walen, also of Ward 5, countered: "It occurs to me that it is possible to dissipate the cloud entirely by defeating the proposal. I am getting a little tired of matters being submitted to us under the threat of a deadline."

Walen said that the Redevelopment Authority application was the third measure presented to the Aldermen this year with an urgent character due to the possibility of loosing federal money. He called this poor planning on the part of the submitting boards and of the federal government. "It is not good business and I'm going to vote against the application very largely because of that," Walen remarked.

"You may recall that I reacted against the use of the emotive term 'slum,' " Walen continued. "I cannot agree that we have slums here. I have been in slums."

Walen commented that the Chairman of the Redevelopment Authority has said he used certain terms to qualify for federal aid. "If the terms used are not accurate," Walen declared, "they shouldn't be used."

Walen recalled how property around the Prudential Center in Boston has improved and said he had been impressed with Newton Corner residents who wanted to keep their property near the air rights development.

"They would rather, in a spirit of free private enterprise, hold onto their property and take their chances," Walen said. "I am beginning to loose a little faith in Urban Renewal."

Alderman Shea charter objected to the application, "because this proposal, although dated May 17, was not submitted to this Board of Aldermen until June 5, resulting in insufficient time for considered deliberation; and because this application contains, in my opinion, inadequate and insufficient relocation assistance proposals."

Action was also postponed on a measure to broaden the Newton Housing Authority's powers.

Aldermen William P. Matthews and Alderman Shea attempted to send the measure back to the Claims and Rules Committee in order to obtain immediate action on it, maintaining that the need for public housing in Newton is clear. "I'm told that our Housing Authority is the only one in the State limited to housing for the elderly," Matthews stated.

Claims and Rules Committee Chairman Flaschner and Alderman Adelaide B. Ball indicated that they also felt a need for public housing but that they were concerned about the best way of doing it.

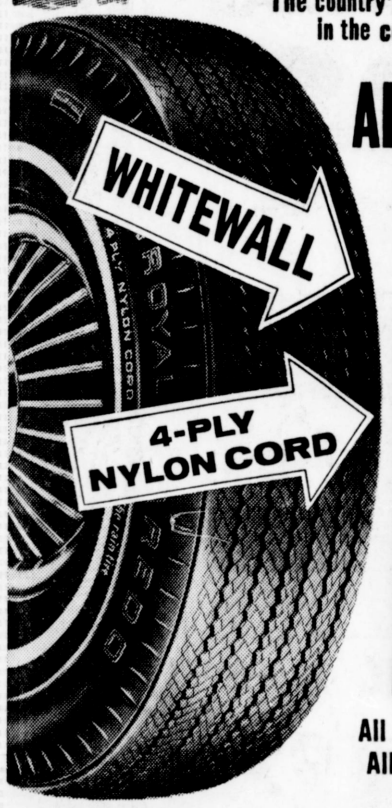

The measure was sent on to an Ad Hoc Committee on Low Cost Housing despite the votes of Aldermen Matthews, Shea and Joseph M. McDonnell to return the measure to the Claims and Rules Committee.

More than 400 boys are enrolled in the "Four Star" camping program, and more are expected to enroll over the next two months. Boys aged 8-15 are eligible for the programs.

Camp Frank A. Day, the residence camp, will open for its 52nd season on June 28. The camp, located on the shores of Lake Quacumquasett, in Brookfield, enrolled 185 plus eight older youths in the Counselor in Training program.

Camp Day will operate for two four week periods. Mr. Edward I. Poskitt is the Camp Director, who has had many years of camp experience. The camp also has a full time registered nurse on duty in the camp infirmary.

The two day camps — Camp Massasoit and Chickami will open their new season on Monday, June 26 as will the Trail Camp which features rugged outdoormanship.

Camp Massasoit was first opened in 1944 and is now in it's 23rd season under the directorship of Joseph A. White, Newton YMCA Physical Director.

Activities are conducted at the Newton YMCA 6 acre tract at 276 Church street and makes use of the Atlantic Field, tennis courts, gymnasium and swimming pool. Special features of Camp Massasoit are trampoline classes, overnight camp-outs, and several bus trips to points of interest.

Camp Chickami, located in Wayland will operate for its 22nd consecutive season and its third of the 25 acre out of town site. Campers are separated into small groups, each with a competent leader-counselor in charge.

Chickami campers engage in various activities ranging from baseball, softball, swimming, archery, arts and crafts, volleyball, nature study and trail-blazing. Mr. Arthur Perkins newly appointed Youth Director will direct the program.

The Trail Camp which is under the supervision of Mr. Alan Peters, Associate Youth Director, has several openings for its unique program. The boys are trained in the use of axes, outdoor cooking, survival in the wilderness and many other aspects of woodsmanship. The boys are trained for one week at Camp Chickami in Wayland, the second week travel with their director Mr. Peters to the upper New England States to put to practice what they've learned.

Camp Massasoit, Chickami and Day all have several openings available. Interested persons should contact the Newton YMCA or call 244-6050.

2 Tie Games In BR League

Frank Hurvitz and Jethro Mills hooked up in what could have been the best pitching duel in Newton Babe Ruth League history, last Thursday. After eight innings of brilliant pitching, the game between the Waban Chiefs and the Boys Club team ended in a scoreless tie.

Hurvitz of the Chiefs struck out 17 while allowing only one hit—off the bat of pitcher Mills. Mills was nearly his equal as he struck out 12 and allowed three hits, the first in the sixth inning by Jonathan Newhaus.

On June 13, the Chiefs and the Highlanders battled to a 2-2 tie in eight innings. The game was called because of darkness. Richie Watts was the pitcher for the Chiefs and Carl Johnason for the Highlanders. Weak fielding by the Chiefs handed the Highlanders their runs. Thurston Tartar provided the Chiefs offense with two hits. This tie, coupled with the tie earned two days lated on Frank Hurvitz's brilliantly pitched ballgame, allowed the Chiefs to remain in first place with a 2-0-2 record.

Newton Junior College's Excellence Drive Spurts

Spring, with all its sense of accomplishment and fulfillment, came a little early to Newton Junior College this year. The reason? Notification by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools that Newton Junior College had been elected to a full ten year term of membership in NEACSS.

This election meant that Newton Junior College is the first public junior colege in Massachusetts to be fully accredited by NEACSS — the goal toward which every college in the country strives constantly. And, for Newton Junior Colege, it meant also that its drive for excellence was continuing full speed ahead.

Established in 1946 by the City of Newton, Newton Junior College enrolled its first class, mostly veterans of World War II, of 165 students. Today, the College enrolls a total of 773, including students in the Evening and Adult Education program.

The College serves as a full-time cultural and civic center for Newton and its surrounding communities. "Newton Junior College subscribes to the concept of the community junior college as a comprehensive, multi purpose institution serving the needs of both college-capable youths and adult citizens of the community", says President Charles W. Dudley.

Newton Junior College is one of only two municipally operated junior colleges in Massachusetts. It was the first public junior college in the Bay State to be accredited by NEACSS, being elected to a three-year membership in 1963, prior to receiving full accreditation this year.

The role of pacesetter in education is not a new one for Newton Junior College. Earlier evidence of the College's leadership role came in 1959, when it established the first Associate Degree program in Nursing in a public junior college in New England.

The College is living, growing proof that students and teachers make a college, and not buildings. The College presently makes use of four buildings for classrooms and ofices — a former church, a turn-of-the-century private house, a reactivated elementary school building, and a former civil defense headquarters. Not pretty to look at, perhaps, but the growing number of students at Newton Junior College who transfer to and graduate from 4-year colleges and universities don't seem to have been disadvantaged by elderly halls and classroom buildings.

The students at Newton Junior College also bear out fully President Dudley's assertion that the average Newton Junior College student is "a late bloomer with limited financial means who could have been accepted by a 4-year college". At least two Newton Junior College students have gone on to belong to Phi Beta Kappa.

Students at Newton Junior College have transferred to over 90 other institutions, including such top-flight ones as Harvard, Bowdoin, Columbia, Radcliffe, and Oberlin. Nor is distance a determining factor. Last year, the Newton Junior College Registrar's office set some sort of distance record for the College when it mailed a student's transcript of grades to the University of Hawaii, where he was accepted.

Newton Junior College is in session nearly eleven months each year, with a six-week program in the summer which is tailored to aid students both at Newton Junior College and from other colleges to accelerate their programs. The College also offers late afternoon and evening courses during the regular school year, which are attended primarily by adults and part time students.

The faculty, liberally sprinkled with PhD.'s numbers 35 full time members, with another 24 teaching part-time both in the day and the evening division. Additionally, the College maintains a staff of highly trained counsellors for all students.

In addition to the nursing program, Newton Junior College offers associate degree programs in Data Processing, Electronics, Business and Liberal Arts, and will, this fall, inaugurate a similar program in Secretarial Science.

But the College's commitment to the community does not stop with formal education in the classroom. The College also offers an annual Art and Music Series, which brings lectures, plays and recitals to the citizens of Newton and adjoining towns, all without charge. Also available to interested citizens are a series of morning lecturers, known as The College Community, which bring to the students people knowledgeable in a diversity of fields, — from propaganda and censorship to modern architecture, — from foreign affairs to the "new morality". These morning lectures, too, are free of charge to the public.

Newton Junior College is an integral part of the Newton Public School system, under the control of the Newton School Committee.

In one respect, the College's name is something of a misnomer. As President Dudley puts it, Newton Junior College is not "junior" to anything. It is an integral part of the educational system of an egalitarian society which demands that educational opportunities be extended to all who can profit from them. As a result, Newton Junior College, under the authority of the Newton School Committee, has a Board of Directors which acts to provide advisory, consultative, and policy-recommending services to the Junior College. Newton Junior College operates with one of the most favorable student teacher ratios of any college in the country. Presently, there are fewer than 15 students for every teacher, which makes an educational reality out of the usual catalog promise of "small classes".

There have been many banner days in the history of Newton Junior College, but election to the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for a ten-year term simply has to be the standout event of its 21-year history. For accreditation is a public statement that a college has been examined for its fitness to join the company of its peers.

Newton Junior College has not been found wanting.

TAKES OATH OF OFFICE—William F. Young, Newton native, takes the oath of office that elevates him to warrant officer status in the Coast Guard. Oath is being administered by Rear Admiral C. R. Bander, Superintendent of Coast Guard Academy.

General's Son Promoted To Coast Guard Officer

William Forbes Young, son of Brigadier General William M. Young (USAF retired) and the late Mrs. Young, has been promoted to Warrant Officer in the Coast Guad.

Young, until recently a Chief Boatswain's Mate makes the important step from enlisted to officer status with his commission.

Young grew up in Newton, and graduated from Newton High School in 1953. His father, General Young, still lives in Newton at 9 Russel road.

Young's seagoing days began even before he entered the Coast Guard in 1953—as a crewman aboard the Bermuda Yacht Race schooners, and as a merchant fisherman out of Boston. Young's early Coast Guard service—primarily in search and rescue work—took him to Massachusetts' most colorful ports: Gloucester, Provincetown and Nantucket.

His most recent tour was aboard the Eagle, the Coast Guard's cadet training ship. In January 1967, he was transferred to the Academy at New London, Conn.

Young lives with his wife, the former Phyllis May Palmer, at 33 1st avenue, Waterford, Conn. They have two children, William 3 and Katherine, 18 months. The Youngs belong to St. John's Episcopal Church in Niantic.

Local Hiring Expert Cites Value Of Older Workers

President Lyndon Johnson had proclaimed the month of May as Senior Citizens' Month, Governor John A. Volpe had issued a similar proclamation for the observance in Massachusetts, as have most other governors. The theme of the observance is "Meeting the Challenge of Later Years."

One person who was particularly interested in this month-long promotion is Miss Eleanor Coleman, head of the Placement Section of the Division of Employment Security, 290 Centre St., Newton. Asked why the observance was held, Miss Coleman said the purpose was to pay tribute to the special contribution older people make to our society and to our economy every day.

"As a Nation we must not overlook the special qualities of workers past 40," said Miss Coleman. "Real achievements are being made every day by relatively older people. Senior Citizens Month is an opportunity to draw attention to the fact that the qualities of imagination, persistence, and courage and willingness to take on new ideas and new methods are within the minds of men and women of all ages."

Miss Coleman went on to say that unfortunately too many employers seem to think that older workers cannot produce as much as younger ones, and that it is costly to hire anyone in the middle or later years in life. This point of view has created a real employment problem for the so-called "older workers."

The problem has become so acute, says Miss Coleman, that many local offices in the nationwide network of public employment offices have specialists in counseling, job development, and placement of older workers. The fact that there is a need for such specialists is in itself a paradox in today's expanding economy and rapidly growing job market.

One of the most common complaints of employers is that they are unable to fill their growing job needs with skilled and experienced workers. And yet, many of these same employers have artificial age barriers which prevent the hiring of workers over 40 or 45, and which force long-time experienced workers to retire as early as 55, regardless of health or ability to contribute.

"The effect is," says Miss Coleman, "that we are putting millions of potential producers on the shelf. We are treating birthdays as if they were a disease, and too often we treat disease as if it were a matter of birthdays.

"We put great stock in experience, but once a man or woman over 40 is unemployed, all his years of experience and all his skill that yesterday identified him as a key man in his firm are foolishly devaluated."

Studies conducted by the Department of Labor have shown that older workers are productive, efficient, reliable, require little supervision, and have generally excellent work attendance recorde. More and more employers are finding that their arbitrary hiring policies as to age are short-sighted and costly.

One of the goals of Senior Citizens Month is to convince more employers to consider qualified workers over 40 for job openings. Maturity, judgment, ability, and skills are among the valuable assets a forty-plus employee can bring to a job. The right man for the right job is a goal which most employers establish as their hiring policy. To meet this goal Miss Coleman suggested a criteria to bear in mind: that it's ability, not age, that counts.

July Hearing Set By MBTA On Train Cuts

The MBTA last week scheduled a hearing in July on the request of the New York Central Railroad to drop commuter service west of Boston.

The hearing was set up after MBTA representatives appeared last Thursday at the Department of Public Utilities where a hearing was being held on the petition of the railroad. The MBTA officials charged the DPU did not have any jurisdiction over the railroad.

A spokesman for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen acknowledge there was some question over jurisdiction and said he would attempt to stop the MBTA from "the kind of action they are taking." He said that the Legislature when it created the MBTA, made it clear that in times of conflict the DPU would assume jurisdiction. He did not reveal how he would halt the MBTA's action.

Newton City Solicitor Matt Jones was present at the hearing last Thursday and questioned railroad representatives concerning profit and loss figures of the road.

He said Newton will be represented at the scheduled MBTA hearing, or at any hearing proposed after the jurisdictional dispute is resolved.

The railroad said that the trains incurred a $272,000 loss last year and lost a third of its passengers in the last three years.

Officials from the cities and towns affected by the proposed discontinuance, however, feel that the situation will get better when the suburban communities expand and highway transportation becomes clogged. They are of the opinion that once railroad commuter service is halted, it will be almost impossible to re-start.

The CRWA directors voted to co-operate financially on the float after the LWV Charles River Group, at its annual meeting in Auburndale, called for help on the project. Everyone who can spare some time to help is invited to the Frary's to join the fun.

Teenagers Take Up Duties As Volunteers In Hospitals

Eighty teen-agers from Newton, Brookline and Boston will enroll in the summer-time teen-age volunteer program to get underway at Brookline Hospital with a Volunteer Be-in tomorrow, Friday, June 23, at 4 p.m.

"We are launching our summer volunteer program at this time,' said Mrs. Manus Schoenfeld, Director of Volunteers, "and we cordially invite all former teen-age volunteers and any others who may be interested."

Speakers at the program will include hospital administrator Sylvia H. Maness and Director of Nursing Mrs. Anne O'Hanley. A sound-color motion picture, "The Story of Brookline Hospital," will be shown.

The purpose of the volunteer be-in, according to Mrs. Schoenfeld, is to provide the summer volunteers with a thorough orientation preparatory to assigning them volunteer jobs throughout the hospital.

"Hospitals," she said, "face desperate help shortages, and these volunteers can be of great assistance in relieving our professional help in those areas which do not require any special training or skill.

Newtonite's Idea Works

SOS Project Sends Gifts To Bay State Servicemen

A Waltham pharmacist and Newton resident, Samuel M. Shriberg, has originated a program known as "SOS" or "Support Our Servicemen" and the idea is catching on outside the Watch City.

More than a gesture of appreciation for the fighting forces of Uncle Sam, the SOS project packs a concrete punch and is replete with assorted services each one carrying substantial meaning to a boy away from home, especially those on the fighting fronts in Vietnam.

The project, outlined by Mr. Shriberg and now being carried out in Waltham, offers a comprehensive program to benefit all servicemen.

SOS follows the boys all the way through their service in the armed forces, starting with useful gifts on the day of departure, as is also performed by a special committee in Newton.

SOS sends letters, some food items, paper-back books, Mass. State Flags, and other requested material within reason, according to Mr. Shriberg.

Governor Volpe and State House officials co-operated with SOS by sending letters explaining the meaning of the State Flag which is sent to Bay State soldiers in Vietnam on request.

Mr. Shriberg points out that SOS sends a monthly newsletter to the servicemen which provides them with news from home.

MARS, the U. S. Military Air Force radio station works closely with SOS.

Radio messages are sent from parents, wives and other relatives to overseas military personnel and also from Vietnam to the folks back home. In some cases, phone calls direct to the bedside of wounded soldiers have been arranged.

SOS also encourages pen pals and the general writing of letters to service personnel wherever stationed.

In the case of war casualties, flags are flown at half mast, parents of deceased servicemen are visited, flowers are sent to the families of the deceased, and public squares named in their honor.

Working closely with SOS are the Salvation Army, the Mass. Bible Society, MARS, the USO and other groups.

Chairman Shriberg states that his committee comprises representatives of veteran organizations, service clubs, fraternal organizations, members of families, and interested officials and citizens of the community.

Mr. Shriberg is a resident of Newton. His SOS program recently opened headquarters in Waltham. He told The Graphic that he is hoping that the idea of Support Our Servicemen might catch on in this community.

Newton Rabbi Installed As President Of Mass. Rabbis

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, spiritual leader of Temple Shalom of Newton, recently was installed as President of the Massachusetts Board of Rabbis.

Due to the Middle East crisis, the scheduled program was set aside and a special presentation was made to the assembled Rabbis by Professor Leonard Fein of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He spoke of the special role that rabbis and clergy of all faiths can play in the necessary effort to attain a peace, rather than an armistice.

A peace which recognizes Israel's right to be numbered among the legitimately established and internationally recognized states of that region, with guarantees of its territorial integrity and freedom to function without threat or harrassment on land and on sea.

The presentation and discussion which followed emphasized the moral obligation which the United States has toward the implementation of this just resolution and the responsibility which is individually ours to support the building of a stable society in that part of the world.

A representative group from the Mass. Board of Rabbis joined Rabbi Rothman at the recent Washington rally which sought to express their concern for the establishment of a just and lasting peace for Israel and all mankind.

A move designed at revising Newton's City Charter appears to have bogged down.

This apparently has resulted from a difference of opinion between the Republican and Democratic City Committees over the makeup of a proposed nine-member Charter Commission.

Political observers now consider it unlikely that sufficient signatures of registered voters will be obtained before next month's deadline to place the question of creating a Charter Commission on the November election ballot.

The Newton League of Women Voters launched a drive last month to obtain the valid signatures of about 10,000 registered Newton voters.

Slogan of the League's campaign when it was started was: "10,000 signatures in 10 weeks."

Detailed instruction sheets were issued at that time to League members explaining the need for obtaining about 7500 signatures to place before Newton voters in the fall election the issue of whether a Charter Commission should be created.

Since then the drive for signatures appears to have been either quietly dropped or postponed to the point where it is now unlikely that the necessary signatures could be secured in the time remaining.

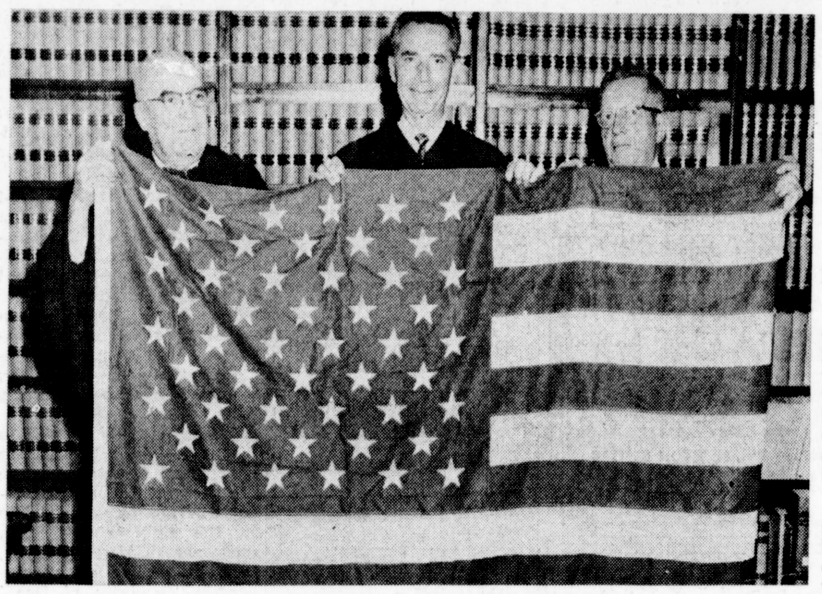

League officials have made no explanation for this action.

However, the Graphic learned that a dispute has developed between the Democratic and Republican City Commission over the selection of the nine members of the proposed Charter Commission members.

The Democratic City Committee assented to the makeup of the Charter Commission.

The Republican City Committee did not.

LBJ, HUSSEIN FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT

PRESIDENT JOHNSON conferred with King Hussein of Jordan at the White House for two hours and warned Israel against any "hasty, unilateral action" in determining the permanent status of Jerusalem.

Reports that Israel had annexed the old city of Jerusalem preceded the President's meeting with Hussein, who flew down from the United Nations in New York. Afterwards, the White House said there were no agreements and "there was not an identity of views." But "the exchange proved to be of definite value, said presidential press secretary George Christian.

Three-fourths of the May increase resulted from higher prices for clothes, used cars, medical care and home ownership. One of the largest increases of the consumer price index from April to May was medical costs. Medical care services were up six tenths of 1 per cent, hospital costs increased 1.3 per cent and doctors and dentists fees were up three tenths of 1 per cent.

YOUNG GOP HIT FOR FAVORING REAGAN

THE RIPON SOCIETY has urged the Republican National Committee to cut off funds to its Young Republican group. The liberal Republican organization said in Washington the young GOP was serving as an advance guard for the presidential candidacy of California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Noting the recent young GOP convention in Omaha, Neb., favored the Conservative Reagan for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, the society called the convention a "disgrace" which embarrassed the party.

BOTH HOUSES TRIM NASA MONEY REQUESTS

THE HOUSE AND SENATE passed different bills yesterday authorizing close to $5 billion to shoot full speed for the moon, but slowing down the space program in the early 1970's. Though both Houses voted to cut the request of the National Areonautics and Space Administration for a $5.1 billion space program for the year starting July, they made only minor adjustments in the $2.5 billion for the Apollo program to land men on the moon by 1970.

Differences must be reconciled between the House version, which lopped a total of $309 million from NASA's request, and the Senate version which took out $249 million.

MARINES, BOMBERS ROUT COMMUNIST BUILDUP

AMERICAN MARINES and giant bombers beat back a new Communist demilitarized zone buildup in bitter fighting near the jungle-covered mountain scene of one of the war's costliest Leatherneck battles, a military spokesman said yesterday.

Two sharp fights erupted near Hill 881, the strategic mountain just below the buffer zone where seven weeks ago Marines lost a record 138 men killed and 397 wounded in fighting that killed more than 900 Communist troops. Air Force B57 stratofortresses droning high overhead rained tons of high explosives down on Communist positions and infiltration trails in the area.

O.K. Federal Grants For School Projects

Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Brown was given permission by the School Committee Monday night to seek two federal grants under title III of the 1965 Secondary and Elementary Education act: one to work out a program to aid potential high school drop outs, the other to set up a regional research sharing organiation.

It is expected that the first program will cost about $46,000 while the second will involve expenditure of some $480,000 next year.

The high school project would be run as a pilot program in Newton next year, but would eventually involve Brookline, Somerville and Watertown also. The second program would tie together Arlington, Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Concord, Lexington, Newton, and the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

Dr. Brown told the School Board that the high school project is aimed at implementing on the high school level some of the findings made by the Judge Baker Center at the junior high level.

Brown explained that the actual drop-out rate at Newton high schools is only about 1 per cent, but that some boys become "emotional drop-outs". Although they do not leave school in a physical sense and even manage to get their diplomas, they do not benefit by their schooling, he said.

The pilot program, Brown declared, in answer to a

Capitol Flag Now Flies Atop Court

"Old Glory", spanking new, bright and beautiful, is flying over the Newton District Court as the grand, old flag always has.

Congresswoman Heckler presented the flag to Judge Julian L. Yesley, chief justice of the Newton District Court, through Clerk of Court Arthur S. Scipione.

In accepting the flag, Judge Yesley stated:

"We take a moment from the regular business of the Court to note the receipt from Margaret Heckler, Representative in Congress of the 10th District, of a flag of the United States which has flown over the Capitol Building in Washington and will henceforth fly from the masthead of the District Court of Newton.

Express Bus Service To Boston Proposed

Express bus service from Newton Corner to downtown Boston over the Massachusetts Toll Road will be inaugurated next Sept. 9 for a six-months trial period, it was announced this week by the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

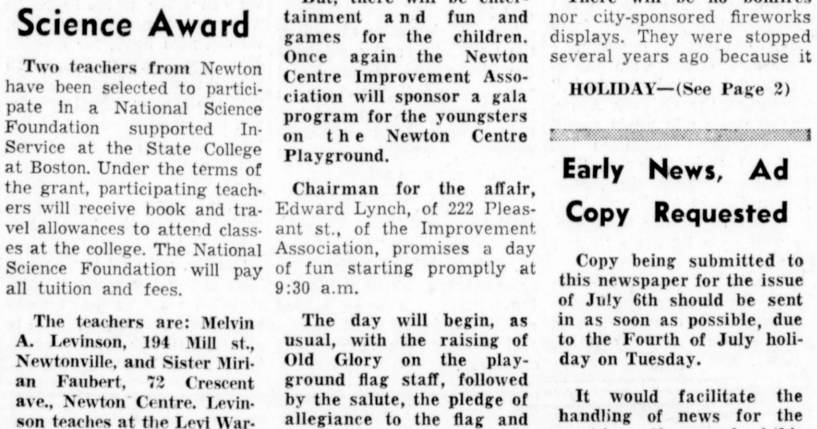

As envisioned now, the buses would operate every 15 minutes from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. with an approximate running time of 15-20 minutes from Newton Corner to Chauncey street, in the heart of the downtown shopping area.

The price for a one-way trip has not yet been decided but it was pointed out that the trip to town now via the MBTA costs 30 cents, so it is expected that the fare will be higher by at least 10 cents. The speed and ease of transportation directly to the heart of town will more than off-set the expected fare increase, MBTA officials said.

The new high-speed bus run is one of two proposals scheduled to be presented and probably accepted by the MBTA board of directors at its meeting this week. The other proposal recommends substitution of buses for street cars on the Watertown line.

On the Watertown line buses would operate from Watertown to Kenmore Square where connections may be made to downtown Boston via Kenmore station. Primarily this proposal would provide the Brighton-Newton - Watertown areas

Volpe May Be "Favorite Son" Of Four New England States

Governor Volpe may go to next year's Republican national convention as New England's "favorite son" candidate for the Presidency.

If that happens, Volpe would loom as an extremely powerful figure in the national political picture in the event of the now expected early deadlock at the GOP conclave.

Persons close to Volpe hint that he may enter New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation Presidential Primary next spring.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson publicly suggested that Volpe do so at the recent big Republican fund-raising dinner.

New Hampshire's bloc of votes at the Republican national convention is relatively small, but

So, Garden City will be quiet next Tuesday—and that won't be too hard to take.

Carolyn Bloom Star Of New Season At Orleans Theatre

From opera diva to singing waitress seems all in a summer's work for Carolyn Bloom, of Newton, star of the Orleans Arena Theatre's opening production of "Little Mary Sunshine," which, incidentally, opened the Cape's theatrical season June 26th.

Miss Bloom, a willowy, brown-haired mezzo lyric soprano, took her first step into the world of professional theatre with the Arundel Opera Theatre in Kennebunkport, Me.

Since that time, she has played a variety of roles in summer stock from straight dramatic productions to musical comedy. Last summer in Maine she made her debut as a singing waitress.

In addition to the wealth of experience Miss Bloom brings to the Orleans company, she points with justifiable pride to her musical family background. Her mother is a former opera singer; her father, a saxophonist. Carolyn herself comments that "it seems as though I have been singing all my life."

At the age of ten Miss Bloom joined the Boston Children's Theatre, where she participated in their productions for six years. While at the Children's Theatre, she went to North Conway, N.H. to become an apprentice in "Majority of One," "Solid Gold Cadillac," and "Can-Can". Her professional breakthrough into musical comedy came at the Weston Playhouse in Weston, Vermont, where she first played the part of Little Mary at the age of 15. Miss Bloom's voice lessons began that same year, putting her well on her way to an exciting and rewarding singing-acting career.

Rounding out her experience, through financial necessity, the young singer spent two summers teaching music and drama in summer camps. Then, there was the summer Carolyn was 18. She became a singing waitress at a Maine resort where she participated in evening performances of musical comedy and opera.

Although only in her late teens, Miss Bloom has played a spectrum of characters, bringing her own imagination and enthusiasm to fill out and enrich their personalities. For the past two winters Miss Bloom has been working with the Oberlin College Dramatic Association, playing leading roles in "Summer and Smoke," "Marate Sade", and "Guys and Dolls."

She has played the light, the happy, the comic, and the sad, singing her way across many a stage. Carolyn's attitude toward her career is both practical and imaginative, "I would like someday to do serious opera, but I think that my natural forte lies in musical comedy. I have a lot of drive and initiative and I think I can do it."

Now at the Orleans Arena Theatre she will again recall her earlier triumph in the part of "Little Mary Sunshine" except this time, Miss Bloom brings to the part an even greater desire to please, as well as a lot more "Know How".

Completing the cycle as the ingenious ingenue, she leaves the door wide open for a new and even more exciting career.

Sad Holiday Weekend For This Family

On a quiet evening, just after a cold shower blast, on June 25, Allen Schofield of 77 Central St., Newton, took a look outside of his apartment window before retiring to bed.

There in the street was his car . . . on fire. Four boys were running away.

It was a sad incident, not only because the Schofields lost the use of the only car they had, but also because they were going to start their summer vacation.

Now, Allen and Jean, along with their six children will be confined to their own community for another year.

The car was not new, in fact it was given all the care that Allen could bestow on it because cars are expensive, and there were many mouths to feed in the family.

It will take some time before their insurance company can settle out the claim. Meanwhile, the Schofields are without the use of any car.

The youths who did this showed a complete lack of regard for their fellow-man. If they had wanted to rob the car, they could have done so; the doors were open. In addition, it was reported, that this same group also broke two radio antennae from other neighbors' cars.

Any information leading to the identification of these irresponsible citizens should be given to the police.

Newtonite Is Named To Board Of Ministries

Robert G. Tobey, 22 Winthrop street, West Newton, was elected a corporate member of the Board for Homeland Ministries of the United Church of Christ, meeting in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The election to a six-year term took place at the meeting of the denomination's General Synod, the representative body of the 2,000,000 member United Church of Christ. The Synod is meeting in Cincinnati June 22-29.

The United Church, a union of the Congregational Christian and the Evangelical and Reformed Churches, is celebrating its tenth anniversary this year.

The 743 delegates attending the General Synod session at the Netherland Hilton Hotel are dealing with proposals on peace, poverty and racial justice. Some 1,200 associate delegates, alternatives and visitors are also attending.

Bill Is Tabled

On a motion of Sen. Beryl W. Cohen, whose district includes three Newton Wards, the Senate this week tabled a bill providing for the special adjudication of youthful offenders.

Frazier Seeks Re-election To School Board

Francis P. Frazier of 127 Pearl st., Newton, this week announced his candidacy for reelection to the Newton School Committee from Ward 1. He has been a member of the School Board for the past years.

Frazier declared in announcing his candidacy, that the most talked-about problem in Newton civic affairs is the ever rising cost of education, together with that of other services provided by the City of Newton.

"Some citizens," he said, "especially the older and often life-time residents of Newton, are trapped in the ever tightening squeeze of the inflation spiral, and are crying to the high heavens for relief. For this group, the only realistic assistance can come from the rigid control of the city school budget.

"And yet," Frazier pointed out, "some other citizens are asking for more and more service from the city and the schools.

"Some parents are requesting the renovation or replacement of older and often overcrowded school buildings. The teacher organization is asking for smaller classes, a readjusted salary schedule, more efficient pupils guidance, teacher aides, working school libraries in every school. All of this can be implemented only by the expenditure of more tax dollars," the Ward 1 School Committeeman affirmed.

"Some organized citizens are sincerely interested in a single session elementary school program. Other groups are strongly in favor of or opposed to experimentation in the school organization, especially at the junior high school level. Other citizens are complaining of the cost of such changes and experimentation. And yet, changes and experimentation are the very fibers which may be woven into a full and happy life," he added.

"The Newton Junior College," Frazier commented, "is a challenge to the continued interest of the citizens of Newton in the future of their youth.

"The METCO program of educating children in the suburban school systems, after busing them from the Roxbury area of the core city of Boston, is but a gesture of good will and the recognition that we are our brothers' keeper," he stated.

"The cost of educating the less than 1 per cent of the Negro children of Boston is borne by outside sources. Its social and educational value to Newton and other suburban children is now being studied and evaluated. Some argue that if we can have a metropolitan water, sewer and park system, we can also have, for greater efficiency, a metropolitan school system. It is claimed that the strong school system will stimulate, inspire and lift up the weak. It is also asserted that the weak school systems will gradually drag down all to an average of passable mediocrity," Frazier said.

"Surely, with all these problems facing the school administration and the policy making School Committee, there is a clear call for level headedness, there is an urgent demand for maturity of thinking and action, and there is above all, a necessity for independent observation, fearless criticism and firm and pressure-free decision making. These attributes in a School Committee member are acquired and strengthened by lessons learned in the stern school of experience," he concluded.

FRANCIS P. FRAZIER

Frazier is a retired principal of the Taft Junior High School in Brighton. He obtained his A.B. degree from Boston College in 1918 and a Master's degree in education from Boston Teachers College in 1930.

He is past commander of Newton Post No. 48 American Legion. He is a former member of the Selective Service Board No. 112, Newton. He is also a past member of the Mayor's Advisory Board on Civil Defense.

Frazier stressed that under the Newton City Charter, every voter in every ward can vote for him as a member of the School Committee.

Move Is Rejeced

Senator Leslie B. Cutler, whose district includes five Newton wards, this week moved to add $25,000 to the budget of Boston State Hospital for care and treatment of patients discharged from the hospital. The measure was rejected on a voice vote.

To Study Hospital

Sen. Beryl W. Cohen, whose district includes part of Newton, was appointed this week to a special commission that will study administration and personnel practices of the Boston City Hospital and Boston Health Department.

SIDNEY T. SMALL

Sidney Small In Election Bid As City Alderman

Sidney T. Small of 77 Halcyon Rd., Newton Centre, yesterday announced his candidacy for Alderman-at-large from Ward 6

Small, who is president of the Greenwood Chemical Company of Newton, declared: "As a member of the Board of Aldermen, I hope to inject young, dynamic, aggressive leadership in our city government. In the past, our city government has reacted to our municipal problems.

"It should be acting to solve the causes of these problems. I intend to campaign on a positive platform, one that is designed to bring to our City Hall the imaginative leadership it has lacked in the past," Small said.

"There are many far-reaching issues to be faced in the years ahead. The people of our city are seeking improved city services; there are new schools to be built, and many schools to be restored. Our city is faced with higher taxes and the prospects on continued increases," he remarked.

"We need active, responsible, and responsive members on our Board of Aldermen to cope with the situations that are presently troubling us and those problems which will surely come.

"My campaign," Small stated, "will be based on a person - to - person approach, hoping to meet as many Newton citizens as is humanly possible, with the idea in mind, of broader citizen participation in our municipal government."

Small is a member of the Newton Chamber of Commerce, the International Sanitary Supply Association, the Massachusetts Restaurant Association, the Massachusetts Hotel and Motel Association, and the Boston Steward's Club

A past grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Massachusetts, he belongs to the Boston Lodge and Mayflower-Royal Lodge of the Knights of Pythias. He is also a member of the Garden City Lodge A.F. and A.M., and the chaplain William J. Farrell Chapter, Disabled American Veterans.

Small is vice-president of the Massachusetts Kiddie Kamp Corporation and was named as Kiddie Kamp's "Man of the Year." He has served as a State Fund raising chairman for cystic fibrosis and was honored as Massachusetts' "Outstanding Man" by the State Humanitarian Committee for his efforts in behalf of crippled children. He also served as a district chairman in Newton's recent United Fund Campaign.

Long engaged in Newton community activities, Small is at present a member of Mayor Basbas' Crime Prevention Committee and chairman of that group's sub-committee on teen-age problems in Newton. He is a member of the board of directors of the Newton Mental Health Association, and chairman of the community affairs committee of the Brotherhood of Temple Shalom of West Newton.

For many years Small has supported the Babe Ruth and Little League Baseball programs in Newton and is presently sponsoring a team in the Newton National Twilight League.

Small attended Roxbury Memorial High School, Boston University and the U. S. Army Leadership Training School. He served as an instructor and later as a member of the Army Chaplain's Corp in World War II.

He is married to the former Janet Egan of Medford. They have four children, Karen, 16, Russell, 13, Philip, 9 and their new son born two weeks ago Kenneth.

The Smalls have lived at their Newton home for the last 14 years.

Crime Marches On

Serious crime in the United States jumped 20 per cent in the first three months of 1967 compared with the same period last year, according to figures made available through the FBI's Uniform Crime reports.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said this substantial upsurge in the nation's crime was reflected in all crime index offenses. Crimes of violence, as a group, recorded a 21 per cent increase with murder up 23 per cent, forcible rape eight per cent, robbery 32 per cent, and aggravated assault 15 per cent. The group of crimes against property rose 20 per cent, with burglary up 21 per cent, larceny of $50 and over in value 18 per cent and auto theft 20 per cent.

According to the FBI Director, the group of cities with 100,000 or more inhabitants had an overall 20 per cent increase. Crime in suburban communities rose 22 per cent on the average, and the rural areas were up 16 per cent.

The effect of the nation's crime increase was felt in all geographic regions. Mr. Hoover noted that the regional trends were consistent, with the western states up 21 per cent, followed by the north central and southern states up 20 per cent each, and the northeastern states up 18 per cent.

In making these figures available, the FBI Director called attention to the unusually sharp percentage increase in the crime of robbery. He stated every city population group contributed to this trend with increases ranging from 20 per cent in cities having one million population to 42 per cent in the group of cities with 250,000 to 500,000 population. Robbery in the suburbs was up 37 per cent and increased 22 per cent in the rural areas. Robbery recorded substantial increases in all geographic regions as well.

Hoover cautioned that the 20 per cent rise in crime in the United States for this three-month period was the sharpest recorded since the publication of quarterly reports began in 1958. The FBI Director declared that a full explanation of the reasons for such sharp increases is difficult because the upward trend was distributed quite evenly in all geographic regions, large and small cities, suburban and rural areas.

Those who have been bemoaning the crime increase in Boston and the metropolitan area can take some small comfort in the foregoing statistics. At least the northeastern states, Massachusetts included, are two percentage points under tht increase in crime in the rest of the nation.

There was one appalling statistic that we saved until last: Boston's murders leaped from six during the first three months of 1966 to 21 for the same period this year. We cannot take any comfort in that particular statistical category.

The fact remains that the crime increases are real and the law enforcement machinery needs the full support of government and citizens alike. In the words of Gov. John A. Volpe:

"It is essential that the people themselves become alerted to the dangers; that they join the battle by giving affirmative support to our police and law enforcement officials and to the programs and policies that will assist these men and women in their daily battle against the criminal and the corrupt."

Such affirmative support was rendered in the Senate last week by Sen. Kevin Harrington and Sen. President Maurice A. Donahue. Their efforts restored an appropriation of $187,000 to the state budget for the criminal division of Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson's office.

We applaud the efforts of Sens. Donahue and Har-Attorney General the wherewithall to carry on his rington and the other Sentors who voted to give the crusade against crime.

Now let us have results.

Generations Much Alike

Newspaper columnists and radio commentators, many of them well past 30, have gotten a great deal of mileage in recent months out of the so-called gap between the generations. They generaly hail the younger generation as the possessors of new ideals and new seriousness in putting them into effect.

It was thus a welcome change when President Pusey of Harvard reminded the graduating class at Harvard College that there is decency as well as hypocrisy in every generation, and in about the same proportions.

Whether the generation under 30 can be characterized by any set of ideas is highly doubtful.

But it is fairly clear that whatever ideas the younger generation does have, it has pretty much learned them from its elders, who range from Pope John XXIII to Walter Lipmann.

Obviously, it is a biological fact that people under 30 tend to be more agressive, or simply more energetic than people over 30. That is certainly nothing that sets the present younger generation apart.

It is also a fact of life that the young tend to be unreasonable and impatient at the real difficulties standing in the way of the realization of their ideals whereas the old sometimes stop trying because their ideals require too much sacrifice.

An understanding that none of these things are really new should help members of the generations understand each other a little better. They should also lessen the pressure which some young people may feel to reject the ideals of their fathers simply because they are the ideals of their fathers and thus supposedly not of their own generation.

Thanks Graphic

On behalf of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston and its affiliated agencies, may I express to you and to members of your staff our deep appreciation for your outstanding cooperation in connection with our 1967 Appeal.

This annual Campaign for the benefit of scores of local, and overseas agencies, working in the fields of social welfare, health, education, centers and camps, and other humanitarian purposes, surpassed last year's results, and I know that your generous contribution of space in your newspaper was most helpful in making this achievement possible.

Recent events in the Middle East have made the need for increased funds for social welfare and rehabilitation work in Israel more pressing than ever before. The response of so many people from all segments of our community has been most heartwarming.

In the name of the many thousands of men, women, and children who benefit from the work of CJP and its agencies, our most sincere thanks.

Cordially,
Mortimer Weiss

Registrar Warns Of Traffic Dangers Over 4th Week-end

"Once again we are on the eve of the great Independence Day weekend with millions of vehicles flooding our highways for the long five-day celebration," said Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin.

"It is shocking that we are able to predict the highway carnage of Massachusetts drivers so accurately but our drivers can be relied upon to produce a steady rate of one death every five hours throughout this weekend.

"We killed 15 persons in the official 78-hour count of the July Fourth weekend in 1966 and there seems little doubt that we shall record about 20 deaths during the 102-hour counting period this year.

"What can we do about it? The answer, of course, rests with all the individuals behind the wheels. We can talk all we please about badly designed or inadequate highways; we can point the finger at the automobile manufacturers and talk about mechanical defects but, in the end, nearly 90 percent of all accidents and fatalities can be traced back directly to misbehavior, misjudgment, recklessness, negligence and, above all, intoxication behind the wheel.

"There is no reason to expect that these terrible tragedies of the highway will not continue as they have in the past—and grow worse with each passing year, unless and until, the human beings who drive these vehicles measure up to their responsibilities of life and death in the driver's seat."

"Medicaid" Letters Sent To Churches

To give the "Medicaid" program as wide publicity as possible, letters were sent out this week to all churches in Newton by the Director of the Newton Public Welfare Department.

In the letter, Director George S. Wattendorf requested pastors and heads of the various churches to refer families whom they thought would be interested in obtaining "Medicaid" assistance to the Welfare Department. He pointed out that a simplified application procedure "makes it possible to apply by mail or phone without coming to our office."

The most important feature of the new program is assistance in paying medical bills for children under 21 in families with limited income.

Informational pamphlets were sent with each of the letters to the churches. Also, Wattendorf reported that pamphlets have also been distributed to the Newton main library and all churches, to all drugstores in Newton and to private social service agencies.

Two Newt. Centre Families Blessed With New Addit'ns

Two Newton Centre residents have been blessed recently with additions to their families—but not in the usual way.

They have financially "adopted" two youngsters in dire need of assistance through the Foster Parents' Plan, Inc.

An eight-year-old Ecuadorian boy, Benjamin Buenano, who lives in a slum area near Guayaquil, Ecuador, has been "adopted" by Mrs. Philip Dine, of 555 Dudley rd. The "adoption" is financial not legal and costs $15 a month for a minimum of one year through Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., 352 Park ave. south, New York, N.Y.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stylos, of 60 Montvale rd., reached around to the other side of the world to "adopt" an 11-year-old Greek boy, Eleftherios Giosis, in a tiny hamlet near Edessa in northern Greece.

The Foster Parents' Plan is 30 years old and now cares for 45,000 children around the world. Originally, the program stressed rescue - relief work but the emphasis today is on rehabilitation, not only for the foster child but his entire family.

Benjamin Buenano lives in a wooden shack with seven other persons — his father and mother, sister, Patricia, 6, two brothers, Jorge, 3, and Marcelo, 6 months, his great-grandmother and a cousin.

In the slum community the streets are unpaved, and the district lacks sewers, garbage collection and running water. Water is carried from a community spigot, and an open latrine is in the rear of the house. Two mattresses are used for sleeping, and the only other furnishings are six chairs, two tables and an old cabinet. (Not mentioned are approximately one hundred million flies.)

Benjamin's parents are good hardworking people, desperately trying to build a better life for the children. Both the mother and father completed elementary school, and the father now earns his living as a bartender, receiving $30 a month. The mother remains at home to care for the children.

Little is left for food from the father's $30 monthly income after paying expenses of 25 cents for school tuition, 12 cents for electricity, 12 cents for water, $3.00 for for coal.

The family diet consists of vegetables, rice, fish and bananas. Milk is a luxury, and meat and eggs are only eaten occasionally.

Eleftherios Giosis is no better off. He lives with his mother and father, brother and two sisters in a hut of one room and a narrow hall. The floor is the cold earth. There are two cots, a table and four chairs, plus a few worn household goods. Illumination is by kerosene and water must be brought by pail from a village fountain. They have no outhouse.

The family owns about ¾ of an acre of land sown with beets which brings about 15 cents a day income. Because the father was stricken with tuberculosis and after a year of treatment is unable to return to manual work—the only thing he knows—the mother labors in other people's fields and earns 27 cents a day.

Eleftherios has an older brother, Narisis, an apprentice carpenter who earns 44 cents a day while learning his trade. A sister Ekaterini, 14, is in the third year of junior-senior high school, while his other sister, Dimitra, 11, is in the sixth grade. Eleftherios is in the third grade.

The $15 a month paid by the Newton families provides an $8 cash grant, clothing, supplies and special medical care for the child and family.

In making known his decision, Beckwith remarked: "With pressure increasing from both sides, the city fathers on one side to contain school expenditures, within their ideas of the Newtons' fiscal abilities, and on the other side the meritous demands of parents and school personnel for meeting the requirements for keeping pace with the explosion of knowledge.

I feel the combination of my experience gained from years of service on the School Committee and perspective gained as a business executive, tempered by 28 years of taxpaying and association with Newton Schools qualify me for the position of public trust."

Flag -

"These are times which have witnessed the burning and desecration of American flags.

"It is well to reflect that while the cloth of a flag may be mutilated or destroyed, the principles of liberty and justice for all, for which it stands, will never be extinguished; that is, so long as the people who live under it remain ever mindful of the great heritage it is their responsibility to preserve and to pass on to succeeding generations.

"We are grateful to Mrs. Heckler for this tangible evidence of her regard for this Court."

Dispute -

The Democrats agreed to assist in the collection of signatures to place the matter on the ballot.

The Republicans declined to do so until the makeup of the Charter Commission had been settled to their satisfaction.

At that point the League of Women Voters is understood to have held up its drive for signatures.

Some eyebrows were raised earlier in the year at the cut-and-dried manner in which the members of the proposed new Charter Commission were selected.

While they are officially elected by the voters, there is little doubt that the nine-member slate would have prevailed and that individual citizens desirous of gaining a place on the Commission would have had little chance of doing so.

The question it was intended to place on next November's ballot was to read: "Shall a commission be elected to revise the charter of Newton?"

If enough signatures were secured to put that question on the ballot, a nine-member slate of candidates for election to the Charter Commission also was to go on the same ballot, according to plans.

The Charter Commission was expected to review such questions as whether the Mayor should be elected for a four-year term rather than two years, how vacancies should be filled in the office of Mayor and on the Board of Aldermen and School Committee and whether Newton should have preliminary elections.

Any changes in the City Charter suggested by the Commission were to be placed on the ballot in the 1969 municipal election for acceptance or rejection by the voters.

Unless Democratic-Republican differences are resolved speedily and an all-out drive for signatures is made, the indications are that the question of creating a Charter Commission will be delayed for two years.

The last comprehensive study of Newton's City Charter was made in 1897. The League of Women Voters was undertaking to get the signatures to start the wheels rolling because of the belief that it was time for another close look at the charter.

Only a Charter Commission may propose changes in the composition, method of election, or terms of office of the Mayor or Board of Aldermen.

Newtonite Is Speaker At Voice Of Women Conclave

A joint meeting of the Voice of Women of Massachusetts and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, held in Montreal, Canada, June 6-10, heard their delegate to the Second International Women's Conference laud women throughout the world for their dedication to the cause of peace.

Mrs. Harold (Kay) Stein of Newton, vice-chairman of New England Voice of Women, told the gathering that this second conference reflected "unusual growth and unity which the women throughout the world have developed in their determination to bring peace to the world." The first International Women's Conference sponsored by Voice of Women was held in Montreal five years ago.

Three major workshops directed the attention of the delegates to the problems of "Independence and Security for All Countries"; "Knowledge for Peace"; and "Problems in Disarmament." The featured speakers were Mrs. Helene Kazantzakis of Geneva, a writer and peace worker, and Mr. James O. C. Jonah of Sierra Leone, a member of U Thant's Political Advisory staff at the United Nations.

Each of the twenty-five countries represented were sent copies of a resolution calling on Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada to halt shipments of arms to the U.S. and urging President Johnson to cease the bombing of Viet-Nam.

Charging flagrant violation of the Geneva Agreements, the delegates further censured the U.S. for the cruel suffering it is inflicting on the civilian population of Viet-Nam and called for immediate disengagement of the U.S. Armed Forces from Southeast Asia.

"To further emphasize the world-wide dangers inherent in the Viet-Nam conflict," Mrs. Stein said, "the women voted to mark an International Women's Day for Peace on October 21, 1967, which would coincide with the Demonstration of a Million planned by the peace movement in the U.S., and called on all governments to dissociate themselves from the U.S. position in Viet-Nam." The delegates voted a return to the Geneva Agreement of 1954 as the only feasible solution to the Viet-Nam conflict.

A resolution introduced by Mrs. Stein and passed by the body called for condemnation of the military coup in Greece and its consequent deprivation of the Greek people's human and civil rights. It demanded immediate restoration of constitutional democracy, the release of the thousands of political prisoners, and the rescneduling of the canceled May 28 elections.

In his address to the conference, Mr. Jonah voiced concern for the ineffective peace-keeping machinery of the U.N. and the organizational problems that have impeded its improvement. He strongly supported the admission of the People's Republic of China. The conference voted support for his position, particularly in light of the recent Middle East eruption where the U. N. was charged with being unable to enforce its peace-keeping role. The women called for immediate cease-fire in the Middle East that would reflect a new understanding of the national interests of all the nations concerned there.

The 275 women at the conference — sociologists, trade-unionists, politicians, journalists, teachers, professors, mothers came from the far corners of the world. Among the countries represented were Australia, Chile, Czechoslovakia, England, France, Mexico, Poland, Rhodesia, the U.S.S.R., and Sierra Leone. Conference President Kathleen MacPherson of France commended the conference for the "immense difficulties (they had) overcome to be with us,..an indication of the courage and resourcefulness of women the world over in working for the highest ideals — a world free from war for our children."

United Church Synod Has Praise For U.S. Soldiers

Harry J. Purple of 626 Centre st., Newton was a delegate to the Sixth General Synod of the United Church of Christ which this week paid tribute to American servicemen in Vietnam for their "deeds of kindness" toward the civilian population, especially Vietnamese children.

The policy-making body of the two-million-member denomination meeting in Cincinnati also called on local churches to provide counselling service to help those eligible for induction into the Armed Forces understand their rights, including the right of conscientious objection, and give them "spiritual support" both before and after entering the service.

This is the first action by a major Protestant denomination to have its churches set up formal machinery to aid all young men subject to the draft. Most already have machinery for counseling conscientious objectors.

The resolution called attention to "impressive evidence" of the servicemen's "warm friendliness and generous giving of their time and money to improve the lot of the civilian population."

It called on the denomination's Council for Church and Ministry to assist local churches in caring for the welfare of men and women in the Armed Forces.

In other action the 743 voting delegates to the United Church Synod called on all agencies of the denomination for "a determined and vigorous effort" to provide equal employment opportunities for people of all races in the church.

In the four years since the United Church formally committed itself to racial justice in all aspects of American life, "only a beginning has been made," the resolution said. There is only "token representation" of Negroes and other minority groups in the national and state agencies of the church, and the calling of a Negro to a predominantly white congregation is so rare "that it becomes a matter of public astonishment when it occurs."

The General Synod also recognized the need for increased cooperation in the next decade with other Protestant denominations, Roman Catholic, Jewish and secular organizations.

The tenth anniversary of the United Church of Christ, a union of Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed Churches was celebrated Sunday evening June 25. Taking part in the ceremonies was the Rev. Dr. Ferdinand Schlingensiepen, a leader of the Evangelical and Reformed Church of Germany, which is celebrating its 150th anniversary this year.

Some 2,000 ministers and laymen and women are attending the biennial meeting of the Synod at the Netherland Hilton Hotel here June 22 through 29.

Registrar Warns Of Need For Safety For Vacation

"The summer vacation season has arrived bringing with it the special hazards of summer driving," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin said today.

"More than one million children have left their classrooms for outdoor play. Nearly 100,000 more automobiles and drivers are operating on our streets this summer than last year. Thousands of additional motorcycles are on the road this summer. Hundreds of thousands of out-of-state visitors will be traveling on our highways," said the Registrar.

"All of this adds up to one thing: the potential for death and disaster on Massachusetts highways is the highest in its history. The 1967 death and accident rate is already much worse than the same period in 1966. We are going to have an all-time record for carnage unless the drivers, themselves, come to their senses and drive cautiously, sensibly, courteously, and soberly."

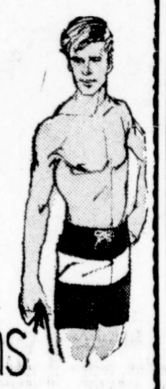

The Registrar said that the universal use of seat belts and the equally universal absention from liquor at the wheel could cause a startling cutback in deaths and accidents — perhaps as much as a two-thirds reduction.

"In the vernacular," said the Registrar, "it all boils down to using the right type of 'belts'."

Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Pupil Personnel James Laurits reported Monday night to the School Committee that his office set out to fill 230.6 positions this spring and has filled all but 28.5 of them so far.

(Fractions in the totals refer to part-time positions.)

Laurits, who emphasized that a substantial turnover and heated competition for teachers are becoming normal, announced his office received a total of 2108 applications for teaching positions this year.

So far, 36 positions offered in writing by the Newton schools have been turned down. Last year at this time 39 written offers had been refused, but by September the number had risen to 72.

A total of 340 interviews on college campuses as far away as the University of Michigan were conducted by Dr. Laurits and assistant to the Director of Personnel, Thomas P. O'Connor, Jr., who took charge of recruitment of elementary personnel.

Laurits and O'Connor promised to attempt to interview candidates as far away as California and Oregon next year.

Harvard led the list of colleges in number of applicants interviewed with a total of 64, of whom 21 were on the elementary level and 43 on the secondary level. However, only six Harvard students were offered positions.

Chairman Harold J. Berman, himself a Harvard Law School professor, expressed surprise at the small percentage of Harvard applicants hired.

Laurits commented that he expects to employ "many more" Harvard graduates. He added that the number of Harvard applicants and interviews is high because of the closeness of its campus.

Boston University students received the highest number of offers as well as the highest percentage for students interviewed. Eight B. U. students (out of 24) got Newton offers

In general, less than one out of eight students interviewed was offered a position.

So far a total of 74.5 positions have been filled on the elementary level and 9.5 remain to be filled during the summer. Fifty-nine junior high school positions have been filled out of 70. And 47.4 high school positions have been filled leaving 5.8 to be filled.

According to the figures released by Laurits, of 177.9 teaching appointments, just under half or 88.5 had no previous experience. On the elementary level, 43 out of 71.5 positions were filled by inexperienced teachers. On the junior high school level 27 out of 59 positions were filled by inexperienced teachers, and in the senior high schools, 18.5 out of 47 positions were given to inexperienced teachers.

Laurits indicated, in answer to a question by School Committeeman Francis P. Frazier, that he hoped that even the percentage of inexperienced elementary school teachers will go down when all the appointments are finished.

Superintendent Charles E. Brown pointed out that the 71.5 elementary appointments had been made from 841 applicants and that the school administration often prefers the teachers with no experience because of other qualities.

School Committeewoman Norma W. Mintz asked Laurits whether the refusals had anything to do with salary. The assistant superintendent answered that in four cases to his knowledge the salary had been a critical factor in refusing Newton's offer.

In reply to a question by School Committeeman Way Dong Woo, Laurits said that the refusals were mostly in the middle salary bracket.

O'Connor reported that the elementary schools had an average of three vacancies: five vacancies were registered at the Horace Mann, and 4½ at the Williams, while only two each were reported for the Beethoven, Countryside, Emerson, Mason-Rice and Ward Schools.

In the secondary schools, the largest number of vacancies were in social studies, with 27 positions open, and in English with 20 openings.

In a routine vote, the School Committee gave Supt. Brown the authority to make appointments during the committee's summer recess.

Youth Service Budget Raised By Amendment

Sen. Beryl W. Cohen, whose district includes three Newton wards, this week offered an amendment to the Youth Service Division's budget adding a total of $167,502 for the 10 Youth Service facilities.

Cohen charged that in the last five years one-third of all Walpole inmates have been alumni from the Youth Service Division.

Sen. Cohen previously had requested a much larger increase in the Youth Service Division's budget in order to add 127 positions to its staff, but withdrew the amendment since the Senate had not had time to study the new positions.

Another proposal by Cohen to add $49,000 to the Youth Division's delinquency control program was rejected by voice vote.

Member Of First Graduating Class Tells Of Early Nurses

The Beth Israel Hospital School of Nursing held its last commencement exercises Monday evening, June 20, at the Temple Israel Meeting House in Boston. Twenty-five new nurses were awarded diplomas by Samuel L. Slosberg, hospital president, upon successful completion of a three-year course of study.

Founded in 1918, the school has graduated more than 1,250 nurses in its 49 years of operation. The closing of the school coincides with the establishment of a major affiliation of the hospital with the Northeastern University College of Nursing.

Dr. Mitchell T. Rabkin, general director of Beth Israel, welcomed the students, their families and friends to the ceremony. Rabbi Herbert I. Simckes, hospital chaplain, gave the invocation.

A highlight of the commencement exercises was a greeting from Mrs. Bessie Brin of Chestnut Hill, a member of the first graduating class of the Beth Israel School of Nursing and first president of the school's alumnae association.

Mrs. Brin recalled the early days of the school when the students, in blue and white checked long-sleeved uniforms and full bibbed white aprons, studied and worked from 7 a.m. until 9 p.m., seven days a week Their services on the floor were particularly valued, since the opening of the school coincided with the influenza epidemic. Mrs. Brin, in addition to her other "firsts," was also the first gradaute to have a daughter graduate from the school.

Also in attendance was Miss Florence Kurr of Chestnut Hill, another member of the first graduating class, to see her niece, Judith Shack, receive one of the last diplomas of the Beth Israel Hospital School of Nursing. Miss Kurr has continued her association with the hospital for 46 years, and is still doing private duty nursing there.

Featured speaker of the evening was Miss Dora E. Zolotin, R.N., director of nursing at the hospital, who also presented four special awards to members of the Class of 1967.

Miss Alyce Souden was awarded the Kaufman Medal "for demonstrating the highest attainment in theoretical, practical and kindly nursing."

Mrs. Sandra Weisberg Stern was the recipient of the Claire Sonis Award for being "the member of the graduating class who typifies the Beth Israel nurse."

Miss Ruth Riseberg received the Evelyn Levins Award for her "sympathy and kindness in patient care."

A special faculty award was presented to Miss Nancy Driscoll of Needham for demonstrating "the potential to continue her personal, social and professional growth and development; assume responsibility as a citizen in a democratic society; and identify and assume responsibility for the nursing care of the patient."

Addressing the nursing graduates, Miss Zolotin stressed the importance of continued education. The word commencement, she said, "carries the promise of continued learning and progressive development of your skills, which should demonstrate that the practice of nursing is really an art—for an intelligent, sensitive, well organized, skillful nurse is poetry in motion."

Consider Less Air Rights Park Areas

A petition by the Urban Development Corporation to reduce the required number of parking spaces at the proposed air rights development over the toll road in Newton Corner from 800 to 600 is under consideration by the Board of Aldermen.

Newton Chairman Sets Up Victory Drive For Tufts

Dr. Irving Glickman of Newton today announced that the faculty of the Tufts School of Dental Medicine has set a national record by subscribing over $400,000 from their personal incomes to improve their school's teaching facilities.

This subscription puts Tufts School of Dental Medicine past its first $1 million in a nationwide campaign to build a $12 million, 12-story building in dontown Boston. The U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare will grant $5.5 when matching funds have been raised.

Dr. Gickman, chairman of the Faculty Committee for the campaign and chairman of the Department of Peridontology, was responsible for this outstanding achievement by the faculty. "The contribution is more than has been given by any other faculty at 98-year-old Tufts School of Dental Medicine, or at Tufts University, or at any other Dental School in the nation," he reported.

"The buildings will enable us to carry on the most advanced program of dental education, treatment and research in the country," said Dean Louis J. P. Calisti.

Currently the Dental School is sharing quarters with Tufts Medical School in several downtown Boston buildings. The new building designed by The Architects Collaborative will be the first to rise in the redeveloped Tufts-New England Medical Center.

Newton Attorney To Direct Program At Boston College

EDWIN C. HAMADA

Top civil rights lawyers will play host to 35 members of an unusual Legal Intern Program this summer, under the direction of American Jewish Congress and Boston College Law School.

Led by Edwin C. Hamada, Esq., of Newton, executive director of the Boston College Law School Legal Intern Program, the group of second and third year Law School students will work this summer with practicing Boston-area attorneys who have been involved in civil rights. Many of these attorneys are also members of AJCongress' New England Region Commission on Law and Social Action.

In addition to working with the lawyers, some of the students will be assigned to social and community action groups as well as appropriate government agencies.

Administering the Program for Boston College is Francis J. Larkin, Assistant Dean of the Law School.

Conceived by Arthur Berney, Professor of Law, Boston College Law School, the work will be broken down into six separate interest areas. These are housing, welfare, discrimination, consumers rights, legislation and civil liberties. The type of work will vary radically with the area of concern, the capacity of the students and the attorney manpower within any particular interest category.

Mr. Hamada and Professor Berney indicate that in the fall semester following the summer projects, the best of the participating second (now third) year students will be invited to engage in an in-depth reform project based upon the most promising of the summer experiences.

And, as a final phase, before the cycle begins anew with a fresh Legal Intern Program in summer 1968, there will be a seminar designated "problems in poverty law" offered in the second semester of the 1967-68 season. The members of the first-semester reform project (an honors program) will be required to take this seminar.

The contribution that the participating attorneys and the students make to the proposed program is patent.

The Boston College Law School gives strong support, first by holding out the inducement of substantial course credit and secondly by making available U. S. Department of Education work-study funds to the students during the summer—thereby relieving many of them from the real need of earning money elsewhere during that period. Moreover, one full-time professor would be devoting a majority of his time to the program.

The participating social action groups will serve in various ways. They will continue to come up with the cases and problems referred already to participating attorneys; but more significantly, some of these groups could begin to look upon the lawyer-student staff as their "law firm on retainer," especially for the purposes of implementing legal group objectives. E.G. Organizing tenant associations or advising about boycott activities.

Members of AJCongress' Commission on Law and Social Action, and representatives of Boston College Law School look forward to a realistic and challenging practical experience for these law students — experience with the demands of the intellectual context of law school study and research.

They envision an opportunity for intensive and continuing work and research on a particular area of law with the satisfaction usually derived from concentration and thorough treatment of a problem and its commensurate reward of a feeling of accomplishment.

The Program is a radical departure from the traditional appelate case method of study which by the third year has lost a good deal of its efficacy. Thus, the Intern Program will give its members a chance to learn through intimate interaction with other minds working on the same problems. Beside the tutorial type of experience for those chosen for the honors course (commencing in September, 1967), there are the benefits of working closely—sometimes in a teaching capacity—with fellow students.

Thus, say Mr. Hamada and Professor Berney, a full-year program emanating from a meaningful summer experience, will come to fruition under the guidance of two socio-legal oriented groups.

Five Breaks Net Thieves Radio-TV Sets

Newton police were kept busy this past week investigating five burglaries in which at least nine television sets and two two-way radio sets were taken.

Seven television sets and a record player were stolen from the Harney Hardware and Supply Co., Inc., of Washington street, West Newton. Entrance to the store was gained by smashing a window and removing two air conditioners.

Samuel Handel, owner, of 11 Kodaya road, Waban, said five black and white and two color television sets were stolen.

Two homes at 15 and 20 Metacomet road, Waban, were broken into and ransacked over the weekend, the caretaker, Nicholas Gentile reported. Entrance was gained in both homes by breaking a window.

The houses belong to Paul C. Miller and Mrs. Ethel B. Miller, respectively. Both houses are closed and their owners absent and police were not able to determine what, if anything, was stolen.

Two portable television sets were taken in a break at the home of Norman Hartstone, 53 Morton street, Newton, over the weekend. Police report that entrance was gained through the front door by breaking a small window.

Donald Ferguson, of 32 Dunston street, West Newton, reported that two two-way radios valued at $350 were taken from a Suburban cab on Saturday.

Lee Loumos Says:

I get so carried away each week with the international problem that I keep forgetting the details of my own postage stamp sphere of influence in this diminishing world. Every time George DeCoen visits me, he takes me to task for not making mention of the private parking lot I have behind my store. He claims this is the most important business asset I have, but I would have to rate it second or third. I have always felt that a good service department to back up our sales is of first importance, and keeping our promises of almost equal value. However, George, I have to agree with you. If it isn't easy for our customers to come to us, we might not have many to whom to give prompt service. So once again, don't forget our ample and complete parking in the rear.

Expect Decision Soon On Petition By Gardeners

A favorable report is expected to be issued shortly by the Aldermanic Claims and Rules Committee on a petition from Newton residents regarding the fees charged gardeners for use of the city incinerator and dump.

All commercial vehicles using the facilities are now charged $6 a ton to dump or burn refuse. The gardeners feel they should only be charged the minimal fee, as are private residents.

The gardeners reason they are doing a service that would have to be done by the street department by removing all brush and rubbish to the dump instead of leaving it for the weekly collection.

The gardeners, most of whom live and work in Newton, met with the Claims and Rules Committee of the Board of Aldermen last week to present their case.

The argument of the gardeners was buttressed by Newton residents who pointed out that if the gardeners left the refuse and the property owners had to take it to the dump themselves, they would be charged only the minimal fee.

Memorial Rites For Mrs. Rass At Mission Home

A memorial service for Mrs. Ellen Rass was held at the Walker Missionary Home, Auburndale, on Sunday afternoon, June 25 at three o'clock. Mrs. Rass, 65, passed away at Newton-Wellesley Hospital on June 20.

Rev. Joseph Moulton and Rev. Loy Long spoke at the service and Miss Elizabeth Seidenberg played two violin solos, Schubert's "Impromptu" and "Finlandia" by Sibelius, and Mr. Paul Wiggin sang a tenor solo, "The 23rd Psalm" by Dvorak.

Friends and relatives from many communities gathered to pay tribute to Mrs. Rass who had served on the staff of the Walker Missionary Homes for 17 years.

Born in Estonia, Mrs. Rass and her sister, Mrs. Marie Parma and her two small sons, Nels and Arne Parma, were captured by the Germans and forced to march with the army when it retreated to Germany.

There they crouched in air raid shelters while the Allies bombed the country, enduring starvation and indescribable suffering until the Germans surrendered. They were brought to the United States in 1950 on the displaced persons' quota.

For many years the Red Cross tried to locate Mrs. Rass' son who was inducted into military service at the age of 17 and sent to another part of Estonia. Mrs. Parma's husband was also lost. Fourteen years crawled by without news from either one. Then in 1958 letters came from both men.

Mrs. Rass' son wrote that he was married and the father of a son and a daughter. She was overjoyed. But their letters revealed that there were many shortages in Estonia. Mrs. Rass and Mrs. Parma purchased nonperishable foods, clothing and medical supplies and mailed parcels regularly to their relatives behind the Iron Curtain.

Newton Swim Fees Reduced To 1966 Rates of $1 and $3

Fees for admittance to Newton's two swimming pools were restored to the 1966 rates of $1 and $3 yesterday by the City Recreation Commission.

The action was taken after City Hall was flooded with complaints when the 1967 rates were set at $3 and $5 and a group of 20 parents marched in protest at the opening of the Garth pool on Albemarle rd.

The fees have now been set at $1 for students and $3 for adults. Children under six accompanied by a parent can swim free, as can residents over 65 years of age.

While the 1967 rates were in effect, some $10,000 was collected in the sale of 3000 permits and the money turned over to the City Treasury.

Recreation Commr. John B. Penney announced yesterday that those who obtained the higher priced swimming permits may apply for a rebate. Forms may be obtained at the Recreation Department, where they will be verified, and given to the city treasurer.

The meeting of the Recreation Commission was held early yesterday at City Hall with Commr. Penney presiding. The meeting, which had been anxiously awaited by Newton residents, had been delayed because the Commission was having trouble in finding a time when they could conveniently meet.

In the face of the opposition expressed to the higher fees—and the mandate of the Board of Aldermen—the outcome of the meeting was a foregone conclusion.

It was noted that, although there was an outcry over the higher 1967 rates, there had also been a passive or resigned acceptance of them, too. It was also felt that a great number of persons who had already bought their permits for the Garth and Crystal Lake pools would not bother to obtain a refund.

Newton's 'Vietnam Summer' Lists Lectures And Movies

A weekly series of lectures, movies and discussion programs in Newton's Vietnam Summer project was announced this week. Billed as Peaceful Wednesdays, evening assemblies throughout the summer will inform the public of obstacles to peace and encourage political action to end the Vietnam war.

The meetings will be held every Wednesday at 8:00 pm at the Newton Community Peace Center (Eliot Church) 474 Centre Street. Fred King, program chairman for Newton and member of the Harvard Physics Department, released the schedule for July at the Newton Committee's second open meeting on July 21.

Principal speakers will be Steven Hedger (July5), Director of AFSC Draft Counseling Service, to discuss "The War and the Draft"; Noam Chomsky (July 12) MIT Professor of Modern Languages and Linguistics and well known student of Southeast Asian problems, to comment on the Defense Department documentary "Why Vietnam?"; and Edwin Moise (July 19) Harvard Professor, to describe "The History of American Involvement in Vietnam."

On July 26 the evening will include community folk singing in the park (behind Eliot Church), with guest soloists to be announced. The public is invited to attend all meetings.

For Peaceful Wednesdays in August, Mr. King intends to select speakers and topics to meet community interest in issues of public policy.

The Newton Vietnam Summer Committee also announced that approximately 100 volunteers are now canvassing their neighbors for opinions about US foreign policy in Vietnam.

Besides taking a poll and offering information and opportunities for action, the canvassers are circulating petitions asking Congresswoman Heckler to return to Newton to hold open hearings on the Vietnam war and alternative ways to peace.

Babe Ruth League Washed Out Except For Two Games

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Rain forced the cancellation of many sporting events last week. Four Babe Ruth League baseball games were washed out, as was one summer league basketball game.

There was still some baseball action as the Upper Falls Lions downed the Totem Pole Braves, 6-3, and St. Jean's defeated the Waban Chiefs, 7-2.

In the first game Clem Virgilio went all the way in recording his third win against no losses. Both of his other victories were no-hitters. The Totem Pole held a 3-1 lead up until the fourth inning when John Lopez's single drove the tieing runs across the plate. In the bottom of the fifth the Lions went ahead to stay when Jimmy Gamble drove in two runs with a single. Clem Virgilio also had a run producing single. The Lion record now stands at 4-1.

The Waban Chiefs dropped their first game of the year, 7-1, to St. Jean's last Thursday. Andy Grant was the starter and loser, while Vin Tesoro came on in relief. The only Chief run was unearned, in the first inning. Neither Chief pitcher was effective as St. Jean's pounded out hit after hit on way to victory. Another blow fell on the Chiefs as number two pitcher Richie Watts pulled a ligament in his knee and is out for a week.

The Newton South Lion summer league basketball team had their opening game cancelled because of last Tuesday night's rain. The Lions have come up with a coach in the person of Steve Cooper, Lion basketball star for three years and an all-league selection this season. It is hoped that Cooper can provide some valuable instruction to his players. Cooper has also been placed on the roster, and if needed, will play.

Frances Meyers Awarded Museum Drawing Prize

Frances Dale Meyers, eight-year-old twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Meyers, of 43 Woodchester drive, Chestnut Hill, recently was awarded top prize in the Young Visitors Drawing Contest of the Museum of Science.

The youngster is in the second grade of the John Ward School on Dolphin road, Newton.

The little girl won the award by submitting a drawing giving her impression of the Museum during a class visit. The awards are made based on power of observation, interpretation and interest.

Postmaster In Warning About Vacation Mail

Postal authorities in Newton have issued an appeal to the public to make arrangement with their local postoffice or the letter carrier for the disposition of daily mail during their absence from home on vacation.

Mail, newspapers, magazines and other items which are noticed to be remaining in home receptacles often indicate that the family is away and represents an invitation to theft.

Postmaster Ephraim Martin said that there is no problem if the postoffice is notified.

Drawn shades, empty milk bottles are also signs that there is nobody at home. The paperboy should be advised of the period of absence.

Postmaster Martin also took the opportunity to recommend that resort postoffices also have a Zip Code and should be included in the address.

devoted to new laws and old, and steps directed to promoting uniformity thereof as well as uniformity in enforcement procedures, new developments in weighing and measuring technology, and equitable practices relating to modern merchandising.

Special emphasis and study, by the officials, will be devoted to the new Federal "Fair Packaging and Labeling Act of 1966" which becomes effective July 1st, 1967, and which will dramatically affect both merchants and consumers with respect to prepackaged merchandise.

Sealer Bowen, who has headed Newton's Weights and Measures Department for 18 years, is a member of both the Massachusetts and Federal Bars, is a Past President of the Massachusetts Weights and Measures Association, and has held several offices in the National Conference Association.

Grants -

question by School Committeeman Way Dong Woo, will involve 12 pupils next year. School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman revealed that a teacher will be assigned to the program for every three boys.

School Committeeman Francis P. Frazier pointed out that some of the boys involved would go out to work part of the year and praised the program for giving the students a chance to find out "what work is all about".

Superintendent Brown explained that in the second program the School Committee was being asked to act as the sponsoring agent for a research and development program similar to one formerly carried on at Harvard.

The three major elements in the program would be first to make the classroom teacher a "liaison between research and development being carried on at Harvard and the classroom", Brown said; secondly, to work out methods of guidance and counseling; and thirdly, to bring together people in the seven communities involved to share their findings.

School Committeewoman Norma W. Mintz commented that it was "terribly important" that educators in the different communities should benefit from each others' experience. She praised the idea of "cross-fertilization" of ideas outlined in the project.

Committeeman Frazier observed that one of the innovations in the program sponsored by Newton as opposed to that conducted by Harvard is that private schools will be consulted. "Public school people can learn from all groups," Frazier remarked.

Chairman Berman asked if any advantage to Newton would accrue from its sponsorship of the measure other than good will.

Dr. Brown replied that there was no advantage, but that on the other hand the school administration had been careful that there should be no disadvantage and that any costs entailed by the Newton schools' business office in handling the $500,000 grant would not be borne by Newton.

Committeeman Frazier declared that it can be expected that the federal government will phase out as sponsoring agent and that the cities and towns involved will eventually have to bear all costs.

Superintendent Brown replied that this is a factor in every proposal. He said that while he felt that programs such as the one aimed at potential drop-outs would eventually become part of the regular school budget, it was much less predictable whether the research sharing program will.

He added that educators assume that if the United States' military obligations don't increase, there will be increased federal participation in education.

Service -

with better service. During rush hours buses will operate on a two-and-one-half minute headway instead of the present six-minute headway for street cars, and the running time from Watertown from Kenmore will be cut approximately five minutes.

The route of the express bus service would be from Newton Corner over the Massachusetts Turnpike, exiting at the South Station ramp, then along South st. with a stop at South and Essex sts., Summer st. and Chauncey st.

Other stops would include the subway entrance, Harrison ave., Kneeland st., with a stop on Kneeland st., back onto the Turnpike and then to Newton Corner.

Originating in Newton Corner, the MBTA expects that the proposed service will serve riders to Newton Corner on Middlesex and Boston bus lines from Auburndale, Framingham, Waltham and Waverly, as well as people living in the Brighton-Newton-Watertown areas.

All buses will be air-conditioned. Buses used on the Turnpike run will be equipped with new high-speed transmissions expressly developed for Turnpike use.

New A To Z Rental Center Is Now Open

Householders, do-it-yourselfers and businessmen in the Roslindale area will be able to rent everything from A(xes) to Z(axes) at low rental rates which began June 2.

Fred Brauer recently announced the opening of his A to Z Rental Center at 1438 Centre street, Roslindale. The center is the newest member of the nationwide, owner-operated A to Z Rental System. The center is managed by Dennis Orant of 34 Bellevue street, Dorchester.

Brauer said the center will offer for rental practically all conceivable items used by businessmen and tradesmen, householders and apartment dwellers from axes (everyone knows what they are) to zaxes (an axlike tool for cutting roofing slate).

The rental outlet will offer such expected things as sanders, power drills and saws, painting equipment and scaffolding, staircarts and furniture dollies and plumber's and mechanic's tools.

The new establishment will offer yard and garden equipment and such home appliances and conveniences as rug shampooers, TV sets, and vacuum cleaners. Adult and children's furniture, including cribs and highchairs, will be provided along with sports equipment, banquet and party needs and invalid and sickroom equipment.

Brauer, a builder and land developer, is a member of various building associations. He lives with his wife, Judith and family at 305 Westfield street, Dedham.

Whereas a suit in equity has been begun against you in our Land Court, by Rose Alperin, of Newton Centre, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth:

WE COMMAND YOU, if you intend to make any defense, that on the fifth day of September next, which is the return day of this subpoena, or within such further time as the law allows, you do cause your written appearance to be entered and your written answer or other lawful pleading to be filed in the office of the recorder of said court at Boston in the County of Suffolk, and further that you defend against said suit according to law, if you intend to make any defense, and that you do and receive what the court shall order, adjudge and decree therein.

Heart Fund Memorials For Many Residents Of Newton

"Every year marks an increase in the number of gifts made to the Heart Association as memorials," Dr. James A. Bougas, president of Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, stated this week, in announcing names of relatives and friends of Newton and Chestnut Hill residents recently honored by memorials.

"People are turning more and more to memorials," Doctor Bougas said, "for they not only honor the dead but benefit the living, through increased heart research, education and community services." In 1966, memorial contributions to Greater Boston Chapter amounted to more than $100,000.

Newton and Chestnut Hill residents honored the following relatives and friends during the past three months:

$18,000 Recommended For South High Improvements

Renovations at Newton South High School costing an estimated $18,000 were recommended by School Business Director John E. Gilleland to the School Committee Monday night. The renovations would be carried out this summer if approved by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen.

The School Committee voted to request Mayor Monte G. Basbas to submit a measure for the appropriation of the funds to the Board of Aldermen. In matters affecting buildings, the School Committee can only make recommendations to the Mayor who has jurisdiction over the creation of any plans. The Aldermen can reject or cut proposals by the Mayor but cannot initiate or add to his proposals.

Gilleland explained that South High School, which was opened in 1960, was designed for 1500 pupils. In September of 1963, 1593 pupils were enrolled. In December of 1963, the School Board voted to make alterations to add to the number of classrooms available.

By September of 1966, 1635 pupils were enrolled and it is estimated that this September there will be about 1700 and in September of next year approximately 1750.

The changes suggested by Gilleland would involve the remodeling of four small book rooms and the departmental offices for classroom, seminar and tutoring space.

The departmental offices would be relocated in two locker room areas, and the book room would be set up in a second floor storage area.

The student lockers would be scattered in passage-ways throughout the building. In answer to a question by School Committeeman Francis P. Frazier, Gilleland affirmed that the lockers would actually be better distributed and closer to the student "houses."

The lockers, which now are 5½ feet by one foot square would be divided into an upper and lower half to be used by two students.

School Committeewoman Norman W. Mintz stressed that the recommended changes affected the teaching facilities at South High School and had nothing to do with a proposed swimming pool which has caused some controversy.

Mrs. Mintz added that she hoped that hereafter schools will be built anticipating growth.

Superintendent Charles E. Brown observed that the high schools have been affected by the unanticipated influx of families moving into Newton with children of secondary school age and by an increased tendency of children to go on from parochial schools to public high schools.

Brown commented that at Newton High School, counting Technical High School pupils, there will be over 2800 students next year. "We are getting within shouting distance," Brown said, "of the dark days before South High was built, when we reached 3300 pupils at Newton High School."

School Committeeman Manuel Beckwith maintained that the delay in replacing Newton High School is causing some of the crowding.

Wider Street Will Permit More Parking

The Board of Aldermen has approved the widening of Ash street in Auburndale in order to provide angle parking spaces for 33 cars.

The street is lightly traveled except on Sundays when worshippers attending Corpus Christi Church on Ash street crowd it. The Sunday traffic at present uses the Burr School parking lot. The Burr School, however, will be closed this month and demolished to make way for housing for the elderly and the parking lot will no longer be available.

The Newton Housing Authority requested the cut into the curbing to provide Sunday parking as well as parking for the housing project and its visitors.

The Aldermen required that a line be painted in the street indicating the old curb line so that cars will not protrude onto the street. Fences will be placed at each end of the parking area so that pedestrians will not go along the street in back of the parked cars but will follow the new curve of the sidewalk.

Multi-Family Houses Must Have Disposals

All new houses having three or more family units will be required to be constructed with garbage disposal units, that grind up garbage and wash it into the sewer system, the Aldermen decided Monday night. Mayor Monte G. Basbas had recommended that the requirement be adopted as part of Newton's zoning ordinances for all public housing multi-family dwellings. The Aldermanic Claims and Rules Committee suggested that such disposals be made obligatory for all multi-family dwellings, public or private, that are constructed after July 1.

Summer Jobs Available To Young People In This City

A questionnaire has been sent out by the Division of Employment Security, 290 Centre Street, Newton, to every employer in the area seeking summer jobs for young people. The Division office located in Newton Corner services the cities and towns of Newton, Watertown, Wellesley and Needham.

With the great influx of youth on the labor market and the emphasis on higher education more and more young people come to the office in June each year seeking summer jobs to help them pay their college expenses.

Students are accustomed to filling in on a variety of jobs during vacation. The file of summer applicants under 22 years of age has reached the 400 mark this year.

The summer of 1966 was one of the best summers for youth placement in the history of the D.E.S. Besides the work in the various offices, plants, restaurants, garages, etc. in the area the office is interested in work in private households, either inside or care of the grounds, cutting grass, pruning, etc.

Besides placement on summer jobs, the Division is interested in permanent placement of any young person not going on to college but going on the labor market full time. The office is prepared to give the General Aptitude Test to enable young persons to assess their potentials in order to know for what kind of work they are best adapted.

Counseling is also available to help the new entrant to the labor market set up a plan of action leading to the first rung on the ladder of the career in which he is interested. There is no charge for any of these services, counseling, testing or placement on a job.

This is the free State Employment Service set up by the government to help all workers in the area e arn their living. It is free to both citizen and non-citizen alike. There is no reason in this present labor market for anyone capable of work, available for work and actively seeking work not to have a job. The positions are there for the asking.

Those interested are asked to visit the State Employment Service, 290 Centre Street, Newton, and fill out an application. The interviewers are there to help. Also will any employer desiring summer help or other help call 969-9470.

Fire Damages Newton House

The award was established this year by the members of newly-graduated Class of 1967 as a tribute to Dr. Butterfield, who retires from Wesleyan on June 30 after 25 years in office.

According to terms expressed on the Butterfield Award Plaque, the award is to be presented annually "to that senior who has best exemplified those qualities of character, leadership and intellectual concern for the Wesleyan community as shown by Victor Lloyd Butterfield, 11th president of Wesleyan University, 1943-1967."

Putnam who was a Dean's List student and an elected member of Wesleyan Student Government, was earlier awarded the Griffin Academic Prize of $125 for excellence in the Department of Religion and a two-year Keasbey Foundation Scholarship of approximately $2,800 per year. He plans to begin graduate studies at the London School of Oriental and African Studies in October.

Putnam is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold O. Putnam of 137 Highland avenue, West Newton, and a graduate of Newton High School.

Rep. Bradley On Group Favoring District Change

Rep. Joseph G. Bradley of Newton was a member of the 21-man legislative committee that recently recommended changes in the Massachusetts Congressional districts. It would be the second time in the last few years that Newton has been shuffled from one congressional district to another if the plan is adopted by the Legislature and signed by Governor Volpe.
